FOREWORD

We had originally planned for the opening section of this book to be a study in contrast — the good old days as opposed to the way it is now. By examining various aspects of campus life we would show how the University of Arkansas has changed through the years. That it has changed is obvious; as obvious as a comparison of the newest building on campus (Futrell Hall, shown on the preceding page) with Old Main. But as we collected our pictures and wrote our copy we began to suspect that many of the changes were of a superficial nature. Old Main may be on the verge of collapse, but crowds of students still gather in front of it between classes. Now that our work is finished, we are left with the disquieting feeling that what we have shown is not so much contrast as continuity. That's life — PDS

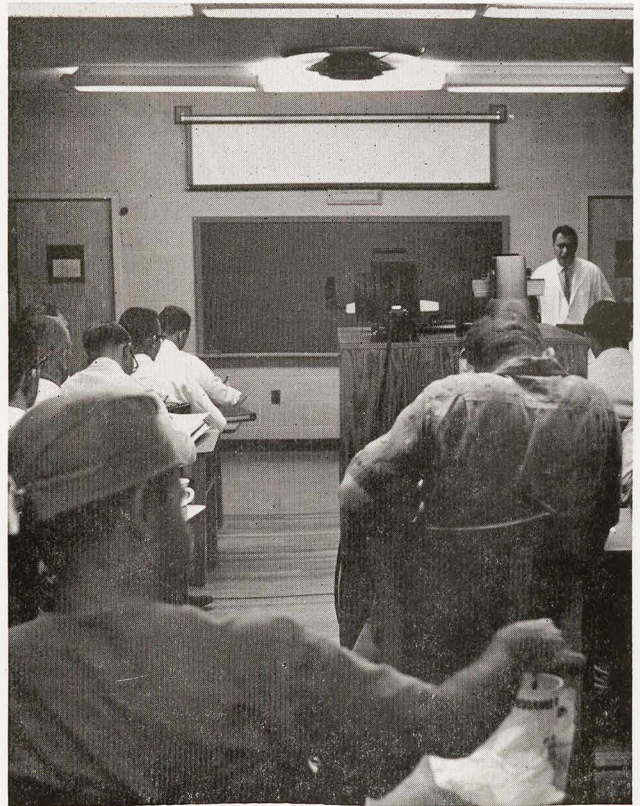

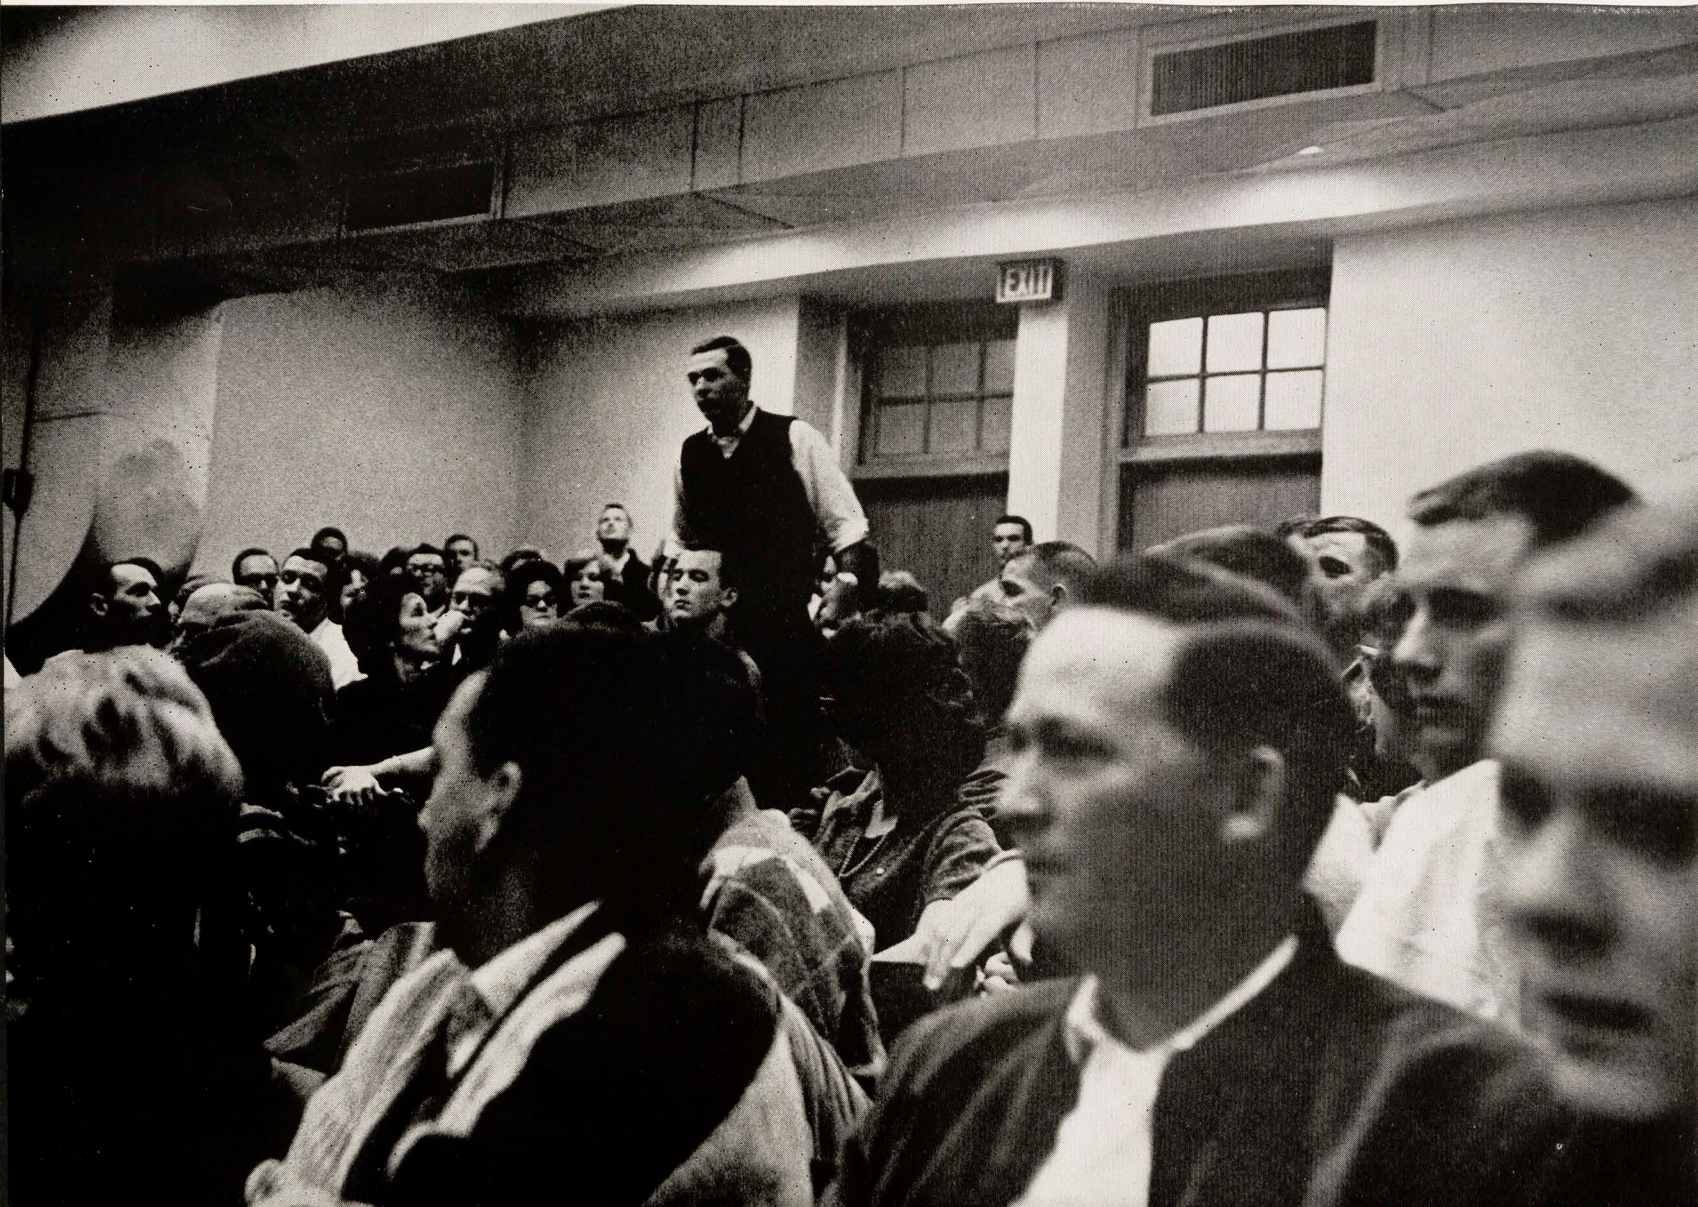

The Classes

The classes are larger now, much larger than in the old days. There were nine students in the first graduating class in 1875. In June, 1963, more than 1,200 received the sheepskin and the handshake. Size has its drawbacks; there is less time for personal instruction, for example. Today's student sometimes feels he's just another face in the crowd. There are compensations, of course, including a wider variety of classes and more opportunity to do advanced study.

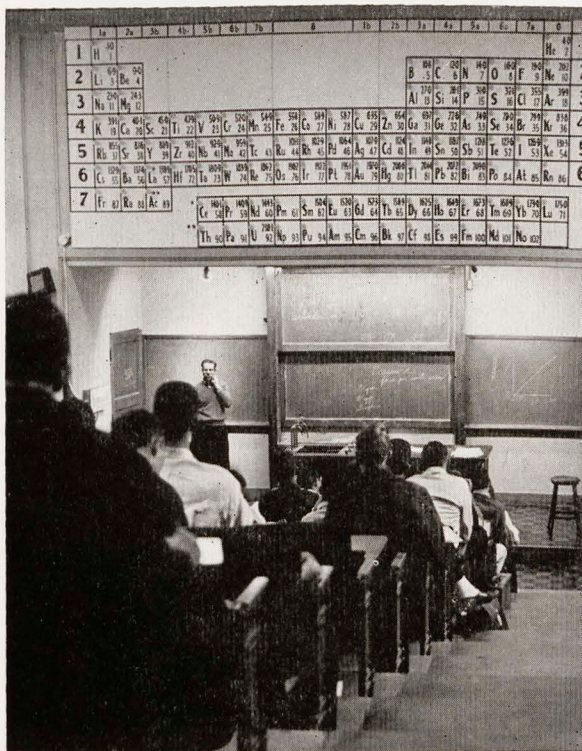

Some classes can be endured only with the aid of a good smoke.

The eager beaver who always has a question.

Class discussion (early 1930's).

The list of formulas gets longer every year.

And we don't go with girls that do (1934).

Torchlight parade builds spirit for big game.

The Good Times

So far as we can ascertain, the University has never had a reputation as a party school per se. But through the years, UofA students have subscribed to the theory, "All work and no play, etc. . .". More recently, there seems to have been a general tightening of social regulations. But we get around them as best we can.

Costume parties retain their popularity in spite of disapproving frowns from the administration.

The people who stay on the back row.

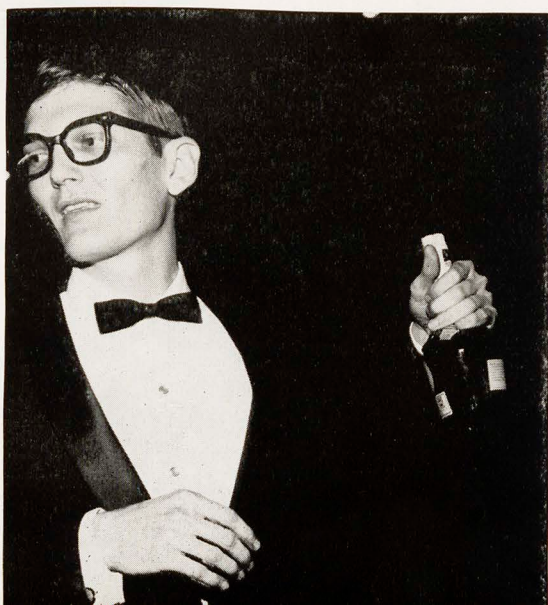

Hey, let's do the _____ (fill in the blank).

Why do you want to leave early?

Didn't they ramble? (1935)

To make good times better.

Christmas comes but once a year.

The Fighting Razorbacks (1906).

The Circus

Razorback football is better than ever. The senior of 1963 has, in his four years on campus, seen the Hogs compile a record of 33 wins, 7 losses, and participation in four straight bowl games. (We lost the last three, but why quibble?) We are BIG-TIME. The ghosts of men like Scott, Benton and Schoonover can lie still. Now we produce an All-American every year.

Separating the ends from the boys.

The Pilgrimage

Thoughts of an alumnus on Homecoming Day: "The girls are just as pretty as they used to be . . . the festive air, the frenzied quiet of an autumn day . . . The pathetic alumna attempting to recapture days gone by . . . The sinister fascination of the Bar and Grill . . . The mystery of knowledge atop the hill . . . These things I no longer feel but can still see." — Reprinted by permission of the Arkansas Alumni office.

Even royalty can lose its composure.

Homecoming Parade (1931).

On the Bench.

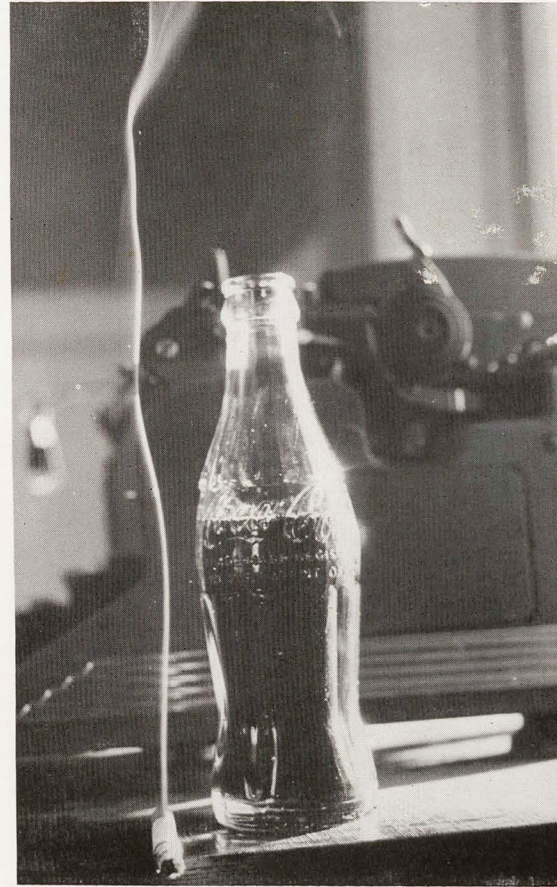

It sure is nice to win.

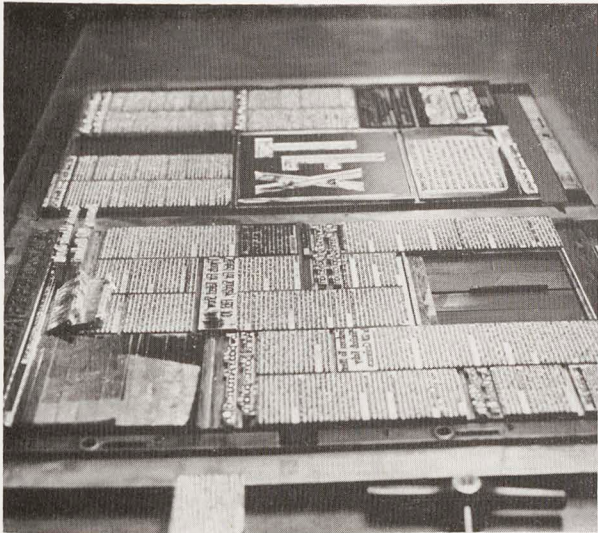

The boys in the pressbox.

The tools of the trade.

The Communicators

The very first yearbook at the University of Arkansas, published in 1897, began with a modest greeting from the editors: "Blessed are they who expect little, for they shall not be deceived." That aphorism might be as appropriate in 1963. Studying old copies of the RAZORBACK and the Traveler, one senses that they had a little more fun in those days. The price of progress, maybe. Or maybe they didn't have a Board of Publications to contend with.

Let's put it to bed.

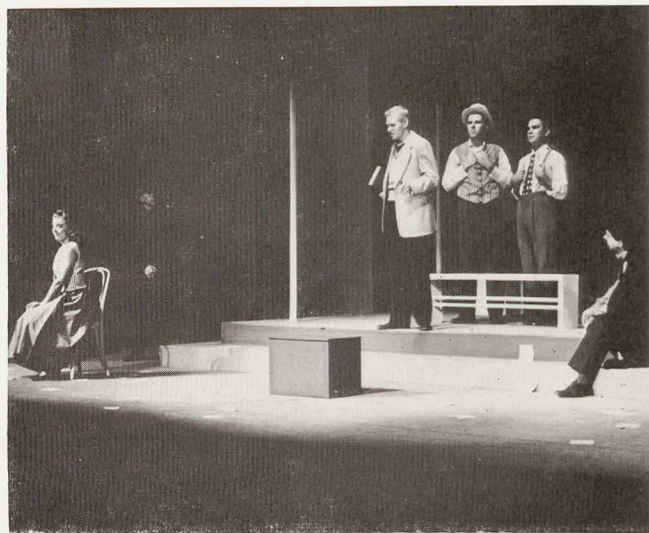

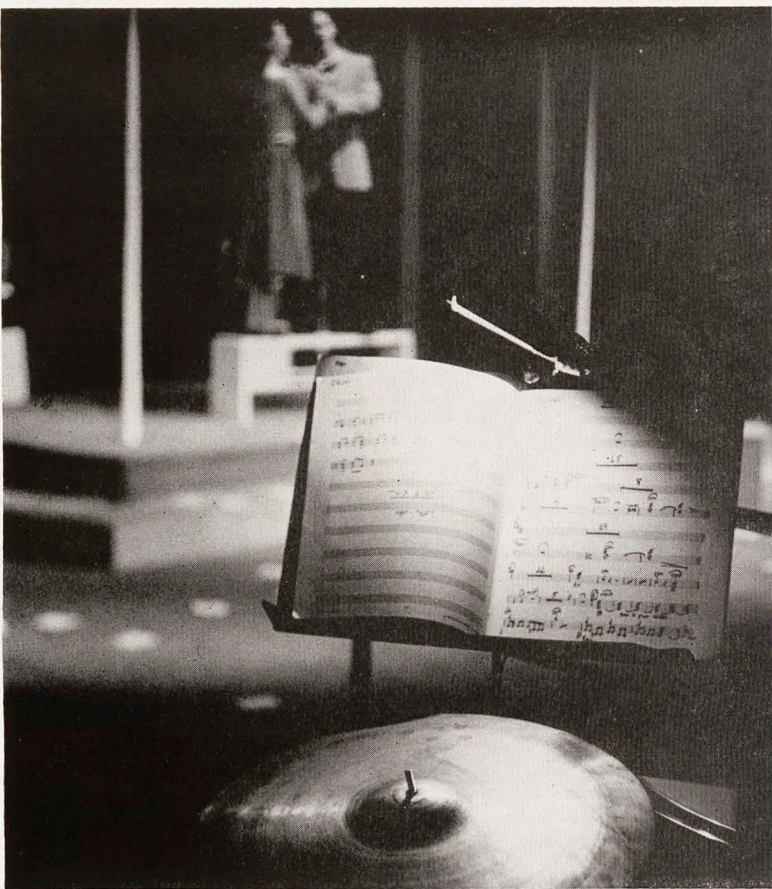

Newspaperman of the old school. (1935)

Photographers have a hard life.

Music Department cooperates with Drama Department.

Budding artist (1924).

And her modern-day counterpart.

Creative, but messy.

The incongruity of art.

The Finer Things

Probably the most admired building on the Fayetteville campus is the Fine Arts Center. The "Fruit Bowl", as it is affectionately called, and the success of groups like Schola Cantorum seem to indicate an increased appreciation of arts. Why, twenty years ago they didn't even have an arts section in the RAZORBACK.

The peons — 1963.

The Brass — 1939.

The Military

The green uniforms of the army are sharper than the old khakis. And, of course, the air force blue is a relatively recent arrival on the campus. Still, it seems that the average cadet is no more gung-ho now than he ever was. (And he may be considerably less so; we seem to have gotten more cynical lately.) But in spite of outside criticism, the ROTC program goes on. It is perhaps, the most unchanging of all campus activities.

ROTC and Old Main: a lot of staying power.

The exuberance of the cheerleader.

The regal loveliness of Homecoming.

The Women In Our Lives

At a school where the ratio of men to women is still uncomfortably high, femininity is a valuable commodity. Women on the University campus, unlike some minority groups, do not have to crusade for equal rights — their rights are more than equal already. They are the elite. Our women have never gone unappreciated.

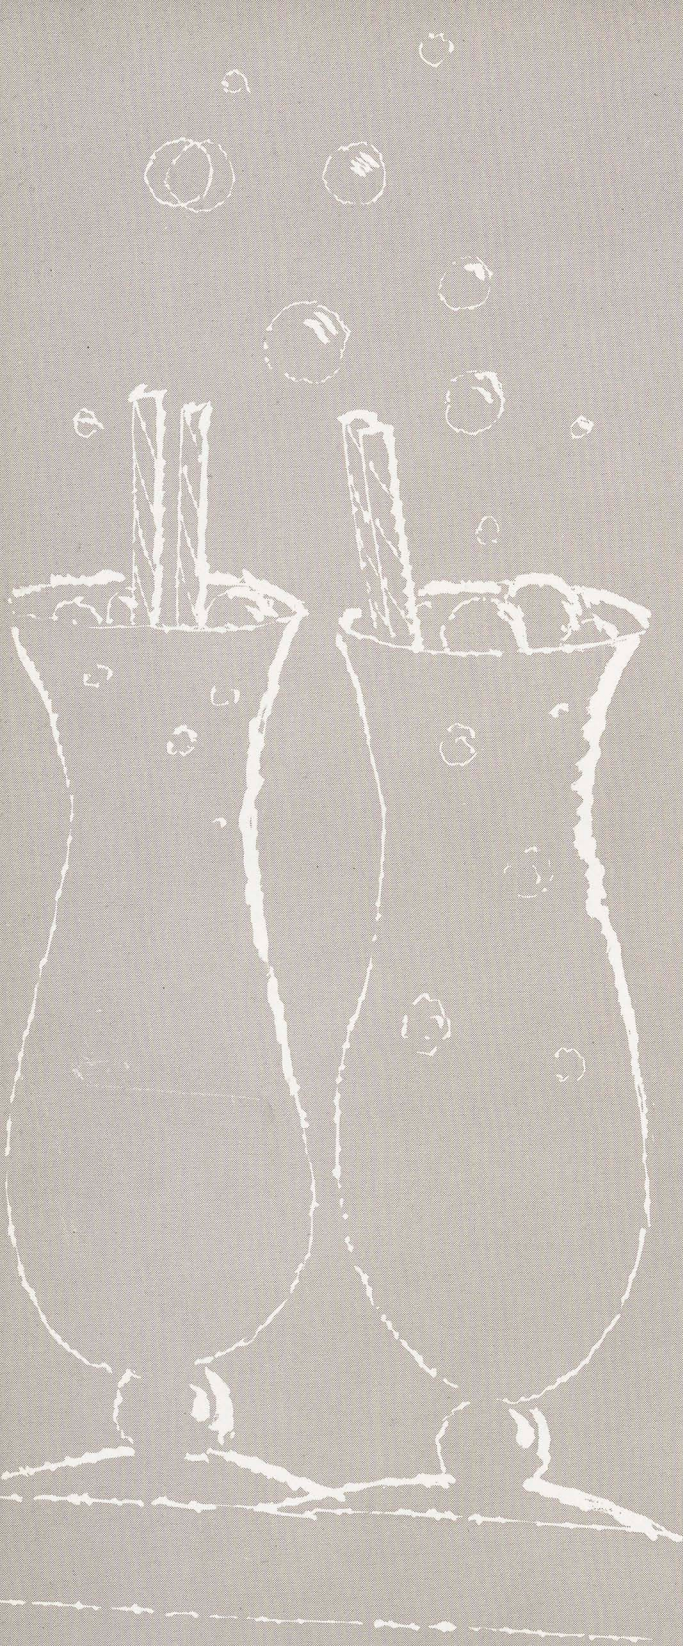

Betty Coed (1927).

The poised sex of the ROTC sponsor.

And the fresh good looks of Arkansas's (and America's) most beautiful majorette.

FEATURES

So another year at the University of Arkansas has ended. We have tried here to preserve some of the things that made it what it was — whatever it was. We know that it was built from the usual raw materials: parties, exams and various types of human relationships. Was it a "good" year or a "bad" year? Perhaps we're still too close to it to say. Or perhaps the whole question is irrelevant. Whatever it was, it was ours.

Rusha, Rusha, Rusha

The time is September, and it is raining. This is the way the year begins, with Rush. It is raining at the Tri Delt, where sophomore girls who have been waiting for a long year huddle under umbrellas. Barbara Duncan waves from the door, and Sue Ellen Dill spots the Razorback photographer. You can almost smell the rain, the leaves, and the Tri Delt house. It is Rush.

This is a Pi Kappa Alpha rush skit. It is a good skit, as the Pikes have practiced it many years. Every fraternity has a few good tricks to get rushees. One never knows who one will get, however. Sometimes one does not get anyone. Ask Pike.

Fall of 1962 brought to the Greeks the biggest rush in campus history. Led by Paul Berry, they did the best they could to follow him. He led them through tours, skits, returns, and the final night of decisions and phone calls. It was a week when some felt confident, and some knew they were culls, but most wore white shirts, and smiles, and their hearts on their sleeves. An unusual number of boys old enough to know better sweated and cried and hugged each other. The fraternities issued a record number of bids, and pledged a record number of men. Despite threats from the independent machine, strange medieval banners appeared before the Student Union, and the Greeks took in brothers to guarantee the immortality of their system for another year. The immortals were celebrated in song by Paul Berry, whose songs were not well received at the Pi Phi house. Pi Phis are also immortal, as their house is next door to Sigma Chi. Sigma Chis are immortal as they are in great numbers pinned to Chi Omegas. Chi Omegas were founded here. Many independents do not understand the Greeks. Many Greeks do not understand each other. This is the beautiful mystery of rush week.

Even the most cold-hearted rushers admit that rushees are wonderful. They laugh a lot, cry a little. This is Cy Robinson, not a rushee. Why the hell is he here?

You Win Some And You Lose Some

Artistic photographer gets shot every year through door of Kappa Sigma house. Rushee in picture is Guy Watkins, who will pledge elsewhere. Who knows what they are talking about? Next year there will be another artistic photo. Perhaps Kappa Sigs will be clever enough to pledge subject, avoiding bad publicity.

Some rush skits were clever and used funny costumes. Top photo does not show one of these. Girls below were clever and had enough sense not to let photo catch them in funny costumes.

Photo below has no rush connection, but is full of suspense. Linebarger, Rimmel and Madame X discuss apartment party to which they are invited. Will there be rushees at this party?

Pikes sit around and damn furniture committee which has not provided place for rushees to sit down. Pikes have some furniture, which is not seen in this picture. It is in the next room.

Pat Trimble, Chi Omega doctor, and mystery Kappa clown got good response in rush. Acacians, however, sit and damn furniture committee which has not provided place for rushees to sit down. Acacians have some furniture, all shown here.

Congratulations and Condolences

As rush neared a climax, Schola Cantorum arrived in the wee hours of the morning. Razorback Hall opened its doors, and the singers slept to a concert by rushees. In the daylight, Schola boarded their bus, and traveled around the block to the library, where they were cheered, and the University took credit for it all.

Then boys poured out of the Union, received one last hug and slap on already sore backsides. The sororities sang their girls in and the show was over. Best ending to the whole mess was for new fraternity man and sorority woman to walk hand in hand through the afternoon. Perhaps, they think, it was worth it. It is September, after the rain. This is the way the year begins, with rush. You can almost smell the wind, the leaves, and the rush.

The white carnation is the flower of Chi Omega. So is Cecilia Swaim, who bcsts Psi of Chi with final word to this rushee.

The eternal University lives again as new Greeks join arms in love to walk over broken, cracked sidewalk past run-down student center.

Despite threats from rush chairman, crowd presses stairs of Union so rushees must be thrown overhead. Despite warnings from Dean, rushees run down marble stairs which independents have greased.

The University's real heroes, Schola Cantorum, arrived to glory after concerts all over Europe. Not to be outdone, administration offered a welcoming concert of long speeches, cut short by a sudden downpour of rain. Still smiling, a grateful Schola went home to bed.

Here We

Unfinished Futrall welcomed girls with sign as boys carried luggage. Girls took it in stride as the greeters made excuses, but parents, seeing primitive conditions, knew University had changed very little since they were in attendance.

Girl meets boy, as disgusting age-old story of college romance begins one more performance. Girl suspects boy's pin is not from Grade-A fraternity; boy suspects girl is giving him a line. Both suspect housemother is peeking.

Come, Ready or Not

Man in picture does not drive sharp car; he will be sent to poor parking space in mud.

Girl in picture does not wear sharp dress; she will not get to hear off-color joke from worker.

Girl in this picture is sharp, but Futrall has no phones or dates. It is not sharp.

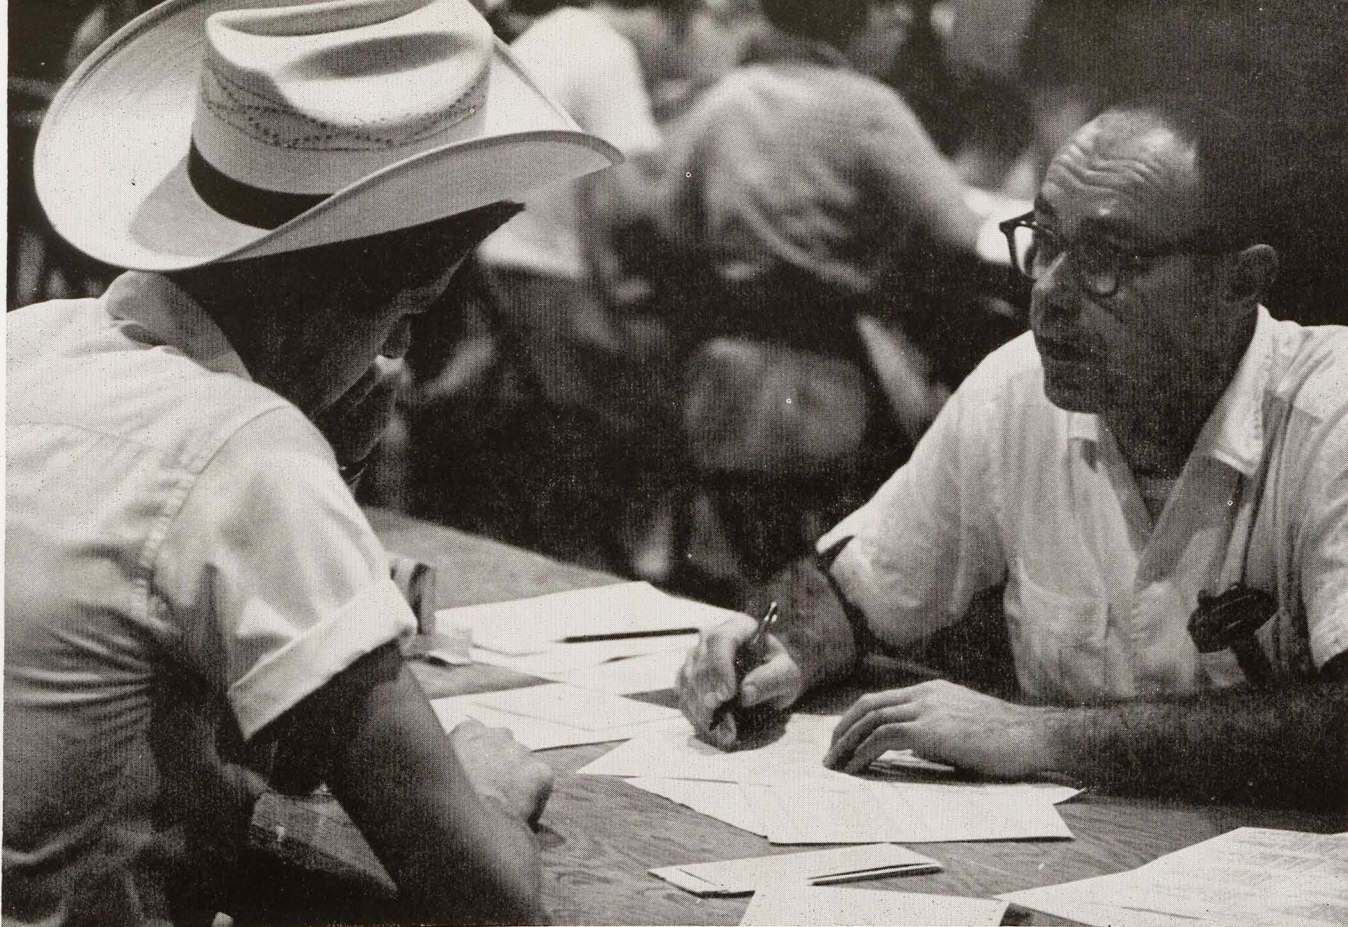

The Sound and the Fury

Price of admission to this farce is $100. See if you can find your advisor in the picture. See if you can find your advisor the next time you register. All the advisors send their freshmen to the Dean's table. All the Deans are gone but their secretaries will send you to the checker's table. The checkers send you back for a ROTC card. The ROTC men get some sharp boys this way.

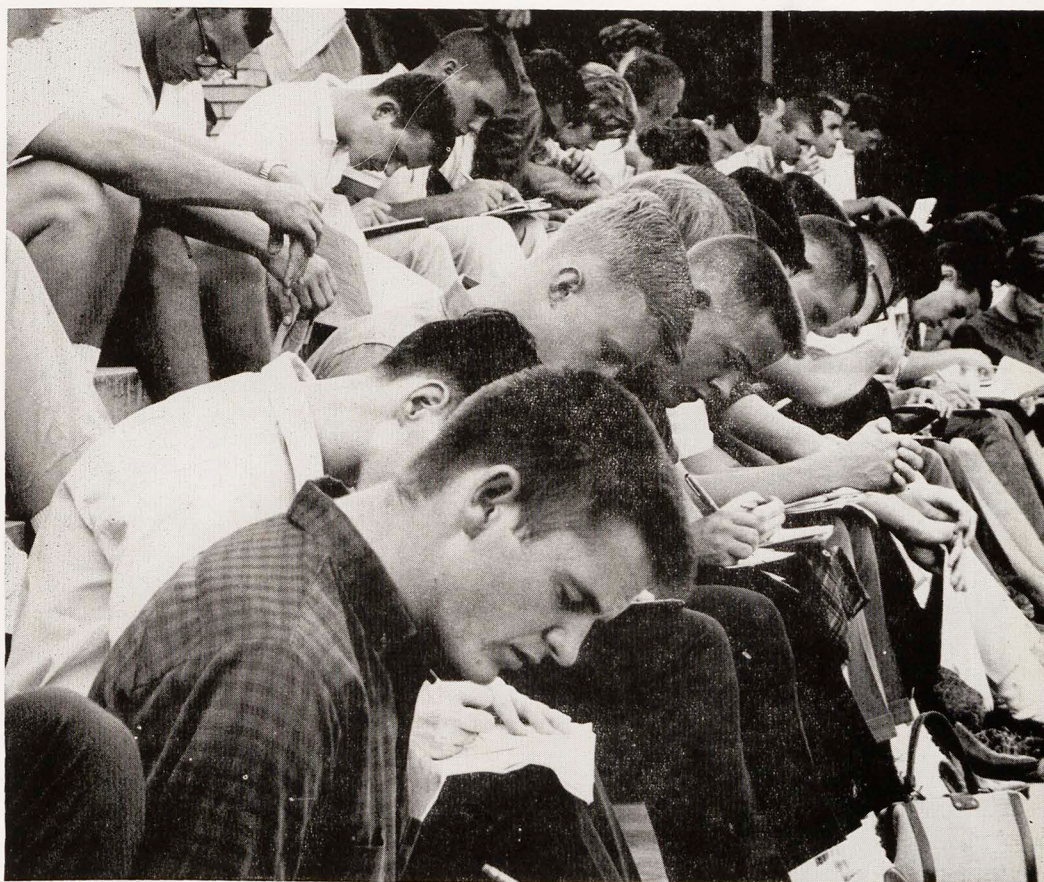

See the happy agri student as he prepares for animal husbandry. He would like to take foods, but the girls have closed that class already. Did you ever hear the story about the agri student who was majoring in animal husbandry until he was caught at it?

To the students who had just finished rush or had just moved into their dorms, it was unbelievable that there could be anything more exciting. Then came registration, and the long slow process of turning freshmen into college students began. To the older hands, it seemed that registration was easier than it used to be. The IBM machine was securely in control of the situation, but the class cards were late again. The usual confusion of deans, advisors, checkers, cards, and lines made everyone wonder just how anyone ever manages to graduate. Still, the usual crowd made out the extra card that said Degree Application and crossed their fingers in hopes that the one remaining requirement would not close before they could get into a class. It was a record enrollment for the University, and it was all done in three days.

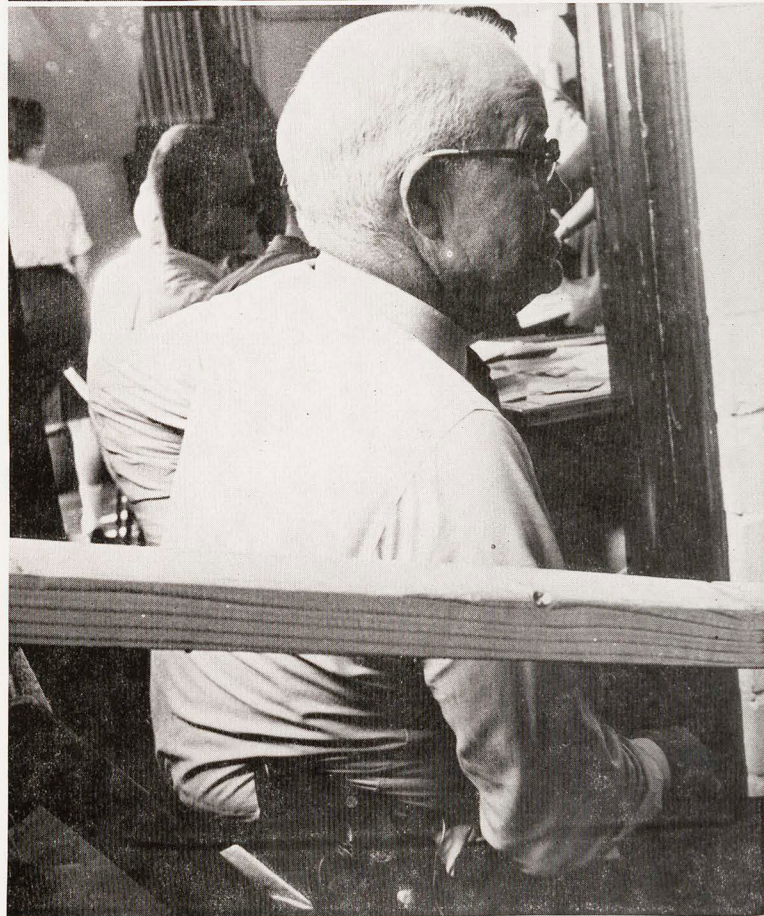

These happy boys and girls are taking a test to determine whether they will flunk regular English or ace honors English. Only a very thin line divides the two.

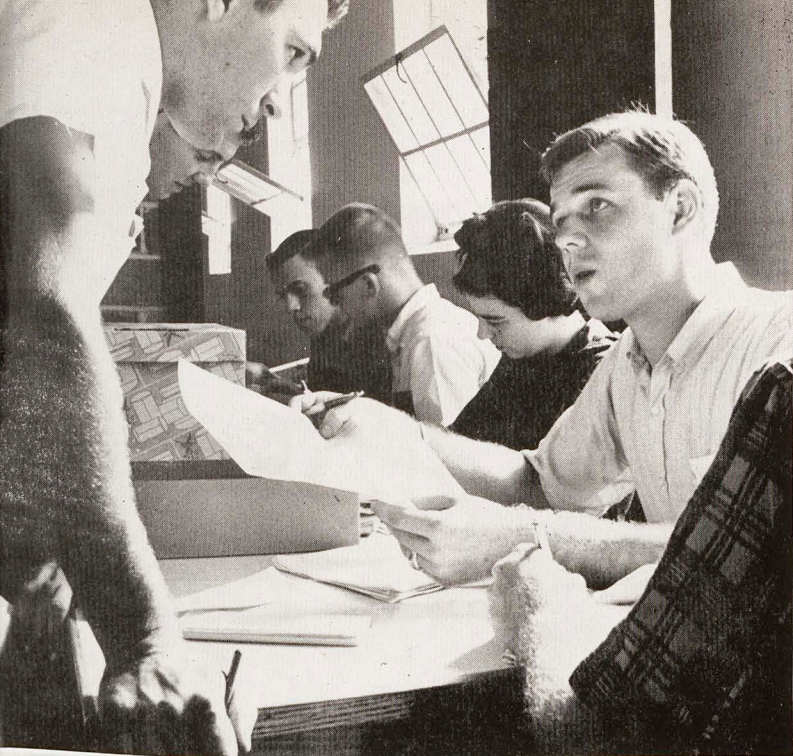

Long Lines and Short Tempers

Lady at right, below, inquires if her bus has left yet. Her advisor does not have bus schedule, but gives her a ticket to the Dean's table. Lady is obviously not buying this story.

Arrogant look is seen on checker's face as she sends students back for more. Campus cop, center, will not permit escape tried by the weak spirited. Harassed student, on bottom as usual, rests and tries to decide on method of suicide to use.

Concert and Controversy

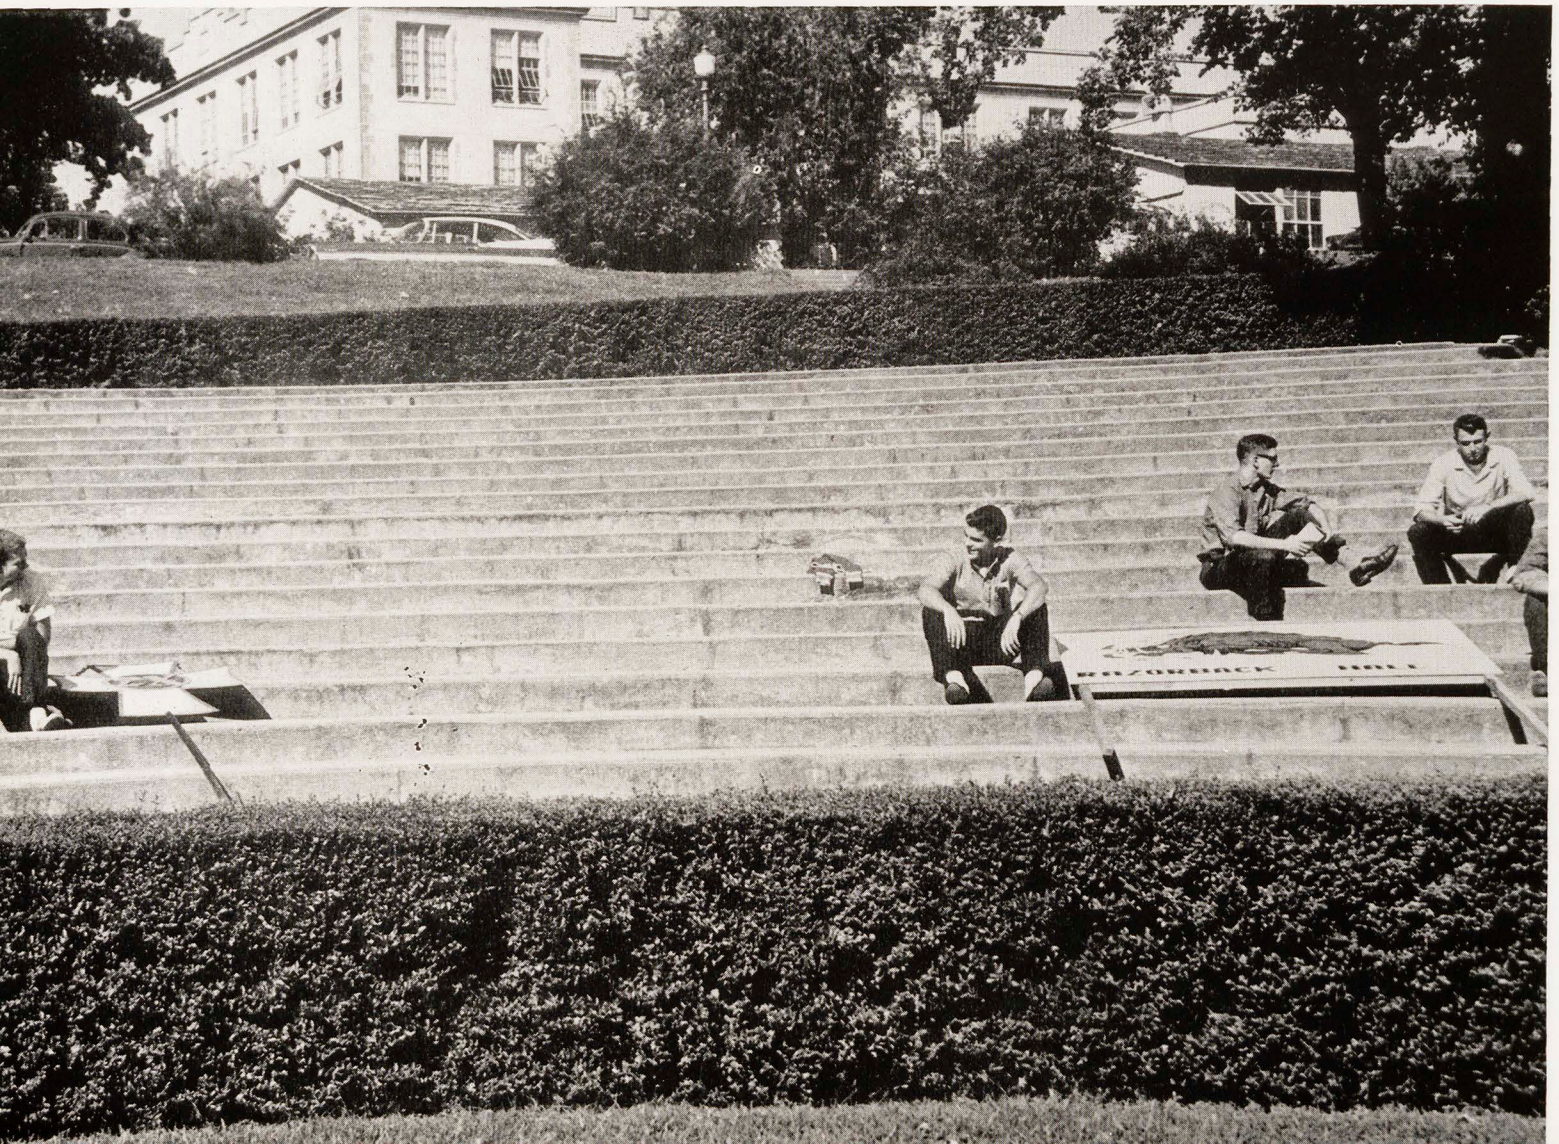

With registration over, students found various ways to entertain themselves. Opening comedy of season was feud for pep rally seats. Stirred by radicals in Razorback Hall, independents made grab for traditional Greek seats. Parade of mystic banners and chapter secrets by Greeks did little to move barbarians. Threat of physical violence brought hard feelings, some compromise, and mostly the Dean of Students. Dwight Holley acted as chief negotiator for compromise solution of assigned seats. This pleased nobody, as is customary. Gross independents yelled loudly at pep rallies, knowing no better, but by the last game, the theater was half empty again.

Four Freshmen, billed as campus favorites, came and sang to capacity audience. All agreed that they cost entirely too much money, but were much funnier than MC's for pep rallies. Four Freshmen were only slightly risque, did not get on probation. Some MC's were slightly risque also, received everything that they so richly deserved.

Freshmen from Razorback Hall arrive early in the afternoon to stake out seats for the pep rally, squarely in the middle of what had traditionally been Greek territory. Mob violence was averted when Dean of Students stepped in and assigned seats on rotating basis.

Guitar player brushed up on his chords before going on stage. Freshmen were first of several vocal groups to appear during year.

Appearing on the University campus for what seemed the 100th time, Four Freshmen entertained with light music and pleasant repartee.

As semi-nude majorettes twirled fire batons and band music groaned forth, senior members of football team were introduced at first pep rally. Toilet paper thrown by Humphreys Hall made it impossible for crowd to see, but they applauded their heroes vigorously.

“My Cup

Importance of observing the enemy is stressed by ROTC officer who holds up number of sponsor candidate. Taking cue from leader, men in crowd make careful estimate of situation before casting their vote. Bad manners were displayed by some, who made crude remarks.

Patriotic Dot Harkey does her duty to country by raising morale of troops. ROTC sponsor contest is only one of the many interesting events of the year which keep morale of the University student body at fever pitch.

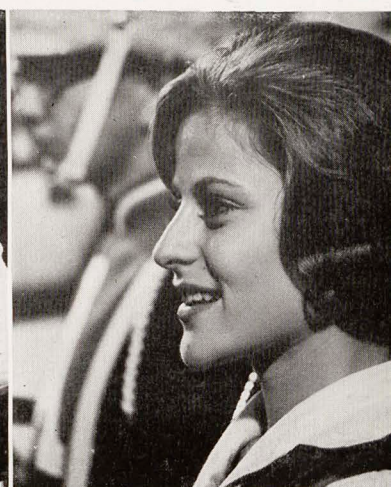

Runneth Over"

Distinguished lecturers on campus remind students to think about intellectual life.

Job interviews on campus remind seniors to think about getting a job next year.

Majorettes on campus remind male students that there are other nice things to think about.

A Win on Dad's Day-- Finally

Hint of a smile creeps across face of father of Razorbacks Ken and Dick Hatfield as he observes the crowd behind him. Several fathers of Razorbacks showed up for the game, but Mr. Hatfield was the only one with two numbers on the back of his chair.

Good old sign is brought out for one more tour of duty as the Union is decorated to welcome dads. The weekend was also a time for feasting the legislature, with an eye on coming session. Legislature ignored hint and enjoyed itself.

Every year in October the University sets aside one Saturday to honor its most bountiful patron — Good Old Dad. Yes, your dad and mine, God bless them, have their day. And what a day — filled with all those things that gladden Dad's heart: the beauty of autumn in the Ozarks; the excitement of a football game, even when viewed from the end zone. (Legislative Weekend happens to coincide with Dad's Day. Guess who gets the good seats.) And best of all the feeling of pride when Dad looks at his very own offspring, shoed and curried and full of knowledge, and knows that it has all been worthwhile. These things Dad will remember, one hopes, when the checks marked "over-drawn" start coming in.

Oh yes. The Razorbacks broke tradition by winning the Dad's Day game this year.

Tough twirler McCullom beats bass drum, reads magazine and gives the bad eye to the gridiron as game gets under way. Hogs were inspired to victory.

Who's Snowing Whom

Dejected Baylor bear and trainer huddle on the sidelines as Hogs take early lead. Baylor team later perked up; mascot didn't.

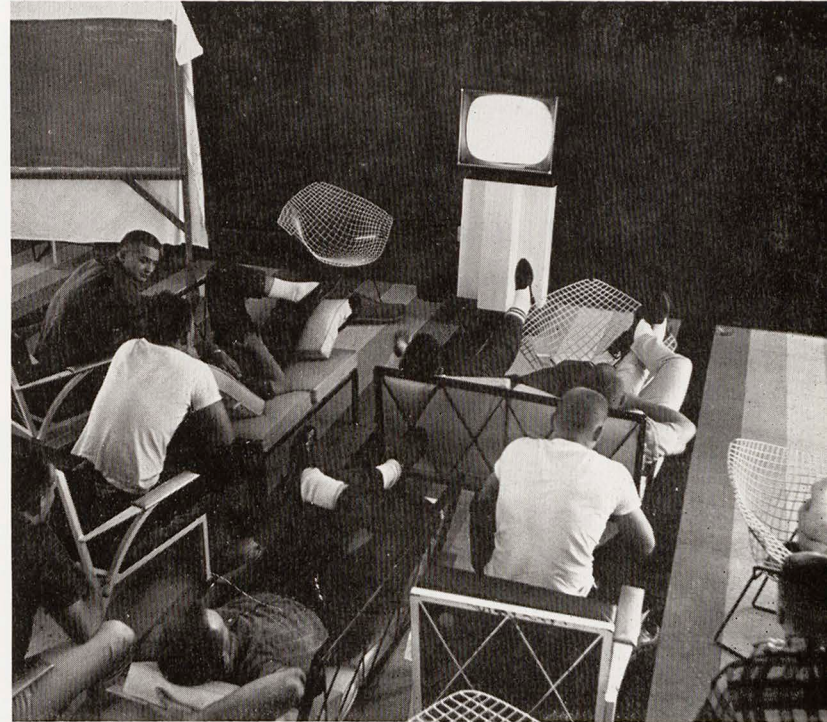

Senator McClellan, who doesn't really have to do this sort of thing, and President Mullins try to snow state legislators (top), as do campus big shots Ralph Brodie and Barbara Duncan (center). High-school majorette (in addition to everything else, it was Band Day) snowed all the male band members who were present.

Cuban crisis brought students flocking to television sets to watch developments. Draft-eligibles were especially interested.

Federal Career Days, held in SU, was highly successful according to Placement Office. Missiles, appropriately, were featured.

Workmen scaled scaffolds to do repair work on BA building, part of University's "Build dormitories and repair classrooms" program.

The Snake Pit

Like death and taxes, the Sigma Nu Relays are unavoidable. They are, unfortunately, an entrenched part of campus life and as such, some notice must be taken of them. This may sound like an apology for including the Relays in the RAZORBACK. It is.

Delta Delta Delta won the 1963 Relays, for whatever that's worth. Several people got tossed in the pit. And everyone had a good time, supposedly.

Elsewhere, over coffee in the Union and beer at George's, talk turned to politics — another unavoidable part of campus life. The Student Senate began getting itself involved in the controversy that was to last most of the year. Something about reorganization. And those hardy perennials, the Young Democrats and Young Republicans, did their fall proselytism.

Sigma Nu's — the abominable snowmen — leave their mark on this coed. Boys from other frats always like for their girls to participate because of great prestige connected with getting completely dirty. Dates are hours late due to need for post-relay clean-up.

Coated with mud but still smiling, Tri-Delt Carol Rather emerges from pit where she and several others were tossed by Snake pledges.

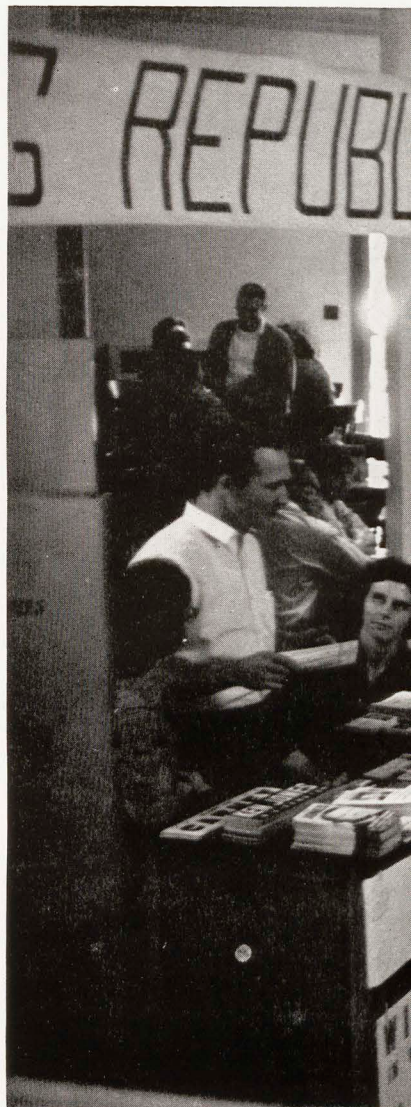

This event is known as the "tubby tube race". Sororities try to hide their tubbier girls inside the little black rings of rubber.

Clinging to rope, Kappa Sue Lloyd is dragged the length of the pit.

Snug-fitting blue jeans are most popular apparel for the Relays.

Getting

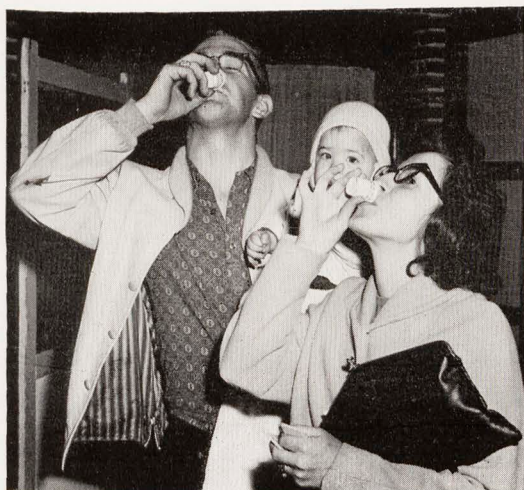

Aspiring politicians from opposing faith do evangelistic work in SU within spitting distance of each other. As a rule, Young Democrats are more numerous in Fayetteville but Young Republicans are louder.

Campus politicians Bill Coe and David Watkins, treasurer and vice president of the student body respectively, plot cool moves at Senate meeting.

Out the Votes

With an eye on health, students and families crowded Student Union to drink polio vaccine.

Arkansas Career Days drew businessman and student together, proved itself a success.

Driven out by fire, girls from Scott House found home in infirmary during repairs.

Desire, Determination, Defeat

Southwest Conference victory almost in grasp, students turned out for Beat Texas week. Madness seized crowds in front of library as sagging school spirit found a boost, although coffee drinkers in Union refused to bet on outcome of game without favorable odds.

Bonfire was carefully guarded to keep malcontents from lighting it early. The event proved enormous success, as many fraternities gave trash from back yards to remove previously bad odors. Inspired by such generous gestures, the crowd cheered.

In the middle of the whirl of fall activities, what had been just another football season suddenly caught fire. It may have been the sudden realization that all-time conference records were within reach, or it may have been the coming of cool weather, but as the big one approached, Arkansas became again a football school.

Faced with the prospect of a game in Austin, Razorback rooters threw themselves behind the idea of a Beat Texas Week. There were daily rallies, then the big one. Led by the band, students refused to go home, and paraded from house to house in one of the best displays of spirit in years. The team was ready, and the school, to the last freshman, was behind them.

The word from Austin, whether by TV, radio, or in the stands, was bitter — but some consolation was to be found in hopes for an upset of the Longhorns later, with a bowl for the Hogs nearly sure anyway.

Picking up books once again, it was back to the Union and to class, to wait and hope.

It only cost a dime to help the Hogs, so girls opened purses and boys fumbled among cigarettes and change to find a dime and sign the telegram.

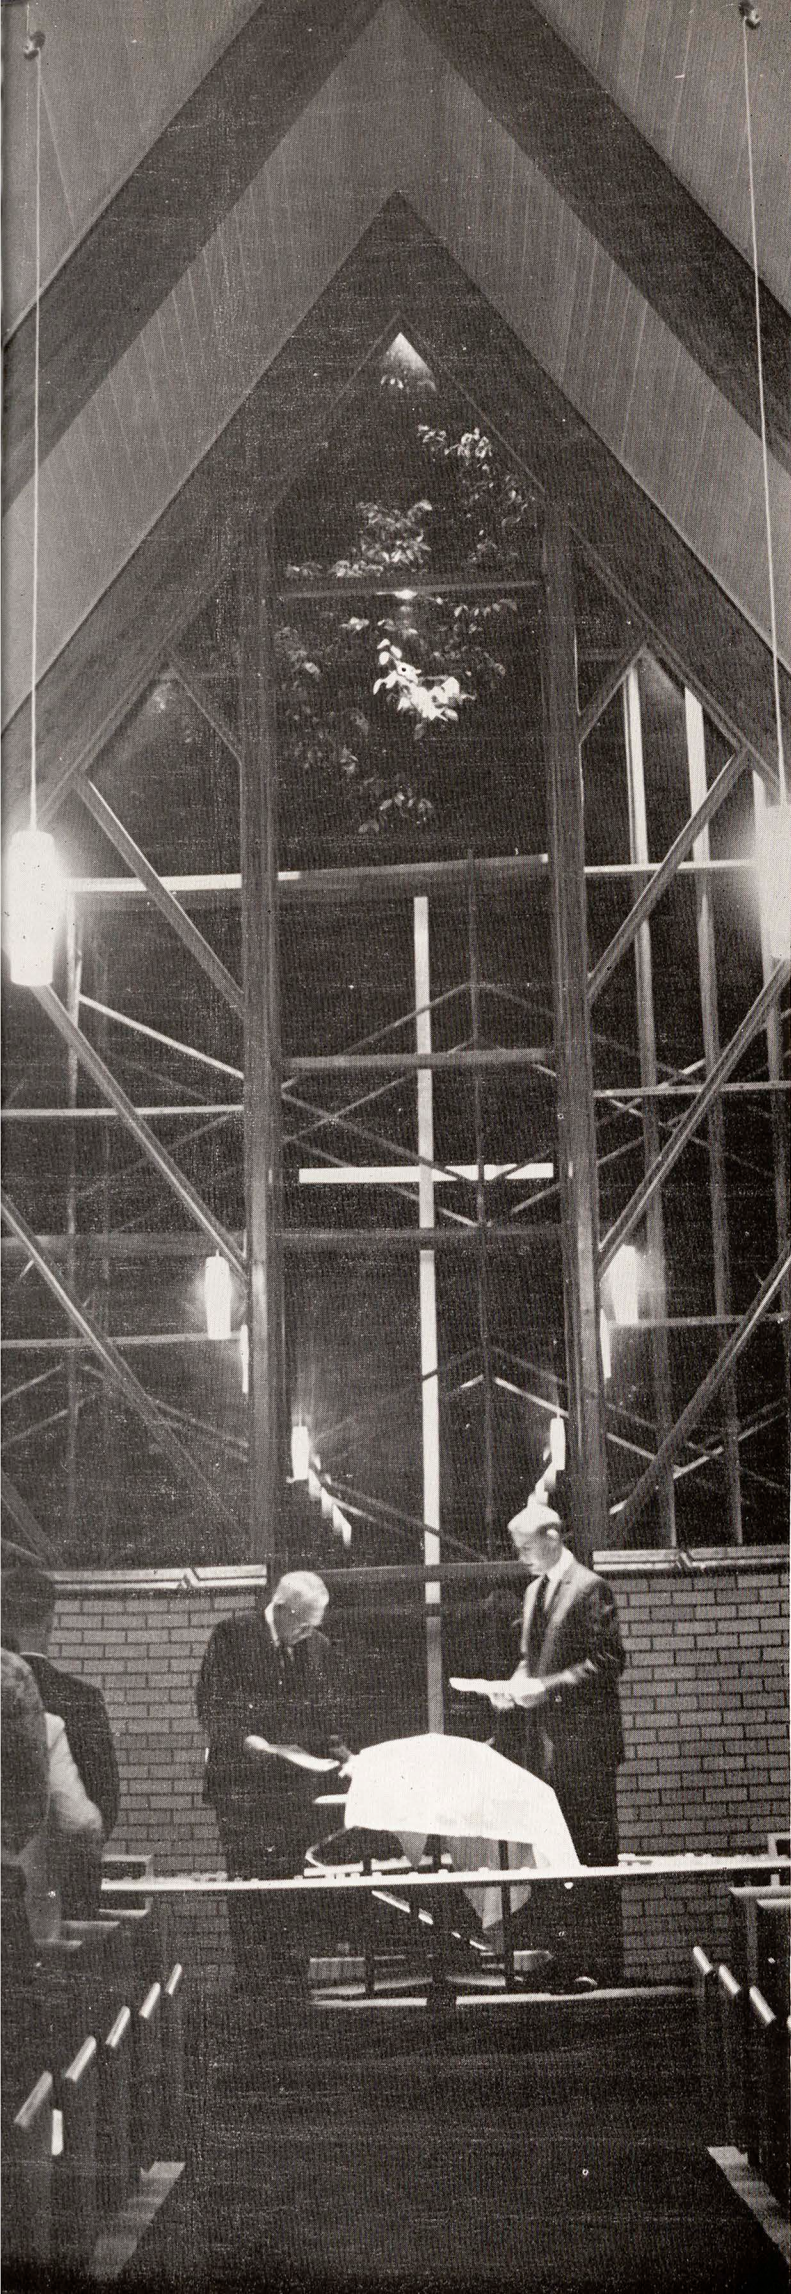

Plays, Piety, Pulchritude

With a quick stroke of a brush, actor grows older as he prepares for another University Theater play. The theater was both praised and attacked by critics, but public support remained high.

Always a bad actor, the Fayetteville weather reminded students that the year was getting older and the first half of the play almost done. Students came close to a white Christmas for the first time in several years. Freshmen women put on longer skirts, and the disappointed males went back to studying, of a sort.

Searching for truth, or possibly a pep rally, students light the Fayetteville gloom with torches in moment of glory.

Moment of glory also came to the homecoming royalty as Queen and court heard band play their fight song for the Razorbacks.

Still searching for truth, students and clergy opened new Methodist Chapel of the Cross with ancient communion service. Building was the climax of years of work and service by Dr. A. W. Martin of Wesley Center. Visitors found the chapel an impressive addition to the buildings on University hill.

Home Again, Home Again

Crisis threatened as students found themselves faced with tests on homecoming week. Administration and faculty apologized for slip-up, but tests proceeded. Greeks threw themselves on a twenty-four hour shift as members and pledges studied and built, took a break for coffee and No-Doz, and went back to building and studying. Fulbright, Futrall and the other women's houses used ancient tricks to lure men to help them. Final result was another magnificent homecoming, falling grade points, and exhaustion.

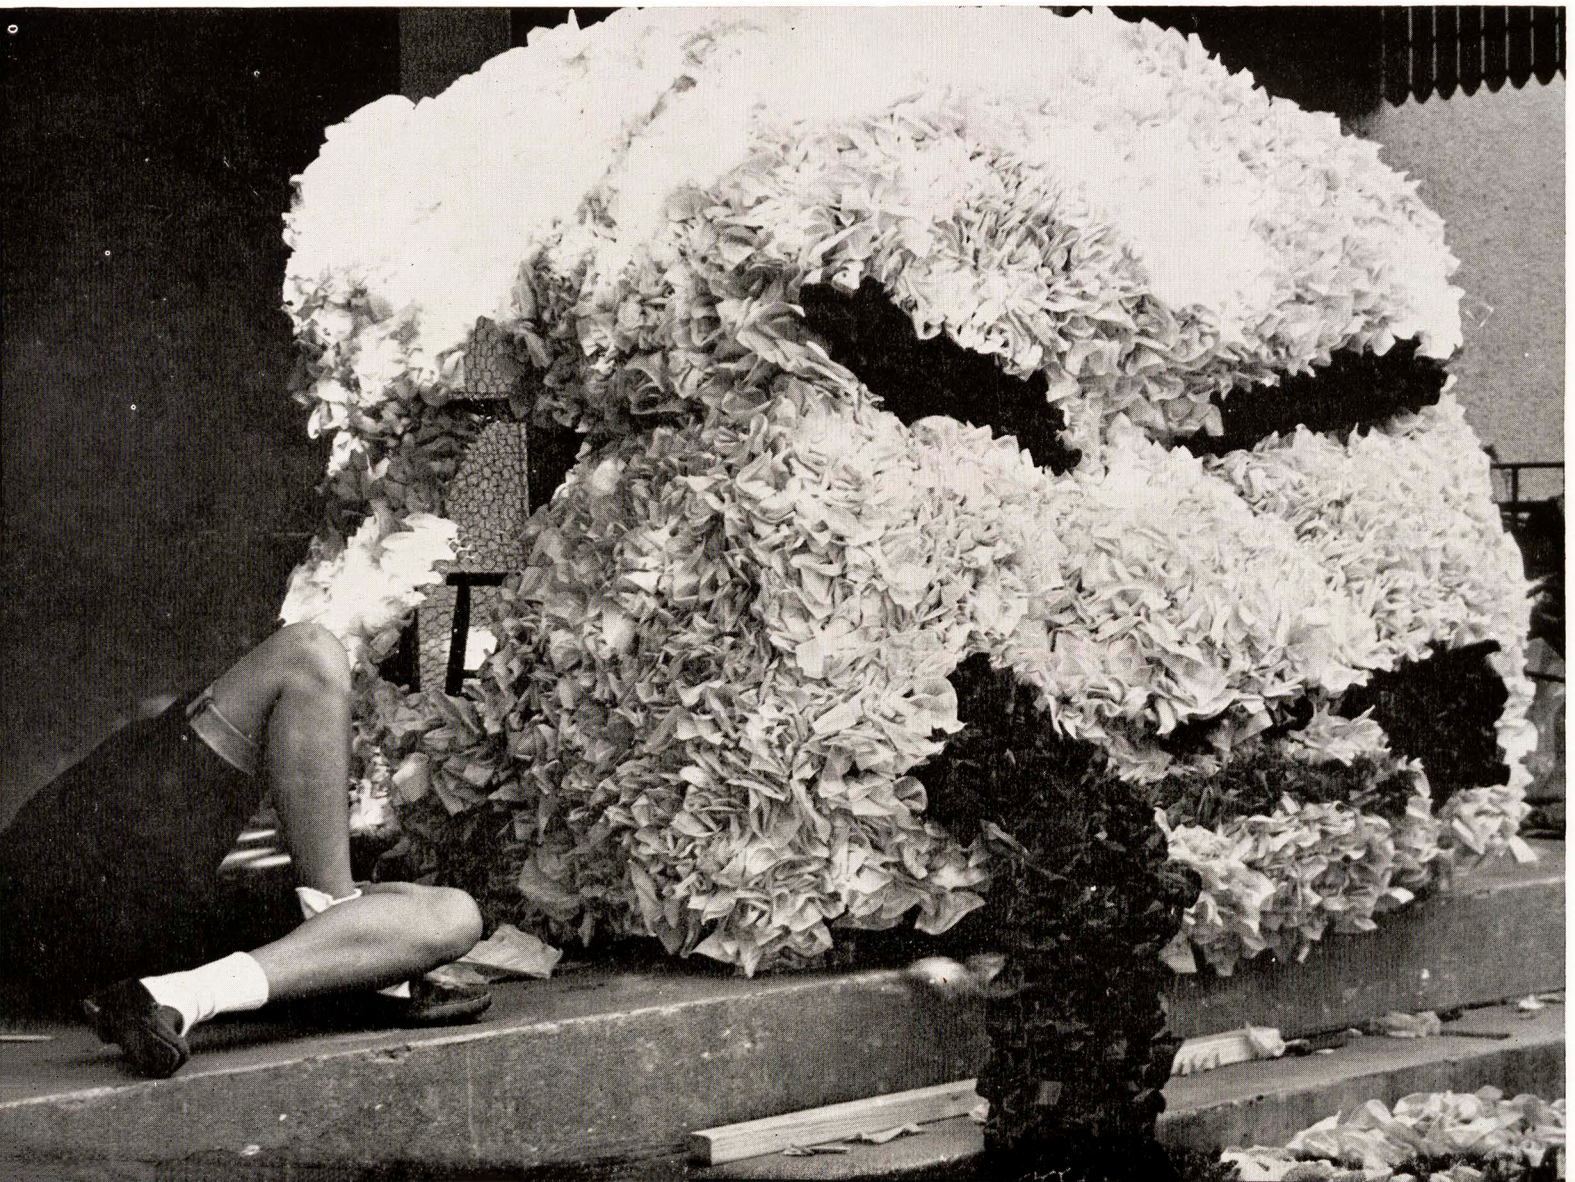

Alums gathered for the singing of old songs and dinners in the old houses. Then under perfect weather, the parade down Stadium Drive began. Once again, the red vest and mink stole and Razorback whiskey did their duty. As thousands stood in silence, the band played the Alma Mater which linked the crowd once again into a University.

Women cried, men grinned, and students cheered. It was a fine homecoming.

This mass of crepe paper will be a Chinaman's head, as designer knows. Legs at left belong to good-looking Kappa who is expert in Chinese paper-stuffing. Chinese also invented printing, which is why no one can understand the stuff in the Traveler.

Same old Student Union greets the alumni with the same old sign used since 1946. The alums understand, and are proud to be back at same old University just the same.

God only knows how many years this lady has ridden in Homecoming parades. When not riding horses, she drives a Rolls-Royce.

Having worked for many hours, the Chi Omegas placed sign on their lawn to warn judges of their intentions. The judges were impressed by design, color, and threat of sudden death. They awarded first place trophy, proving that confidence pays.

Long

Through the traditional band formation of Old Main, the court advances for the crowning of the queen. Confused students with cards form "U" which may have something to do with Governor Faubus on other side of the field.

Enjoying the comfortable grass, greased pig decides to sun himself. This lack of vigor brought quick end to scheduled hog chase.

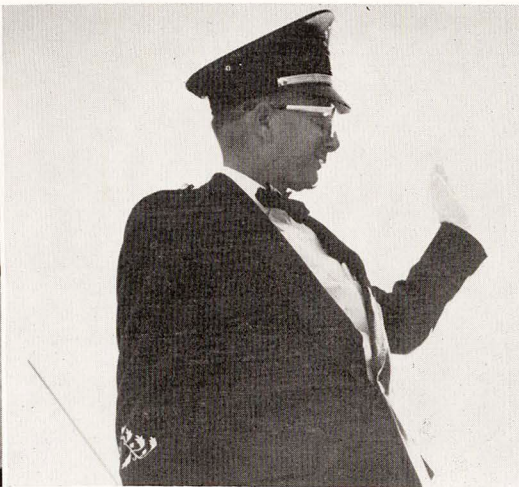

Live the Queen

No game would be complete without the police standing by or a little boy watching the band.

Neither police nor little boys can delay "Doc" and the band—who are ready for big fanfare.

Big fanfare is just too much for a little girl to take without protest, even on Homecoming day.

Sunshine and Songs

Indian summer is a Fayetteville tradition in a special University way. There is something about the warm afternoon before a crisp night that encourages laziness, and even an English teacher on the way home can stop and admire the technique of a Campus Policeman as he gives a ticket. The owner of that car is inside paying a traffic ticket. Ah, life.

Peter, Paul and Mary were second vocal group to appear at invitation of entertainment committee. Their "folk songs" — commercial but well-done — captivated a capacity crowd in Men's Gym. Mary was particularly well-received by boys. She is the one in the middle.

With football season drawing to a close, students sought other ways to entertain themselves. Aside from what you're thinking, there was a concert by Peter, Paul and Mary, and after that there was Singfony.

Singfony was bigger than ever, with a record crowd of over 1,200 attending. Kappa Kappa Gamma and MIHC won first place in the women's and men's divisions, respectively. Holcombe Hall and Off-Campus Men placed second, and Fulbright Hall and Phi Delta Theta were third.

After Singfony, there were the Christmas parties, at which cute gifts were exchanged.

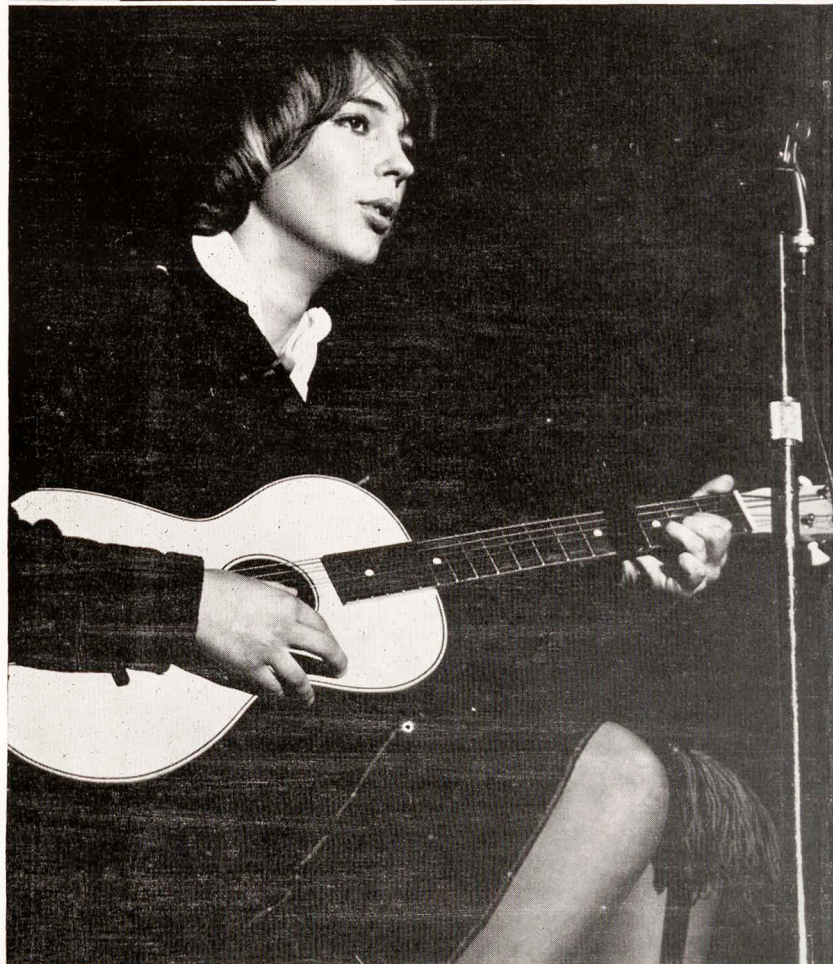

There is not a whole lot to do in Fayetteville.

Singfony winners pose with trophies, plaques and cakes after their selection was announced by judges. Singfony, sponsored by Civic Club, drew record crowd.

Winners Rejoice, Losers Party

Confident group smiles before singing. Their confidence was misplaced (top). Ankii Bol, exchange student from The Netherlands, entertained at intermission (center). Director Sam Park is lifted aloft by victorious Humphreys Hall residents. Sam generally flies pretty high all by himself (bottom).

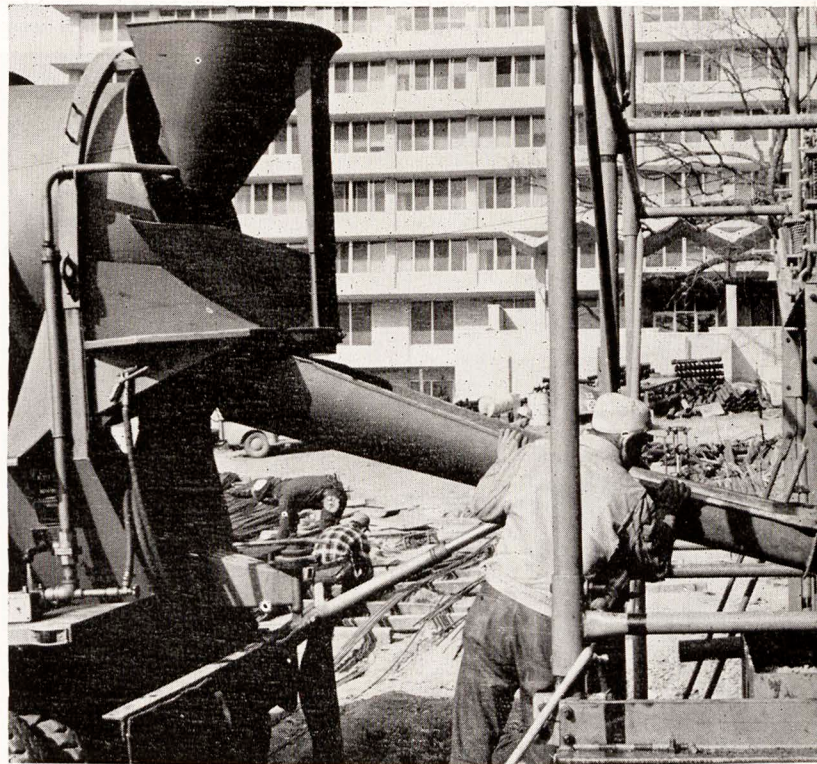

A high school principal must put up with a lot of things, but hearing freshmen tell their troubles, they resolve to work harder.

Bad luck for this worker, for if he turns his back, he will get shot by a pellet shooter in Humphreys. You would strike too.

A little early, perhaps, Santa stops by the Kappa house every year at the same time as a whole sleighful of kids get into act. Underprivileged children are getting scarce, but the Greeks continue charitable tradition — noblesse oblige, and all that.

Sugartime

Arkansas people like to think that they know how to party better than anybody. Well, at least we are enthusiastic about it. And what better place to party than New Orleans on New Year's Eve? With this in mind, thousands of Razorback fans, proud of their heritage, journeyed to the Crescent City for Arkansas' second consecutive appearance in the Sugar Bowl.

They found N. O. the same as they had left it a year earlier — with one exception. This time the opposing faction was from the University of Mississippi, and there is no one more adept at pooping a Razorback party than a bunch of Rebels. There is a certain grim dedication about those people.

The Hog rooters rose to the challenge gamely, fighting, drinking and Woo, Pigging at the drop of a hat. And then came the football game.

The final score was 17-13 for our third straight bowl loss. They should have played it in a bar. We do better there.

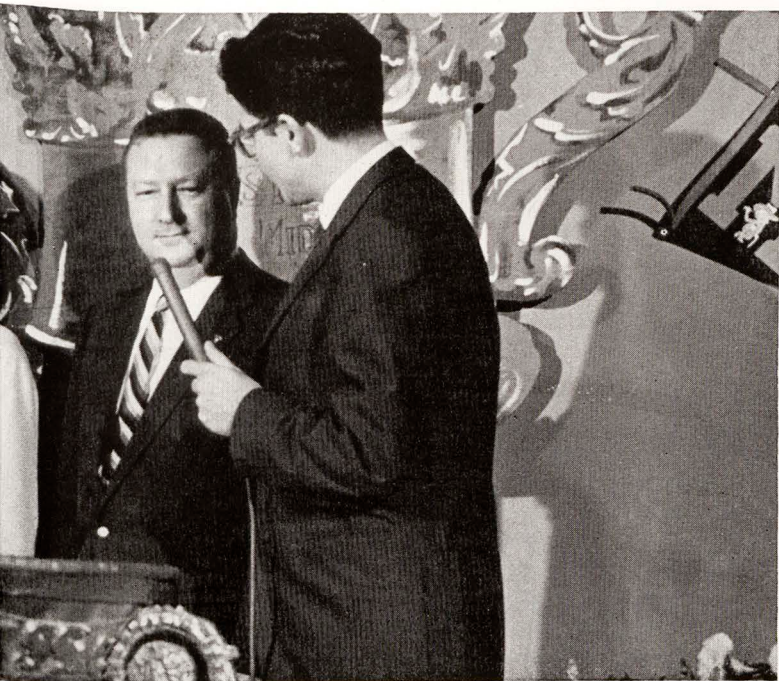

Dancing girls from Ole Miss performed at pre-game television show, upheld that institution's reputation as home of beautiful women.

Ole Miss is also noted for other things, but why go into that now? Name of group escapes us, but it may have been "Barnett's Babies".

With red hat and feather, Razorbacks such as Pat Jordan, in sweater, became a part of the New Orleans party scene. Hogs have become used to Hurricanes, may open a branch campus.

Looking a little wistful (maybe it's indigestion), Shirley Thomas (far left) holds her own with Southern beauties at the Sugar Bowl reception. Once again, Arkansas was a welcome guest.

Brassy-voiced woman in a honky-tonk, piano bar, torch songs. All are what mother and the preacher warned us about, but somehow it seems natural at this time, this place far from the hills of home. For many, it was a bittersweet New Year's Eve.

We Have

Arkansas rooter, who looks like he's old enough to know better, cruises around field in strange vehicle. Like Billy Moore's roll-out, this move was ineffective.

Far from the Fayetteville campus, Razorback Stadium, and Dean Halladay, two lovers meet in a quiet corner over a Hurricane glass. Here in New Orleans' quaint old-world charm, little do they care if Ralph Brodie gets the Senate reorganized. Such is love, and the UA.

a Thing About Bowls

Pete Fountain viewed game from sidelines after performing, wisely refused to take sides.

For Some, It Ended Here

Proud graduate instructs wife in intricacies of camera preparatory to taking inevitable graduation picture outside fieldhouse.

Since she has more than likely been working to put hubby through school, she is probably even happier than he that it's all over.

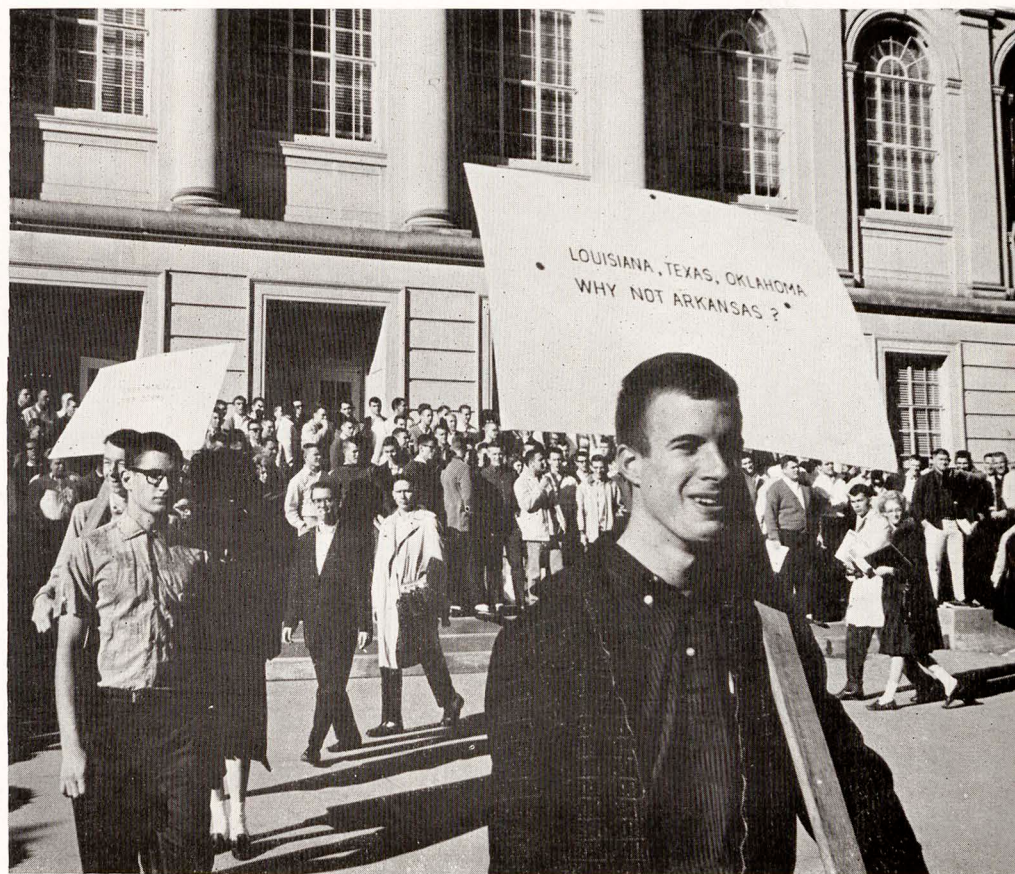

Dr. Andrew Holt, president of the University of Tennessee, spoke at fall semester commencement. Dr. Holt was considered one of the more interesting commencement speakers in recent years, big improvement over last spring's Mississippi book salesman.

For those who had been conscientious enough to plan ahead (and for some who had been unconscientious enough to fall behind) the college days came to an end in January. They missed the romantic aspect of springtime graduation, but diplomas are where you find them.

In the meantime, a small group of dedicated students were jeopardizing their chances of ever receiving a diploma by suggesting that the University's policy of "white only" dormitories was not in keeping with the basic purpose of an institution of higher learning. But the majority of UofA students were concerned with more important things, like spring semester rush, which is not quite as unpleasant as fall semester rush only because there is not as much of it.

Picketing took place in front of library as group called "Students for Freedom" protested housing discrimination. Some insults were hurled, but no fists.

For Some, It Started All Over Again

Fall semester rush brought Greeks to front of Student Union once more to welcome new pledges. A bit colder, but just as hearty.

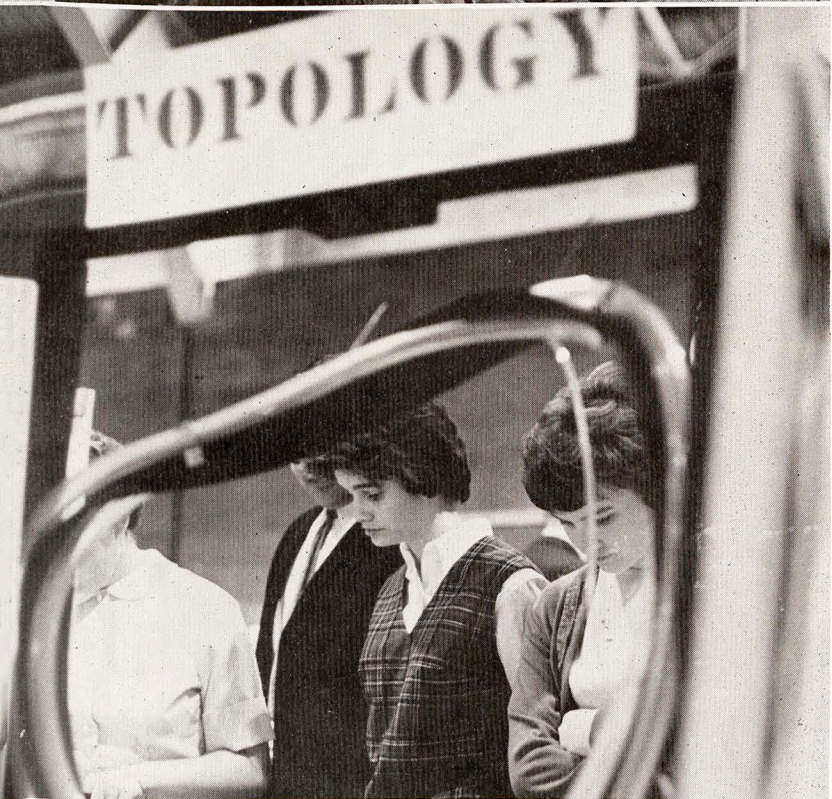

Snow brought groans from students reluctant to leave beds (top); Lockout brought pleas of mercy from Zeta members. Pledges were adamant (center). Bridge tournament brought would-be experts to Union to compete for cheap prizes and expensive prestige.

Mrs. Annie D. Futrall spoke at dedication of dormitory named after her. Dorm was finished two months after residents moved in.

Ex-paratroopers Bud Saunders and Curtis Lawson represented UofA in 50-mile hike craze, walked from Fayetteville to Alma (top); Science Fair brought many high school kids to campus (center); and dance instructor Eleanor King presented Japanese dance program — "Haniwa" — to appreciative crowd in Fine Arts center.

Singers Select Sweeties

The Lettermen came to Fayetteville to give a concert and agreed to select the 1963 Razorback Beauties while they were here. The winners were announced at intermission of the concert and although there was a certain amount of sour grapes on the part of the losers, consensus was that the group did a better job than last year's judge.

Even more sour grapes were tramped after the announcement of the "Best Dressed Coed", who happened to be a member of the same group as the editor of the Traveler. Although the Traveler sponsored the contest, the editor was only one of four judges. This carried no weight at all with critics of the decision.

Sour grapes were not at all in evidence when Tau Kappa Epsilon held a province convention on campus. This may be because Tekes are grateful for whatever they can get.

Cutups everyone, Lettermen make strong appeal to collegiate audience, though not quite as risqué as UofA students like.

To the surprise of some, Lettermen proved extremely talented and were one of the most popular groups to appear on UA campus this year.

Brandenhoff, Mary Katherine Brumm, Linda Rushton and Michele Barclay. It was generally conceded that Lettermen had taste.

Vonda Jones, Zeta Tau Alpha candidate for St. Patricia, throws garter to the audience and caution to the winds as she attempts to win votes and influence people (mainly engineers). Despite her efforts, she was unsuccessful, although it's hard to see why.

Pi Phi's Sally Kinman and Susan Helmig talk it over backstage with St. Patricia participant. Their function was to aid Kathy Raff in telling suggestive jokes. Raff was runner-up to shimmy queen Beavers. This was only fair since Pi Phi's don't date engineers.

Following one year of relative respectability, the Engineers' Rally returned to its old format — dirty. After the stage had been swept, it was announced that Mary Kay Beavers and Bill Miller had been elected St. Patricia and St. Pat, respectively.

Other events of Engineers' Week included a tug of war with the Agri students (the engineers lost), a beard growing contest, an open house in the engineering building, and presentation of the Golden Chicken (students to faculty) and Golden Chicken Egg (faculty to students) awards.

When the week was over, the engineers slipped back to their normal status near the bottom of the UA social ladder.

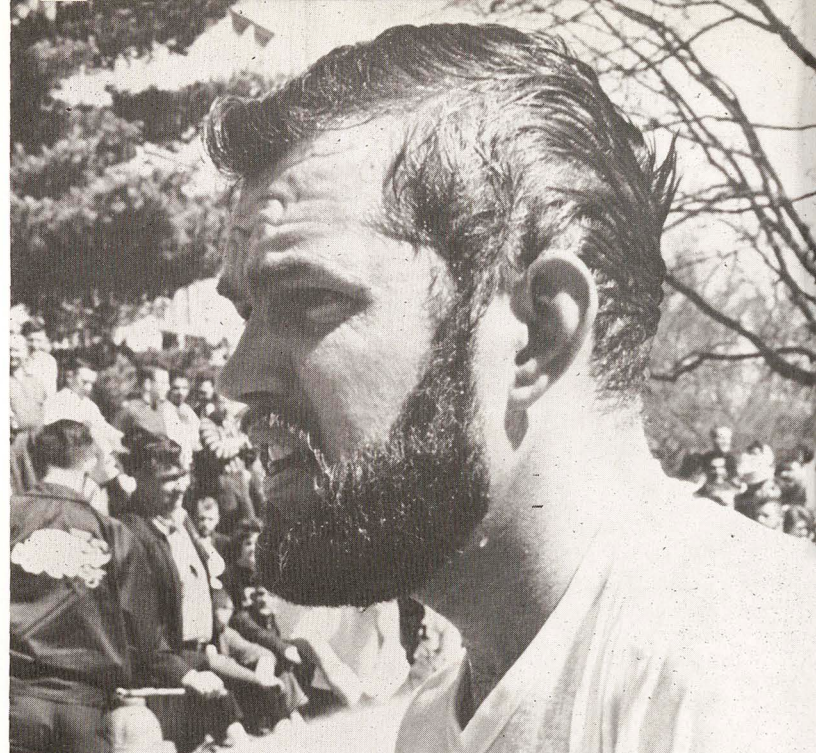

Fringe shaking wildly, Mary Kay Beavers goes into dance routine that resulted in her selection as St. Patricia. Mary Kay showed remarkable body control.

Let's Have a Party

Yes, we had a few parties this year. The hardy perennials that all the houses have, of course — Christmas parties, spring formals, that kind of stuff — and some of a more ecumenical nature. Foremost among these was the first "Summit", or "Big Four", party.

This gala event was a combined effort of the four largest fraternities on campus: Kappa Sig, SAE, Sigma Chi and Sigma Nu. It seemed like a risky proposal at first (there are some natural enemies in that coalition), but all went well. At least no fights broke out. Parties make strange bedfellows.

Another party that attracted campus-wide interest was a rather informal affair held off-campus. It was so informal that it was unregistered, in violation of campus regulations, and resulted in all the guests being placed on probation. So many campus officers had to be removed that later in the year the University re-evaluated its rules concerning women in apartments, making them a little less stringent. It's an ill wind, etc. . . .

Billy Hawkins throws a glassy-eyed stare into the camera as the photographer catches a lost moment at Kappa Sig table at the first Big Four Summit Party. No matters of world shaking importance were settled, but the tables apparently weren't set for arbitration.

Sigma Chi Gold Rush party annually attracts campus high-rollers like Bill "Bet-a-Million" May, here demonstrating how to stare down the dealer—a technique he picked up from Bret Maverick.

Noted host Bill Matthews brings infamous group together at Sigma Chi Apartment Party. They are all smiling because this one is registered.

What can you say about the ROTC Military Ball? It's rather hard since we have never been to one. It really must be fun because it is an annual event. One thing that added to the fun was trying to twist at the attention position. Good for discipline.

Fun in

This couple has solved the campus parking problem. While bicycles are really out of place in the stadium lot at night, they are great for quick daylight rides around campus.

What is more exciting in the springtime than a girls' softball game? The crowd of independents is excited too because this is the only time that they get to see girls excited. The rhubarb-filled games never fail to draw crowds.

Spring in Fayetteville

Art student sits on Senior Walk outside Fine Arts Center, works on sketch. Sitting out in the sun is a lot better than sitting in a stuffy old classroom. More creative, too; Edward Stone (described as "Arkansas' own") probably designed the FA center this way.

A noted public figure making one of his infrequent visits to the campus was met by an enthusiastic student group. He made few quotable statements, preferring to stay in relative security of limousine. Fortunately for everyone, there was no picketing going on.

The guy that wrote that poem was wrong — spring can too be far behind. It hemmed and hawed around for weeks before it finally came to Fayetteville. But come it did, finally, and after the miserable winter it was more than welcome.

There were other visitors, too. The Journeymen came to present the last of the year's concerts sponsored by the Student Senate entertainment committee. And our peerless leader dropped his double-bitted ax long enough to make a quick inspection tour of University construction.

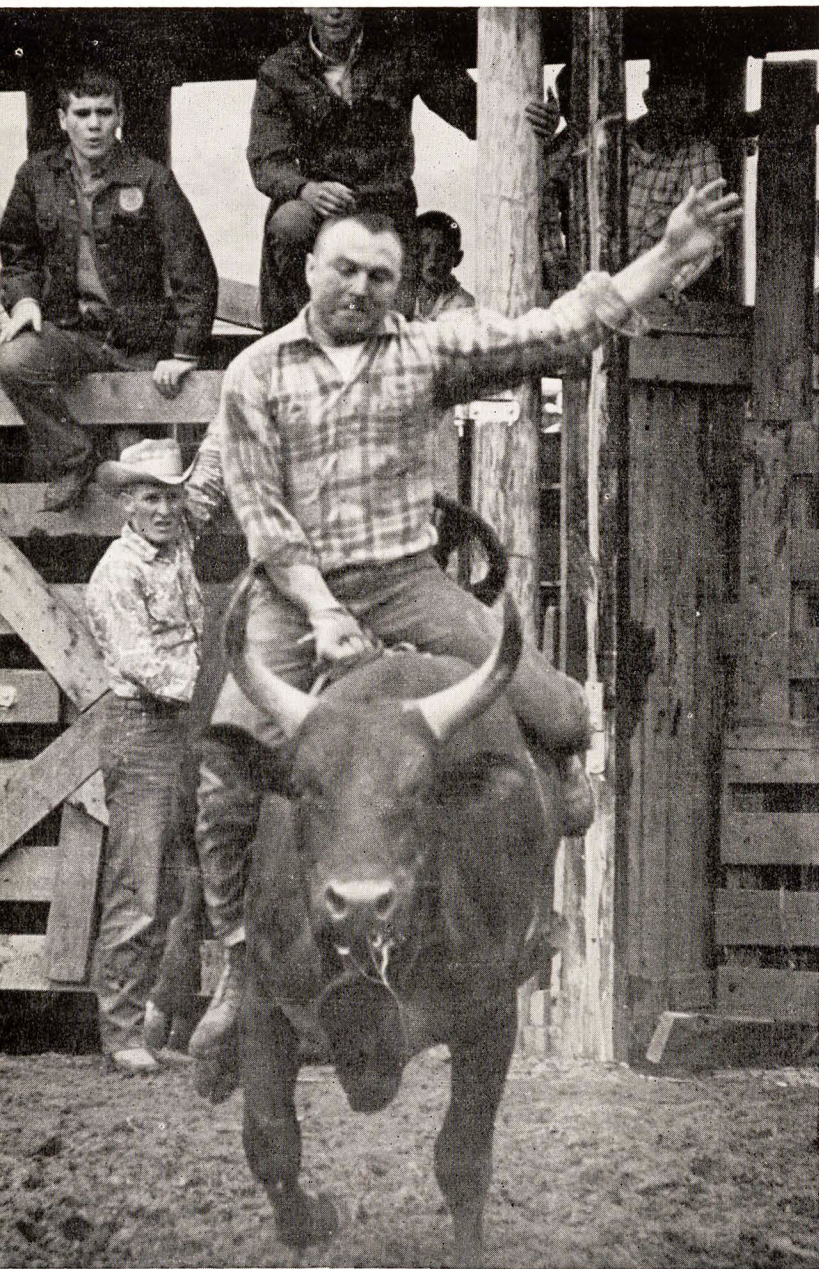

The usual springtime activities began including Student Union Week, the AWS Spring Festival, and all those special "Days": Agri Day, Commerce Day and J (for journalism) Day. But it was spring, and we really didn't need anything else.

The Journeymen sang their hearts out to an under capacity crowd at an early spring concert. They accurately described the crowd as "few but jolly."

Inflation Hits Campus Elections

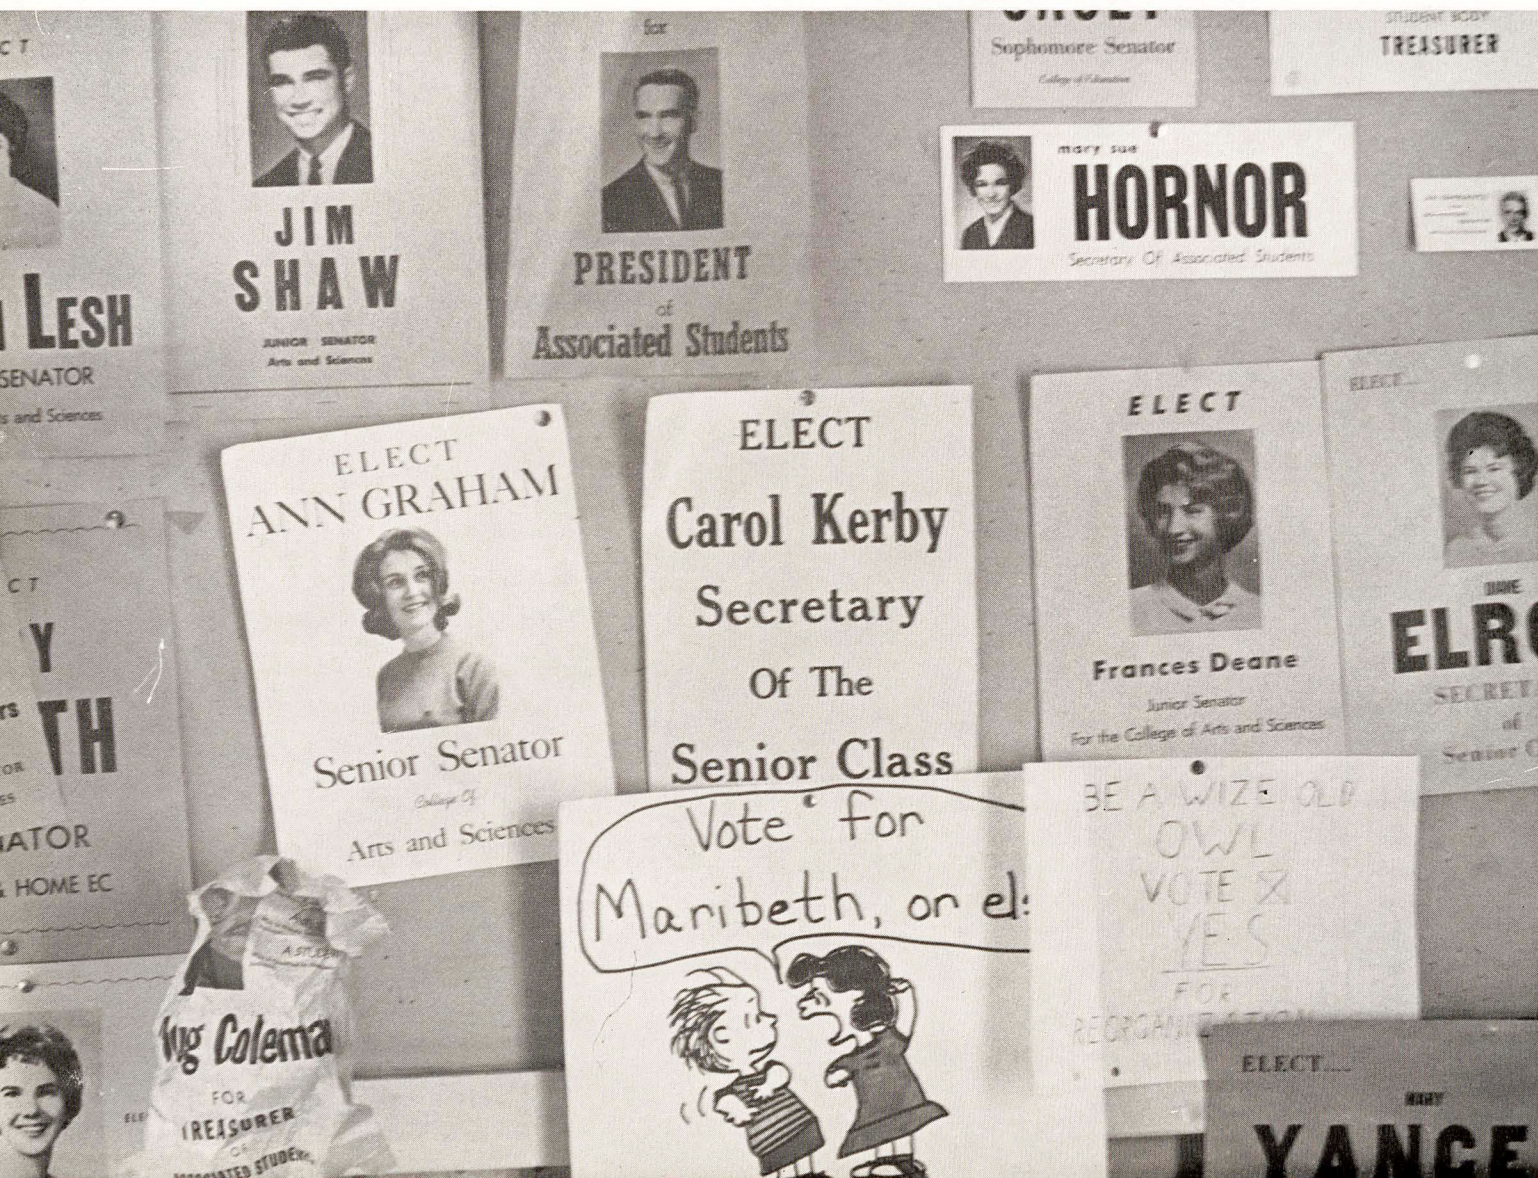

The 1963 student body elections may not have been the most exciting in history, but they were certainly the most expensive. Campaign gimmicks (posters, handbills, brochures, etc.) were bigger and better than ever, though not necessarily more truthful. The largest amount was spent in behalf of Jerry Pinson's candidacy for President of Associated Students. It worked well enough to get him a second place finish behind Freddy Favor. Also on the ballot was the Student Senate reorganization proposal that had kept the senate in an uproar most of the year. It failed to get the three-fourths majority required for passage, putting an end, at least temporarily, to Ralph Brodie's grand design.

Less flamboyant contests were held in front of Old Main — 1963-64 cheerleader tryouts — and in the stadium, where Frank Broyles' gladiators began getting in shape for next year. The Arkansas Relays also took place in the stadium. Brodie was more successful in the hurdles than he had been at the polls.

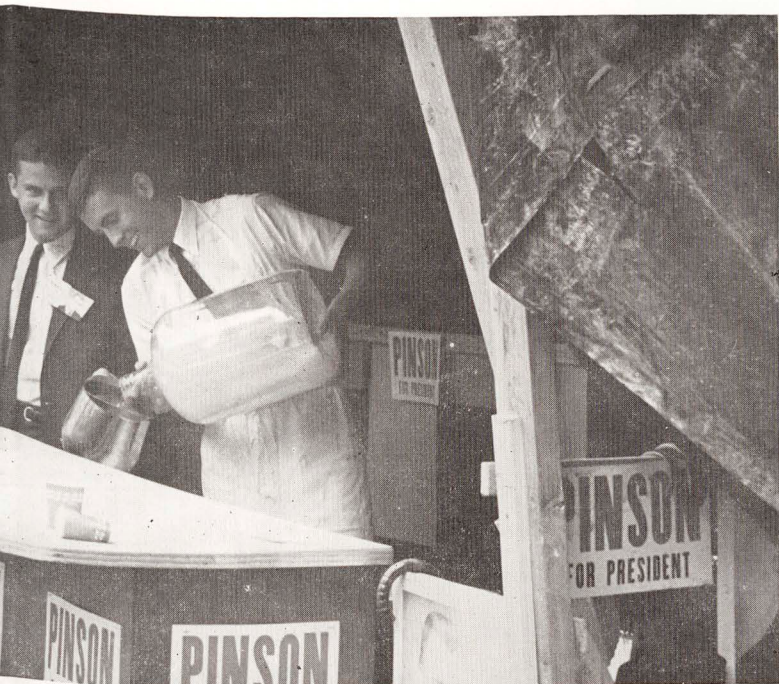

Bulletin boards all over campus sprouted campaign posters, leaving little room for bulletins. This particular bulletin board is in Hill Hall, where the posters were printed, but most of the others were just as bad, as all candidates tried saturation technique.

Crumpled sign seemed to bode ill for Favor's chances. Apparently Favor is not superstitious, since he went ahead to win anyway.

Lemonade stand in front of Union was manned by Pinson supporters.

Marking ballot requires considerable thought by some students, principally freshmen. Upperclassmen generally finish in a hurry, if they bother to vote at all. This boy is trying to decide who to vote for as soph senator from BA—a very important position.

Glorious Gaebale

Modern dance numbers were among the most popular talent presentations at the Miss University of Arkansas pageant. Margi Vickers, one of Fulbright Hall's representatives, followed the trend with a dance that had something to do with bullfighting. We think.

Nancy Cochran ponders difficult question posed by Pedie Gathright: "How do you play an accordion without using your hands?"

Most of the questions contestants were asked were of a cute nature. Unfortunately, nobody remembers Nancy's answer. We'll never know.

Gaebale was designed to be, and once was, a weekend of nearly unrestrained frivolity: one last fling before finals. But in recent years the frivolity has become more and more restrained. The carnival is gone, and so is the old varsity show. Most conspicuous by its absence is the general "Tomorrow we may die" attitude that once characterized Gaebale — such an attitude being the only real reason for having the celebration in the first place.

Now we have a beauty pageant on Friday night, the Coaster Classic and a concert on Saturday afternoon, and a dance Saturday night. All conducted in an air of grim sobriety. (The administration prefers to call it "maturity"). Not surprisingly, Gaebale does not have the appeal for UofA students that it once had; everybody talks about it but nobody goes.

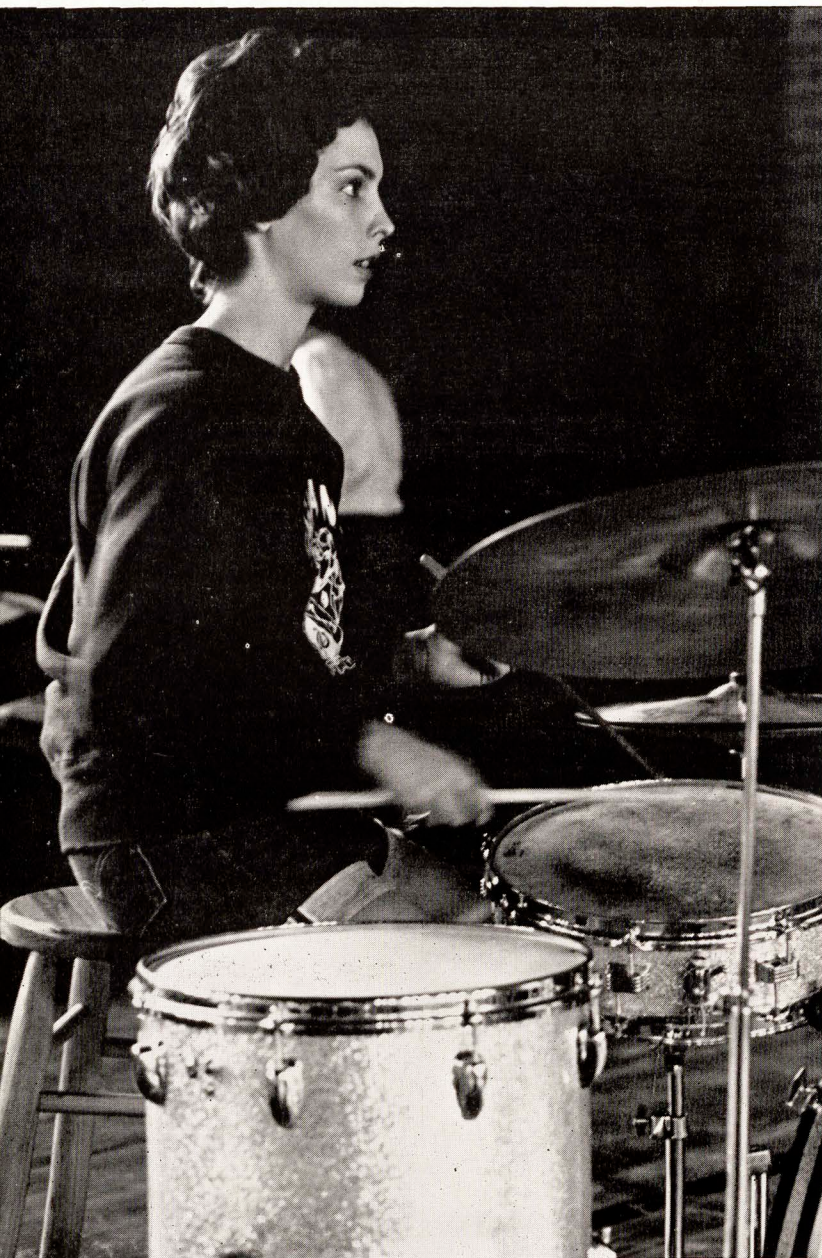

If anybody is interested, this is what Gaebale 1963 was like.

Joey Dee's drummer, not as attractive as ChiO Combo's but more active, roamed at dance beating on every object in sight.

Vibrating to music provided by Twist king Dee, UofA students and visitors enjoy themselves at dance, ending 1963 Gaebale.

Pete Fountain and group entertained at afternoon concert (top); Audience, including Gaebale director Favor, applauded heartily (center); and Joey Dee reached frenzied heights at the dance.

Chapter Two

ATION

The administration of any large, state-supported school has problems. The UofA is no exception. This fact should be remembered by all critics of administrative policy. Would you want to be forced to deal with the state legislature? Neither would we. The administration does the best it can.

Governor of Arkansas

In 1962, Orval E. Faubus was elected for an unprecedented fifth term as governor, thus proving once again that he is one of the ablest politicians ever produced in this Land of Opportunity.

The Governor has had a varied career including attendance at Commonwealth College and a tour of duty with the army in World War II. After the war, he came back to his native Huntsville to serve as postmaster. He then advanced steadily up the political ladder, serving as County Clerk, member of the State Highway Commission and administrative assistant to Governor Sid McMath. In 1954 he waged, and won, his first gubernatorial campaign.

Governor Faubus has received world-wide publicity. To many outsiders, it must seem that Governor Faubus is Arkansas. In addition, he is probably the only chief executive of this state ever to have a jazz composition (Charlie Mingus's "Fables of Faubus") named after him.

University President

Dr. David Wiley Mullins, a native of Arkansas and a graduate of its University in 1931, assumed the duties as the administrative head of the entire University on March 1, 1960. Under his guidance the University has shown continued growth.

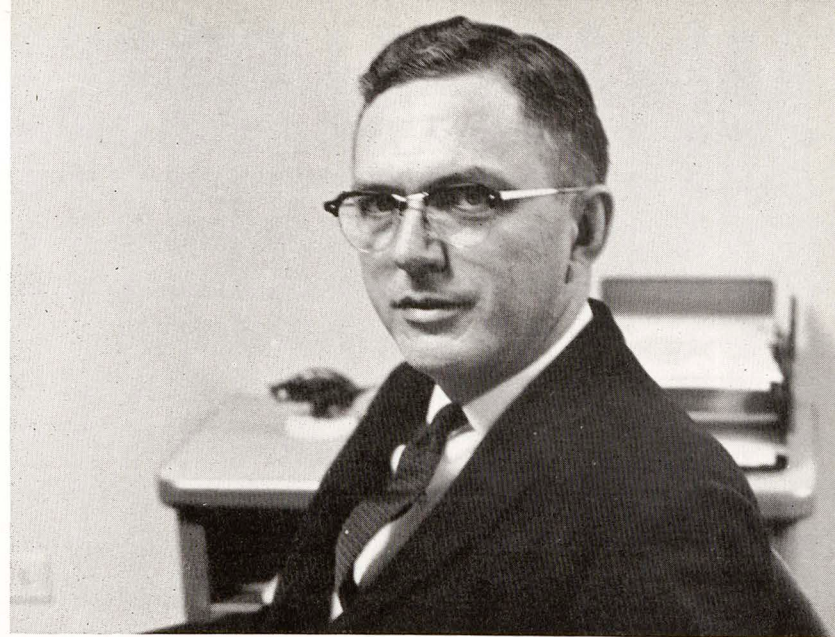

Upon graduation from the University, Dr. Mullins earned his M.A. degree at Colorado, and in 1941 he obtained his Ph.D. at Columbia with emphasis on education administration and finance. At that time he embarked upon his distinguished teaching and administration career in the field of higher education. The positions that Dr. Mullins has held are those of teacher, superintendent, associate professor in Alabama Polytechnic Institute's College of Education; Navy Officer during World War II; Research Professor of Education at Auburn; Acting Director, Division of Instruction and Executive Vice President at Auburn and his present position as President of the University of Arkansas.

College of Arts and Sciences

Students enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences feel that they receive an all-around education because the courses of study in the College are designed to give them the comprehensive view of society which the modern world requires. Students who enroll in this College, or who elect some of its courses, have an opportunity to gain the broad, cultural education which is a part of intelligent living and, at the same time, to prepare for the professions or to acquire technical training in the sciences.

The college has two major teaching functions: first, to provide the basic, general education in the arts and in the sciences necessary to all persons for effective participation in the complex world in which we live; and, second, to furnish the student an opportunity to specialize in the field of his choice.

The college has an Honors Program that is designed to provide every possible opportunity to the superior student for achieving a level of maturity and accomplishment which would not normally be possible without such a program. From his freshmen to his senior year a superior student has opportunities to study with other superior students in small Honors sections. Students go further and more deeply into subject matter than in the ordinary classes; hence the student who successfully completes his Honors studies is awarded Honors at graduation.

A new department was added to the college when the Fine Arts Center added the architectural school several years ago. The University has one of the leading architectural schools in the nation; furthermore, this school is the only one of its kind in Arkansas. There is a critical shortage of architects in the South. Because of urbanization, there is a need for architects; therefore, there is a responsibility upon the architects that quality be maintained.

The department offers the degree of Bachelor of Architecture. The first degree awarded from the University was in 1950. It takes five years to complete the qualifications for this degree.

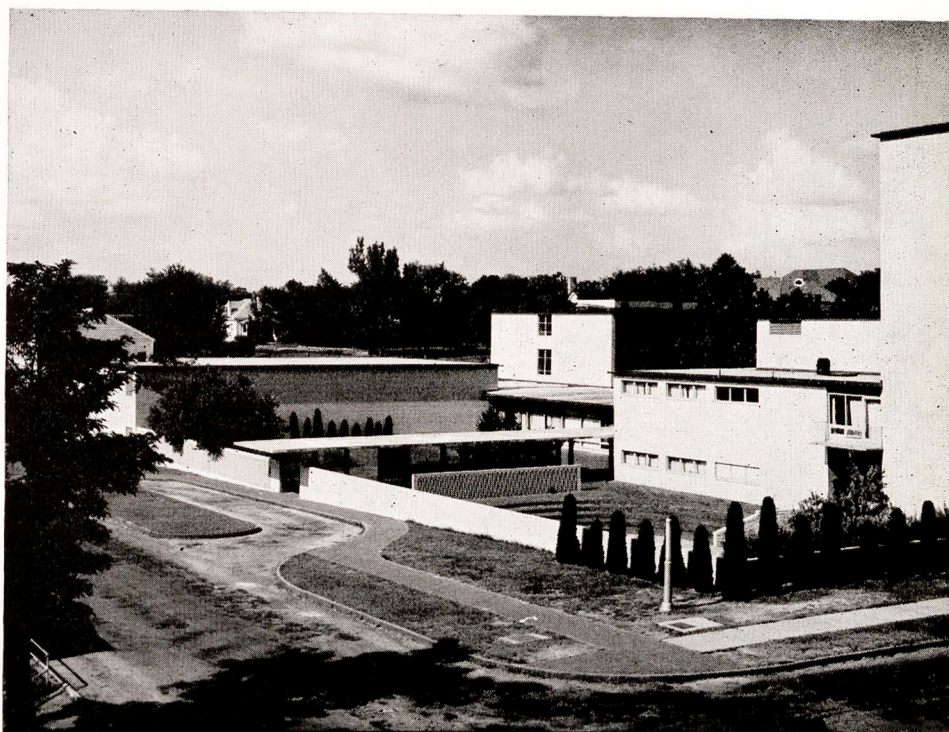

As well as contributing to the nation, the department has an active part on the campus. Fine arts classes are held to give the student, who is relatively unfamiliar with architecture, an understanding and appreciation of it. Being observant of the architecture that surrounds one and realizing both the practicality and aesthetic aspect of it is the student's benefit from the course.

The College of Arts and Sciences has maintained high educational standards under the direction of Dean G. D. Nichols and his assistant, Dean Robert Fairchild.

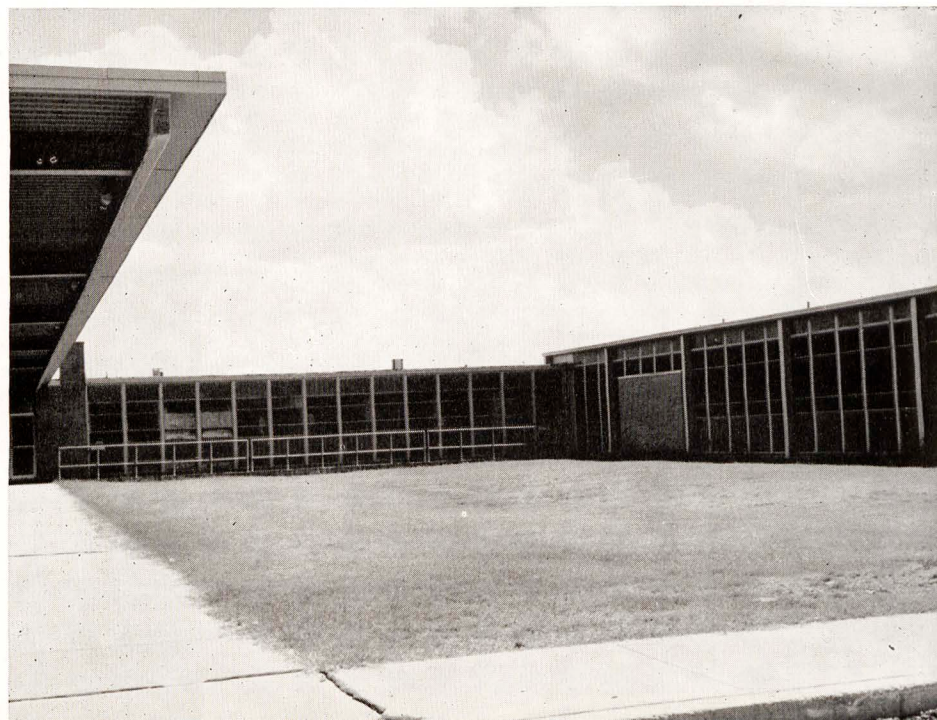

Sculpture is one of many artistic forms studied in fine arts classes.

College of Agriculture and Home Economics

The annual Agri Day is a special time of the year when students enrolled in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics can get true-to-life experience in the skills associated with their studies. The all-day affair is highlighted by the outing and picnic, the announcement of the Agri Queen, and the annual rodeo.

The college, with increasing emphasis on research and experimentation, conducts projects designed to aid in the scientific advancement of Arkansas farming methods.

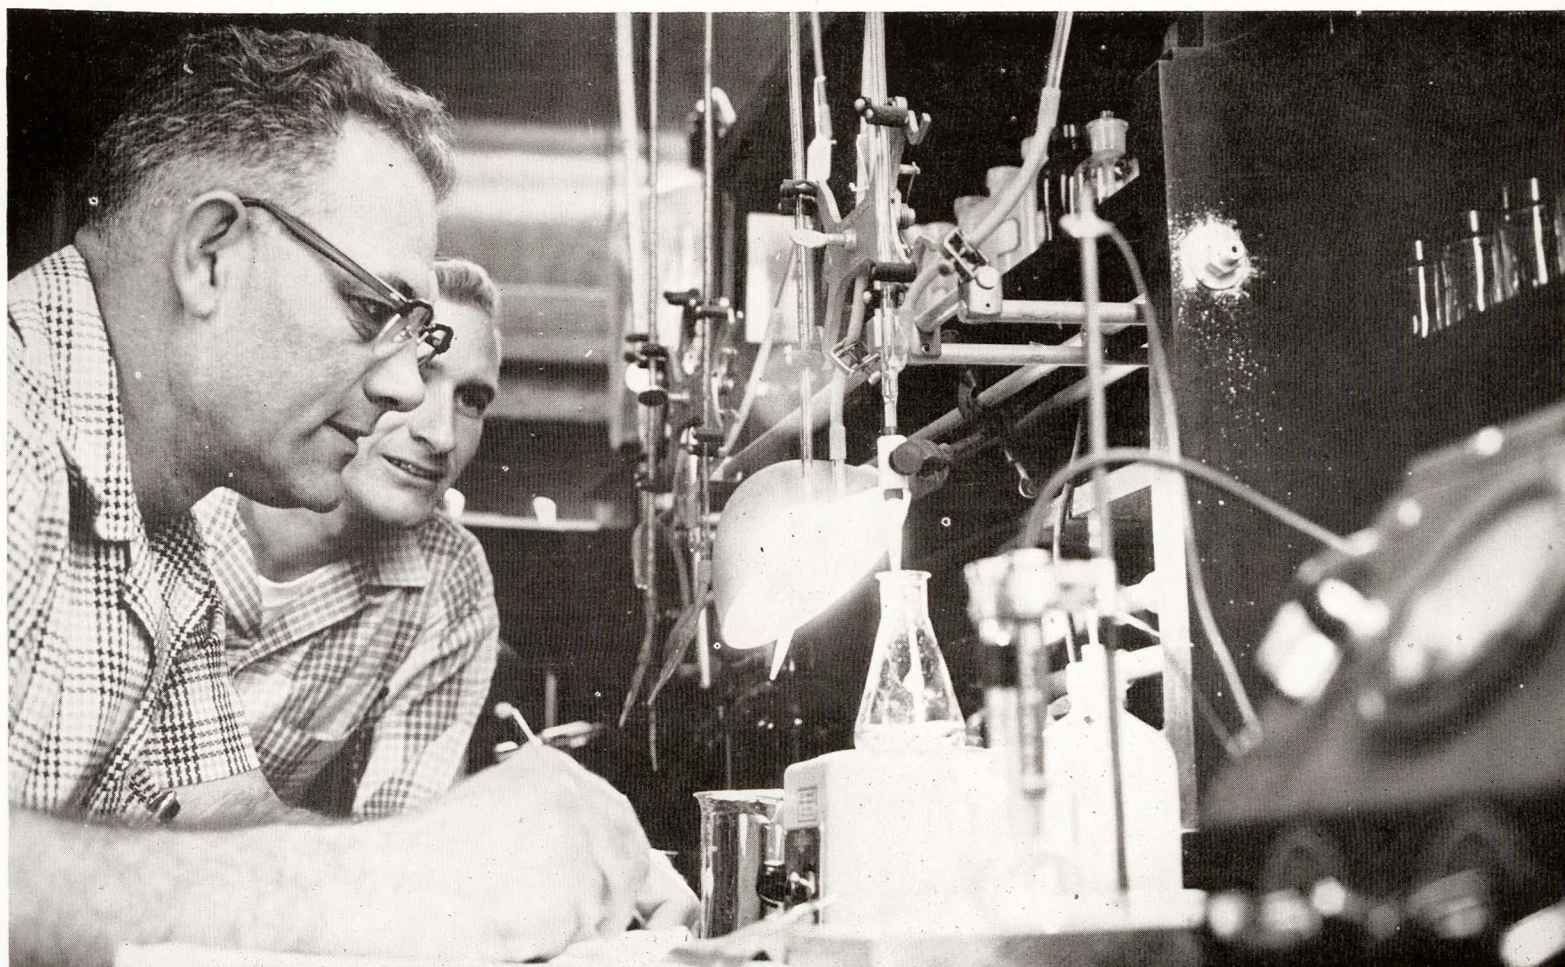

The objectives of the college are to improve agriculture and family living in the state, to stimulate students in their own development, to encourage an attitude of inquiry, and to develop leadership. The resident instruction of the college helps fulfill this objective by the training of young men and women in scientific and technical agriculture and home development.

The curricula includes basic training in the physical, biological and social sciences, the humanities, and communication, as well as in technical agriculture and home economics. Such training is important, not only to agricultural production and homemaking, but to related industries and to educational work in these fields.

The college has strengthened and expanded its instructional programs. Faculty counseling of students, greater encouragement toward cooperation with student groups, strengthening of undergraduate curricula, and revision of graduate programs to meet changing needs were programs of improvement put into effect last year. To keep pace with the increasing need for home economists and agriculture specialists, it is carrying out further plans. The master's degree is now offered in all major areas of study. Doctoral programs in animal science and agronomy have been approved and await the necessary funds for activation.

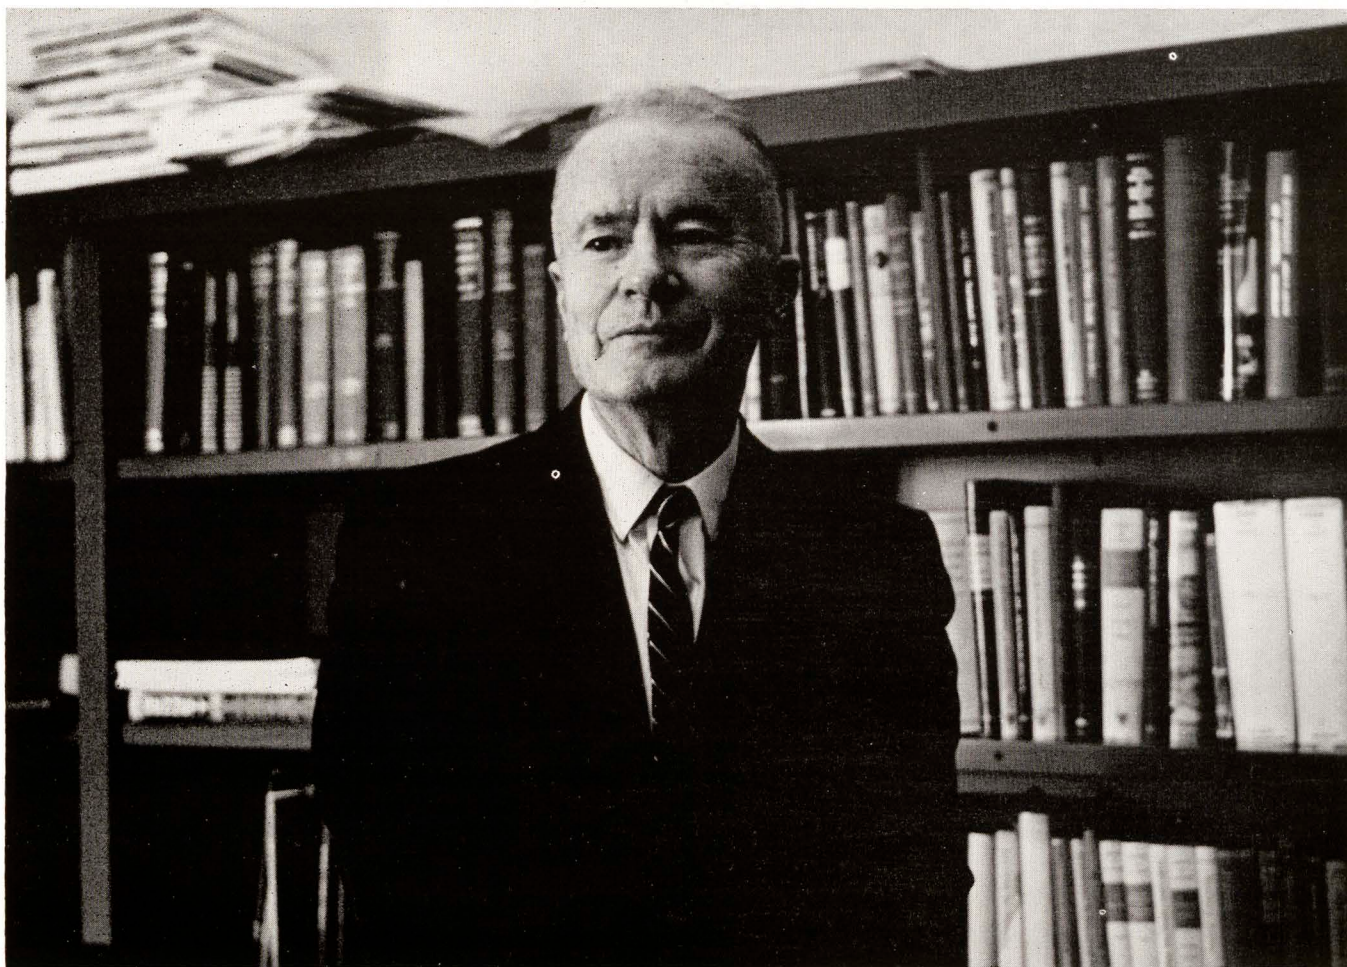

A nutritional research program is in the development stage in the Home Economics Department; and a portion of the basement houses an analytical laboratory, an animal feeding room, offices, and an instrument room.

Agri Students Association is an all-college organization of students and staff in the college. When students enroll, they automatically become members. It is the governing body of the students in the college, and it climaxes its program of work each year by sponsoring Agri Day on the last Saturday in April.

Graduate students in agriculture conduct research project. Master's degrees are available in all the college's major areas of study, and doctoral programs in animal science and agronomy have been approved and await the necessary funds for activation.

College of Business Administration

During the early part of every year, all students enrolled in the College of Business Administration are bombarded by each of the women's housing units and are informed as to whom the best candidate for Commerce Queen would be. The Commerce Queen reigns at the annual Commerce Day, a celebration observed annually in the college.

The College of Business Administration has aided the industrial and economic growth of Arkansas through its research program, the Industrial Research and Extension Center at Little Rock.

By offering part time instructorships, increasing stipends of graduate assistants, and offering attractive National Defense Fellowships, the college has had a tremendous increase of graduate students.

The purpose of the college is to educate young men and women for positions of leadership and responsibility in private business, government service, and nonbusiness organizations. Part of this educational preparation must be professional. In recognition of the need of formal schooling in business and economics as well as in general education courses, the college offers specialized courses in several fields of business, including accounting, finance, taxation, management, marketing, transportation, labor, insurance, business law, statistics, economics, and business education.

In common with the University as a whole, the college recognizes the need for broad cultural education. Therefore, students are also required to elect subjects outside of professional business fields in order to be prepared for positions of leadership.

The Business Administration Building contains numerous classrooms and offices, an auditorium, a working library, general workrooms for students, and modern, well-equipped laboratories for accounting, statistics, and typing. The college receives approximately 130 periodicals and business services, including most of the important financial, economic, and business publications.

The College of Business Administration has been a member of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business since 1931. This organization, composed of outstanding universities of North America, exists to promote the highest standards of business education.

Since it changed to a four year school in 1937 — before that it was a two-year division of Arts and Sciences — the school has been growing steadily. An outstanding feature of the school is its wide range of activities with large student participation and its program of student government.

Peabody Hall houses not only classrooms, but also serves as a laboratory school.

College of Education

Peabody Hall is the home of education students. Here future teachers find a children's library and a laboratory school which are valuable aids for teaching preparation.

The College of Education correlates and unites the forces of the University of Arkansas which make contributions toward preparing students for professional service in the fields of teaching, counseling, supervision, and school administration. Education is improved by providing consultation services, by engaging in educational research, by encouraging young persons to enter the teaching profession, and by placing graduates of the college.

Courses are planned both for persons who are preparing to teach and for in-service teachers. Curricula are presented on the assumption that teachers first should have a broad, general education; second, that they should be masters of the individual subjects they teach; and, third, that they should supplement their previous education by taking professional courses to gain a knowledge of the learning process, skill in teaching techniques, and actual practice in teaching under experienced supervisors.

The curriculum in either elementary or secondary schools is so planned that its successful completion by the student automatically fulfills the requirements of the State Board of Education. A two-year program of graduate work, leading to a diploma of advanced study, also is offered by the Graduate School.

Plans for activation of an All-University Committee will make recommendations on curricula for education students. Necessary adjustments have been initiated in professional courses to facilitate future development of the off-campus student teaching programs.

The Teacher Education program at the University of Arkansas is professionally accredited by the National Council of Accreditation of Teacher Education for the preparation of elementary school teachers, secondary school teachers, and school service personnel, with recognition including the doctor's degree. Student National Education Association, the national professional association for college and university students preparing to teach, is one of the most active organizations in the field of education. Membership is open to all education, business, and arts and sciences majors who plan to teach. Another such association is the Elementary Club for students who are planning to teach in the lower grades. Mr. Willim O. Steele, a well-known children's author, was brought to the University by this club to broaden the knowledge and familiarity with present day education of the elementary school majors.

Student teacher leads her young charges across campus. Some education majors do their practice teaching in Peabody Hall itself, others are placed in schools in nearby towns. Either way, they have a chance to see what they're getting into.

George F. Branigan, Dean

College of Engineering

The University's fastest growing college is the College of Engineering. The Engineering Building which houses engineering students and trains them in the basic and specialized concepts of engineering sciences, finds itself more and more crowded each semester.

To train students in the basic and specialized concepts of engineering sciences is the principal aim of the college. Graduates must have scholastic training in fields other than engineering in order to gain and hold stature in their profession. A second aim is to prepare its students to meet the engineering profession's demand for persons of high moral standards and ethics who are outstanding in leadership and citizenship.

The college offers a four-year undergraduate program leading to the Bachelor of Science degree in the various curricula, and, in cooperation with the Graduate School, a program leading to the Master of Science degree in the various departments of the college. A program of advanced study in engineering leading to the Doctor of Philosophy degree was established in 1958. A broad, general education is provided with special emphasis on the physical sciences and their application to the needs of modern civilization.

Interviewers from industrial concerns and government agencies are invited to the campus to talk with advanced students about employment opportunities. In addition, the College of Engineering makes arrangements for the printing of personal data sheets for the use of students in finding employment.

The College of Engineering has entered into a co-operative program with Ouachita Baptist College, College of the Ozarks and Harding College to provide for a five-year combined course of study. This program enables the student to pursue a combined curriculum leading to degrees in both arts and engineering. At the baccalaureate level: the student may pursue a three-year liberal arts curriculum at Ouachita, College of the Ozarks, or Harding, and then specialize for two years at the University. After four years of study under the combined program, he is awarded the Bachelor of Arts degree. At the end of the fifth year, he is awarded the degree of Bachelor of Science in Engineering by the University. This "Three-Two" plan thus serves to increase the liberal content of the engineering curriculum and enables the graduate to understand better the social, political, and economic implications of scientific and engineering activities.

An annual Engineer's Day is held in March when the engineers elect St. Pat, and St. Patricia. Displays of the talents of the students are shown throughout the Engineering Building.

Graduate School

Among the most admired and respected students on the University of Arkansas campus are the graduate students. These are students who after graduation from college, further their education under the auspices of the University Graduate School. They can be found in the library, in Old Main, or in a classroom teaching freshmen. But wherever you find them, they are studying. They can appropriately be called the backbone of college academic life. Degrees are offered to them in nearly fifty different fields. The principal objectives of the school are the advancement and dissemination of knowledge.

One of the important prerequisites to graduate work is intellectual maturity. This should enable the student to assume the initiative and responsibility necessary for the development of independent and objective thinking, and to comprehend more effectively basic issues and principles as they relate to his program of advanced study.

To be admitted to candidacy for a degree, a student must have been unconditionally admitted to graduate standing and must have been approved by the major professor and the Dean of the Graduate School for his particular major.

At the time of admission to the Graduate School, the student, on the advice of the Dean, is assigned to a major professor who becomes his adviser throughout the course. The choice of a major professor is largely determined by the student's choice of a major subject. The program of study may consist of courses chosen from one department, or it may include such cognate courses from other departments as may in individual instances seem to offer greatest immediate and permanent values. As a general principle, two-thirds of the courses come from the major field.

The Graduate School was established in 1927. Prior to that date graduate work in the University was under the supervision of a Graduate Committee. In 1948 the University established a Graduate Center in Little Rock. There students may earn a limited amount of graduate credit and up to twelve weeks of residence credit to apply on requirements for the Master's degree.

Thirteen Doctoral fellowships were approved for 1960-61 under the National Defense Education grants. Students interested in teaching on the college and university level are awarded these fellowships if they will instruct in the following subject areas: zoology, botany and bacteriology, physics, business administration, psychology, electrical engineering, comparative literature, and English.

ally become quite familiar with library's winding, dark corridors in their pursuit of the elusive advanced degree.

School of Law

Waterman Hall, the University of Arkansas Law Building is one of the most attractive and efficient law school buildings in America. It houses devoted, serious-minded students whose free time consists of meals and coffee breaks.

The primary objective of the School of Law is providing a thorough preparation for the practice of law and prepare the student either to practice in common law jurisdictions or to seek employment by government or private business.

The school follows the standards of legal education prescribed by the American Bar Association, and since 1926 has been on that Association's list of approved law schools. It has been a member of the Association of American Law Schools, an organization composed of the accredited law schools of America, since 1927. These associations on the basis of long experience in legal education have established a variety of regulations pertaining to such matters as the number and nature of the volumes in the law library, the accessibility of designated library facilities to law students, the annual appropriation for books, the number of law teachers, and related matters. In addition, they have approved as a standard for member schools the requirement of at least three years of acceptable college work as a condition of admission. The school offers a three-year law course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

The curriculum of the school is designed to give the student an understanding of the law in its relationship to other agencies of social control and to enable him to develop a sense of ethical values in respect to the law and the profession.

The program of instruction includes analytical study of the fundamental principles of common law and equity as they appear in the decided cases, with reference both to their historical development and to their practical application, and study of public and administrative law and typical statutes.

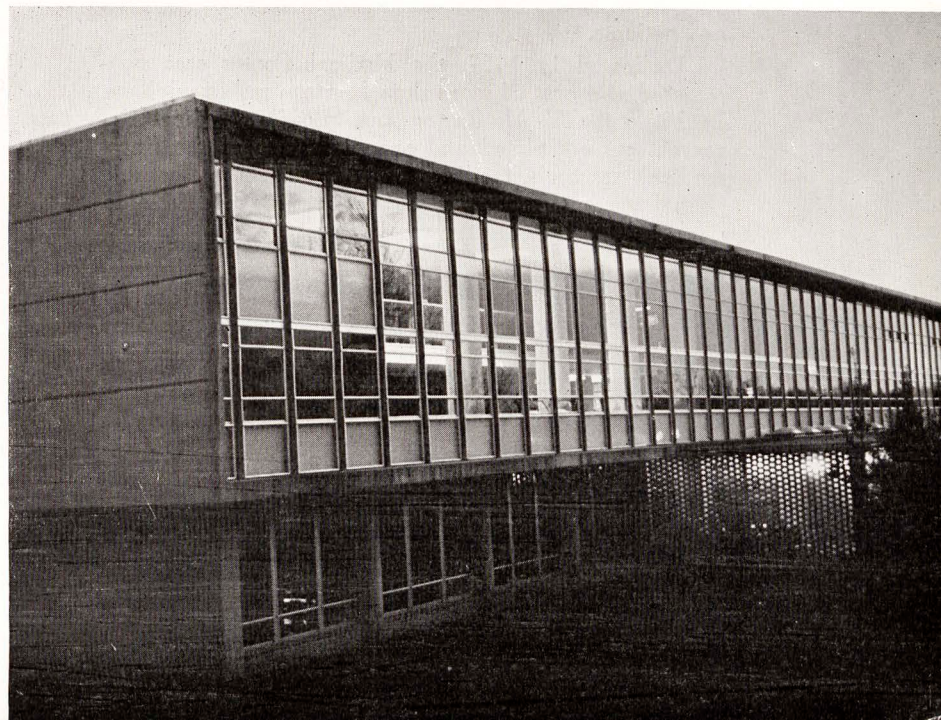

A pre-law advisory committee, in cooperation with the school, was established by the Arkansas State Bar Association and seeks to maintain closer relations between pre-law advisors and pre-law students.

The modern courtroom is the scene of the Student Court. Moot court trials also attract interest here. All law students are required to complete assignments in the preparation of appellate briefs and in oral argument of appellate cases. A practice court for third-year students is conducted so that experience may be obtained in the trial of jury cases. The various stages of a trial are demonstrated, with students participating under the guidance of an instructor. This work is under faculty supervision and is intended to give the student an introduction to actual trial work.

Surrounded by books, law student searches for obscure decision in quiet corridors of law library.

Waterman Hall is one of few buildings on campus that operates on 24-hour-a-day basis.

Medicine, Pharmacy and Nursing

The multi-million dollar University Medical Center at Little Rock is regarded as one of the most modern in the nation. It represents one of the outstanding features of the University of Arkansas. Here the latest equipment is utilized in serving both medical students and patients.

Dedicated in 1957, the Medical Center was constructed at a cost of more than fourteen million dollars. In 1961, the T. H. Barton Institute for Medical Research was completed and occupied. One of the finest medical research facilities in America, the Institute should prove to be a factor in attracting and holding qualified teachers and research personnel.

Students receive not only detailed classroom instruction in their prospective fields but also a great deal of experience in the application of this knowledge because many people come to the Center for medical attention.

The University of Arkansas Schools of Pharmacy and Nursing are housed in the Education Building at the Medical Center, together with the School of Medicine.

The School of Medicine is affiliated with the Veterans Administration Hospitals in Little Rock and North Little Rock under the nation-wide Deans' Committee program. Some beds in these hospitals are utilized for teaching purposes, in addition to those activated in the University Hospital.

Pharmacy is essentially that field of the health sciences which functions chiefly in supplying, assembling, and preparing the medicinals used for prevention, curing, and controlling of disease.

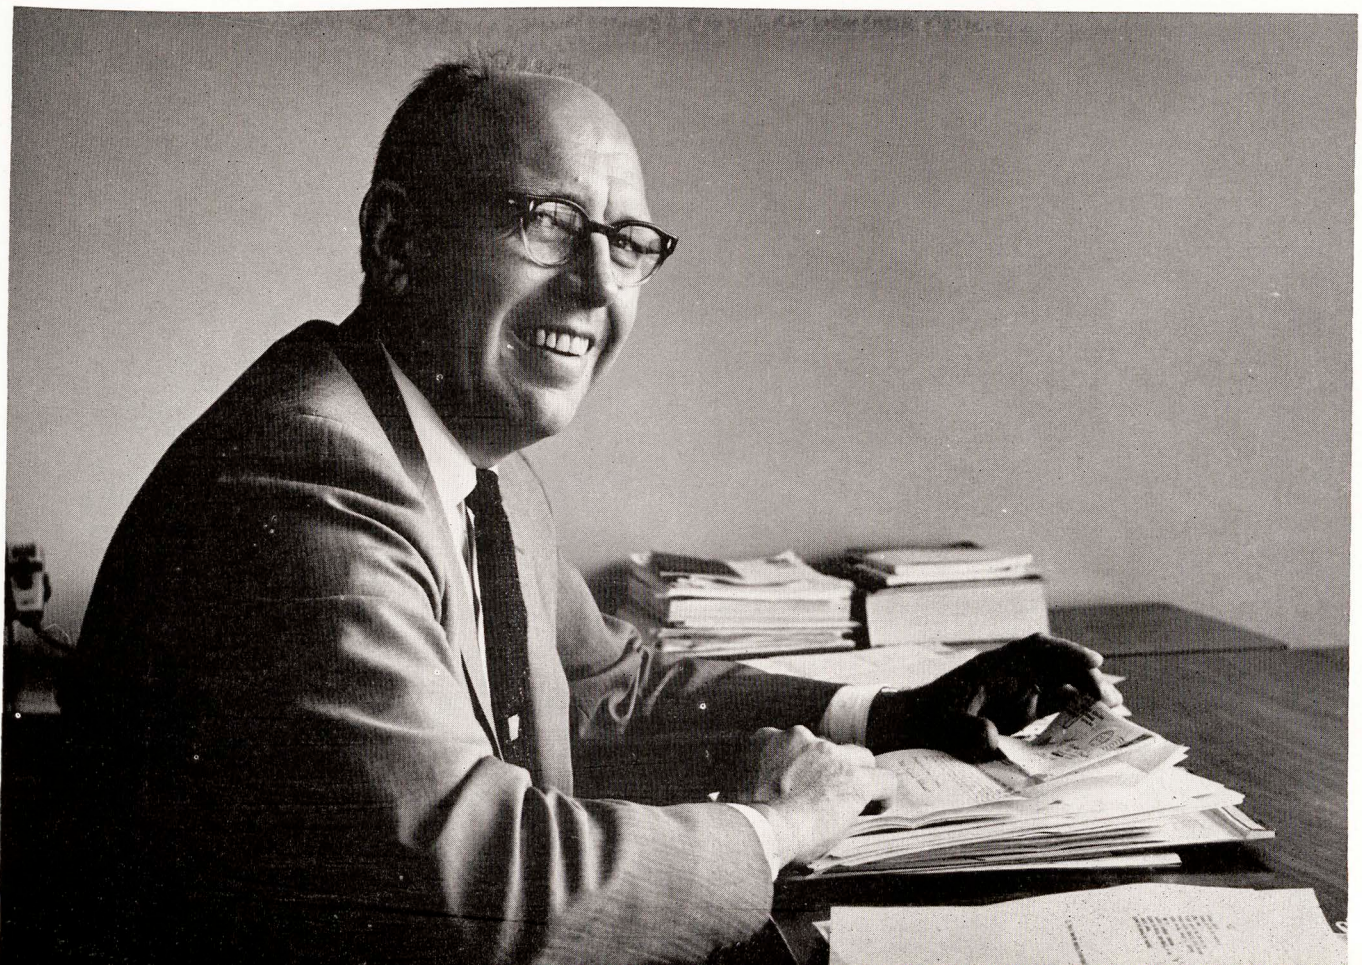

The University of Arkansas School of Nursing was established to help meet the pressing demand for larger numbers of skilled nurses and to make available to young people of Arkansas the best possible educational preparation for the profession of nursing.

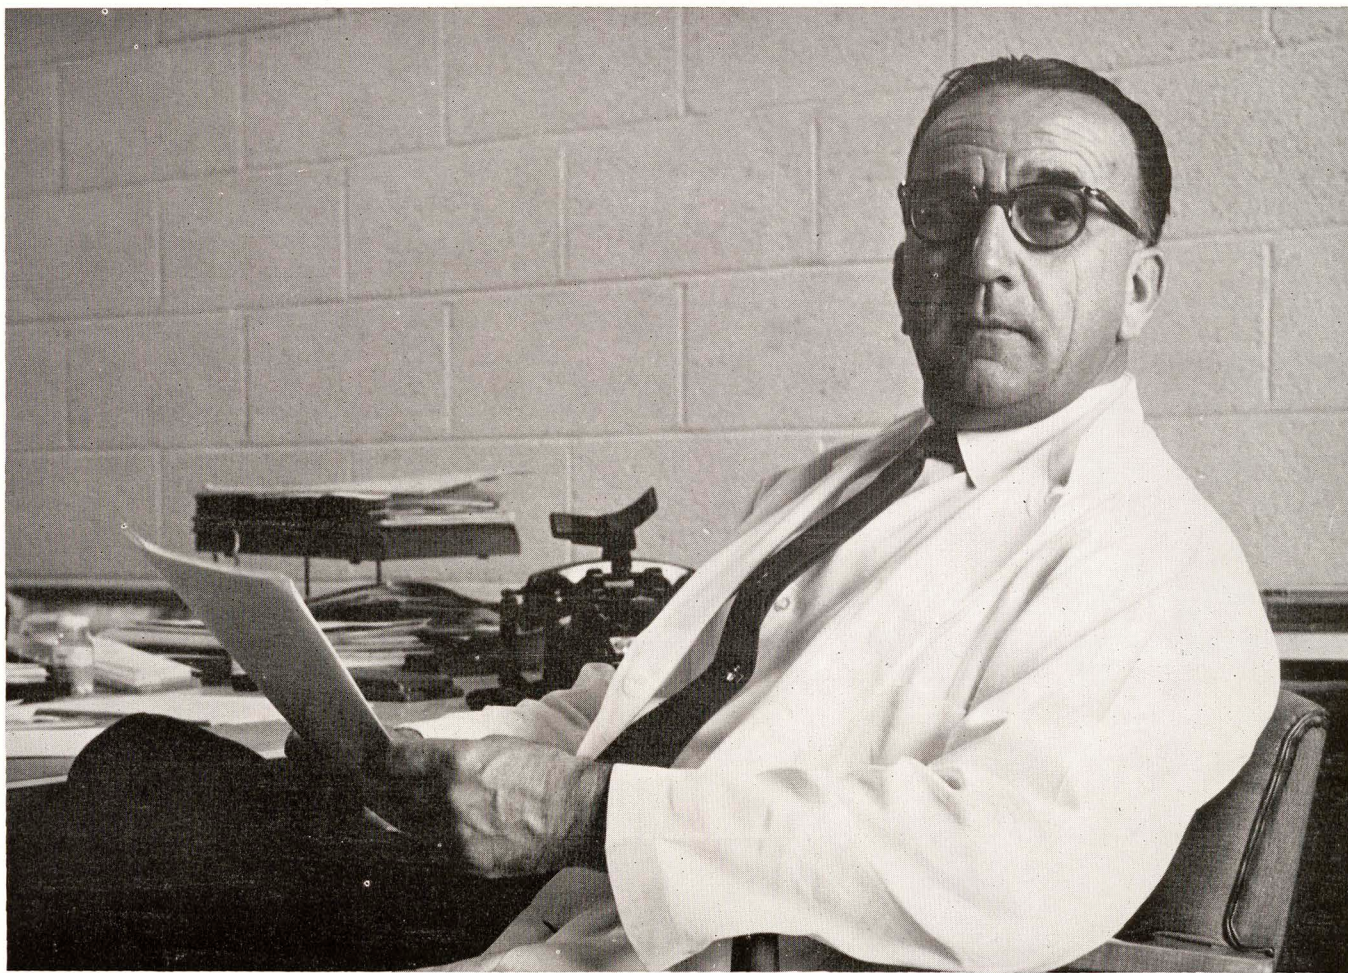

After serving as Acting President, Mr. Storm Whaley assumed the position of Vice President for Health Sciences. Dr. Winston K. Shorey is the University's Dean of Medicine, and the School of Pharmacy is directed by Dean Stanley G. Middelstaedt. The School of Nursing is under the direction of Dean Frances Russell.

Division of Student Affairs

The Division of Student Affairs is a composite of the offices of the Dean of Students, the Dean of Men, the Dean of Women, and the Coordinator of Student Aid.

The main function of the personnel is to coordinate the activities of the students with the activities of the University as a whole. They are also responsible for keeping track of the status and progress of the students and other interested persons. The division supervises the Student Counseling Service, Infirmary, Food Services, Student Union, Book Store, Placement Office, Financial Aid, and Part-Time Employment Services. Along with these duties, they work with all student organizations in terms of student welfare, morale, and discipline.

D. Whitney Halladay, Dean of Students, is in charge of the total program of the Division of Student Affairs. He graduated from Pomona College and received his M.A. degree from Claremont Graduate School and his Ed. D. degree from Columbia University.

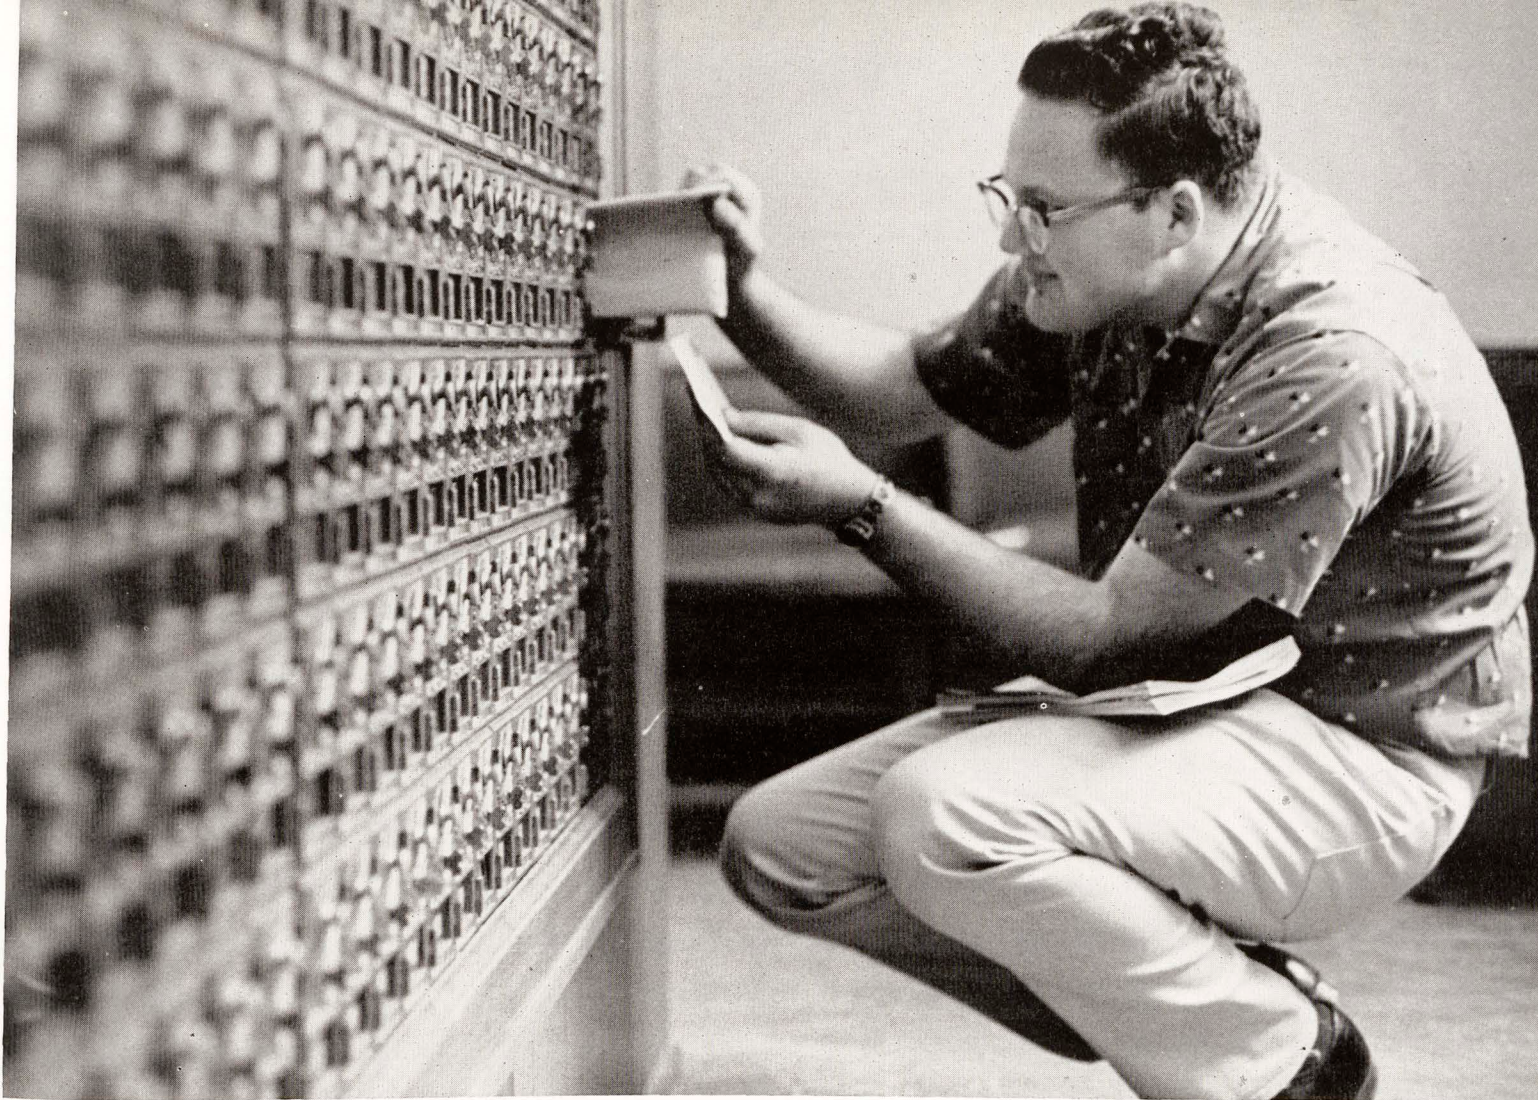

Completing her second year as Dean of Women at the University is Miss Jacqueline Sterner. In this capacity, she directs and coordinates all phases of the co-ed campus activity. Dean Sterner is a native of Indiana and received her B.A. and M.S. degrees from Indiana University. She came to the University from Texas Tech, where she served as Assistant Dean of Women. Dean Sterner has been nationally prominent in guidance and counseling work with women students at colleges and universities.

Directly assisting Dean Sterner is Dean Grace Vineyard, Assistant Dean of Women. Dean Vineyard works with all phases of the program, but concentrates mainly on freshmen.

Robert L. Jones, Dean of Men, is concerned directly with fraternities, international students, and student counseling programs. Dean Jones graduated from Arkansas Polytechnic College in Russellville. He received his M.Ed. degree from the University of Arkansas.

Inevitable bridge game takes place in Union between classes — and sometimes during classes.

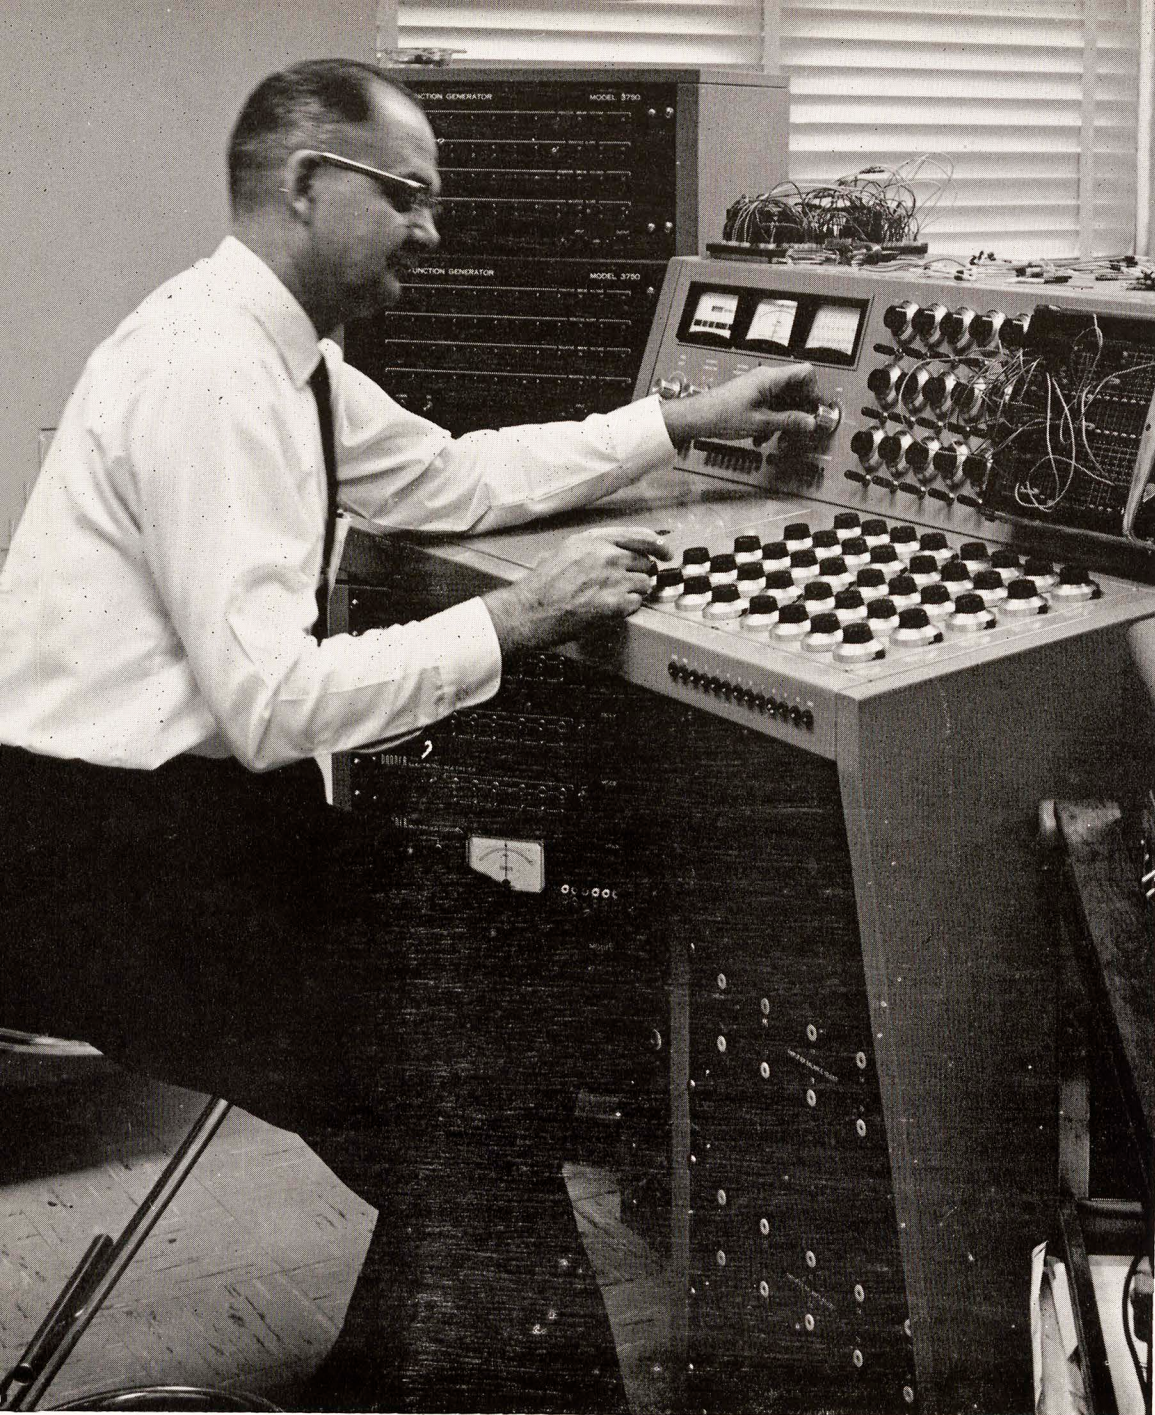

Student Union barber sights carefully to get that flat-top exactly right. Union barber shop is popular with students who don't have time to go downtown between classes, and who have no objections to being stared at by casual passersby.

Graduate Institute of Technology, at 12th and McAlmont, is part of UA's Little Rock campus.

Graduate Institute of Technology

The University of Arkansas has established the Graduate Institute of Technology as part of its educational facilities. Its laboratories, classrooms, reference library and administrative offices are located in a modern six-story building, in company with other University facilities, at 12th and McAlmont Streets in Little Rock.

The overall objectives of the Graduate Institute of Technology are, first, to provide an opportunity for graduates in science and engineering, including those currently employed, to continue their studies to be able to qualify for advanced degrees in the fields of science and technology, and, second, to engage in advanced research so as to expand the field of scientific knowledge.

These objectives supplement each other in that research must be a part of the graduate training of scientists and engineers, and graduate students or other technical assistants are essential to effective research.

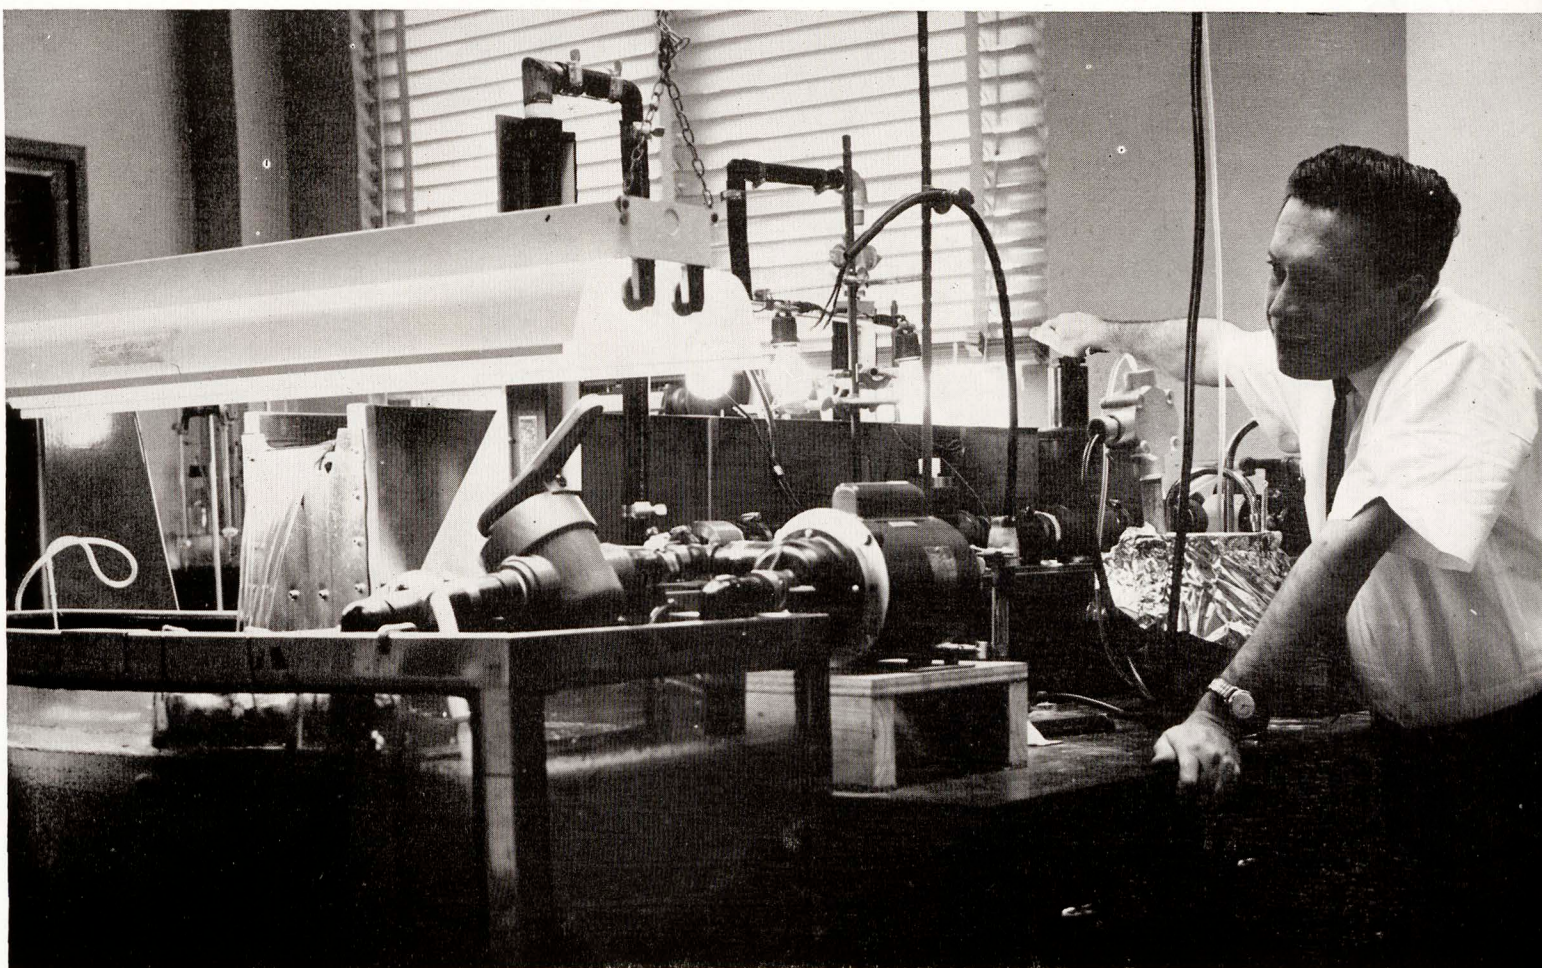

Facilities for studies after graduation, during employment as well as on full time, have become of growing importance to the State of Arkansas. Such facilities must be of high quality and in useful fields. They also must be readily accessible to the industrial centers in which most technicians are employed. The availability of such facilities is seriously considered by many major industrial concerns in selecting new plant locations.

Recognizing these facts, the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission recommended to the Trustees of the University of Arkansas and to the Arkansas State Legislature that facilities for graduate study and research be created, and located in Little Rock, so as to be readily available to the major industrial centers of the State.

After study, and review with the University Trustees, the 1957 Legislature authorized the establishment in Little Rock of the University of Arkansas Graduate Institute of Technology, and provided needed funds for its initial operation.

Modern, well equipped laboratories are available at the Graduate Institute of Technology and its research staff has outstanding facilities. These facilities are being constantly increased and are used for contract research and for projects arising from the individual interests of the Institute's faculty. The research operations are of significant value in supplementing scientific instruction and providing practical operating experience for students.

A graduate from the University of Arkansas or from an accredited school requiring substantially the same under-graduate program as is required by the University, may be admitted to full graduate standing if his grades are well above the average required for the bachelor's degree.

Latest equipment is used by students at GIT, which has particularly outstanding facilities in the fields of physical, inorganic, analytical and nuclear chemistry, nuclear physics, and electronics and instrumentation. Facilities are constantly being increased.

Outstanding Faculty

The faculty of the University has seldom received the recognition it deserves. In an attempt to rectify this situation, the 1963 RAZORBACK pays tribute to some of our outstanding faculty members.

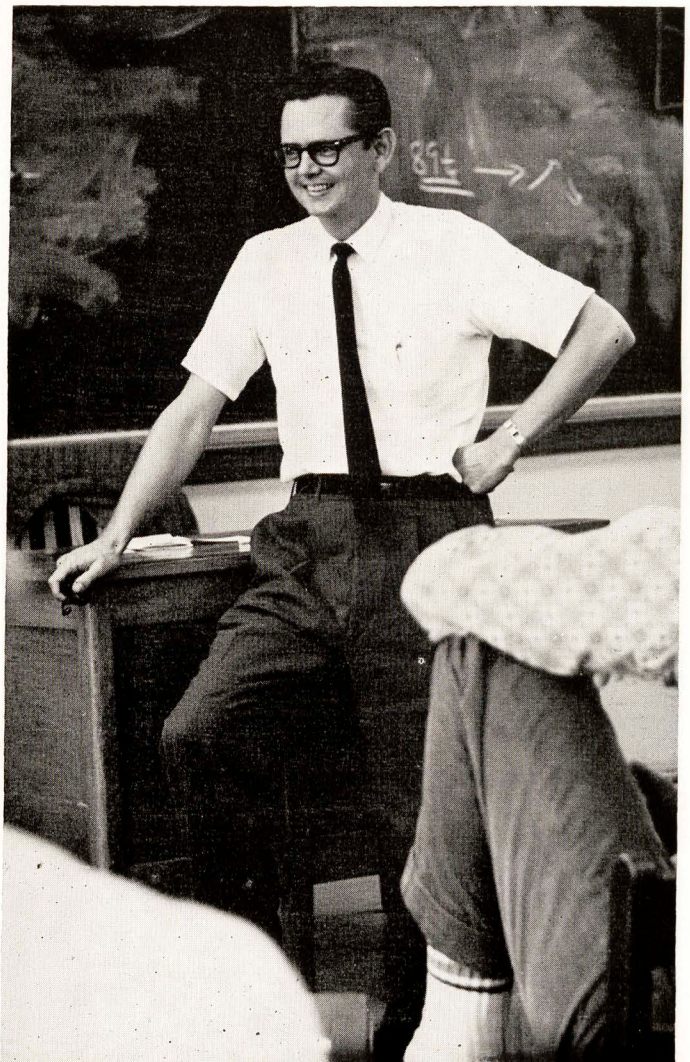

The Alumni Association's Outstanding Achievement Awards for superior work in the fields of teaching and research were received by Dr. Henry M. Alexander, professor and chairman of the government department; Dr. Joseph P. Fulton, professor and head of the plant pathology department; and Dr. Robert A. Leflar, distinguished professor of law.

Dr. Robert E. Kennedy, assistant professor of finance, received the Omicron Delta Kappa award as "Outstanding Teacher". The award is given annually for outstanding achievement in the classroom. Later, Dr. Kennedy was tapped for membership in ODK.

Dr. Ralph Jones, professor of government, presides over a meeting of University Senate, composed of faculty members.

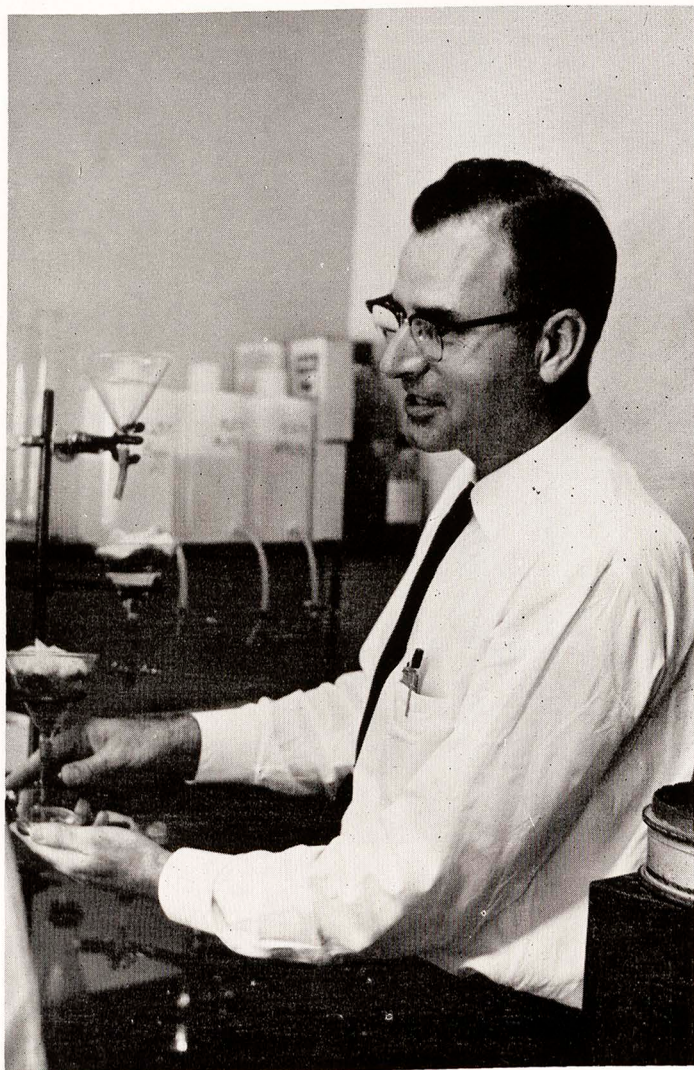

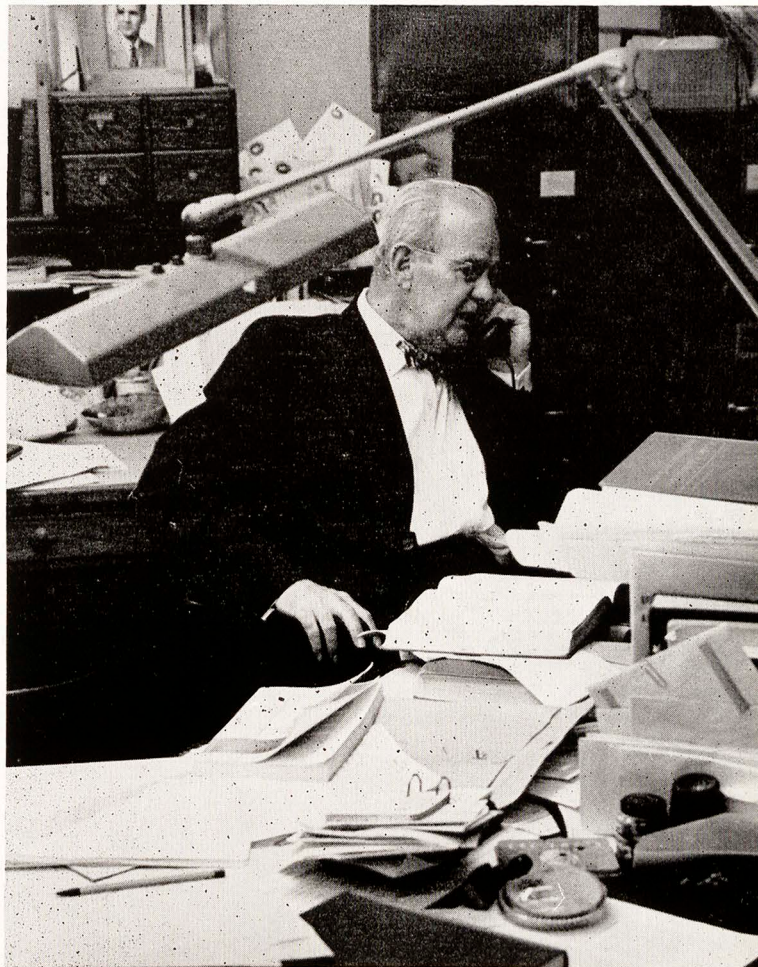

Dr. Kennedy is noted for his sense of humor and his literacy, both of which are prized characteristics among the faculty of the business school.

Dr. Robert A. Leflar, distinguished professor of law, who received Alumni Association award for teaching, has intimidated law students for years.

Dr. Henry M. Alexander, chairman of government department, authority on Arkansas government, received research award.

Dr. Joseph P. Fulton, head of plant pathology department, also received award for research done primarily on virus diseases.

CLASSES

And this is what it's all about — officially, anyway. The pursuit of knowledge (or at least a degree). Well, it is not an easy road for any of us, fraught with perils like 7:30 classes and pop tests. Congratulations, Seniors — you've earned it. Good Luck, Freshmen — you'll need it. And for everyone in between — keep plugging.

Attitude of "Splendor in the Grass" illustrates complacent attitude of many football fans who were shrewd enough to secure early parking place. Their surprise will come when they attempt to leave. Visitors are plagued with Fayetteville streets; students are simply plagued with Fayetteville.

Father of All-American Billy Moore (far right) watches calmly while his son leads the attack for Arkansas in the Dad's Day game. With hat cocked back he reflects that famous Moore attitude of casualness. By the second half both father and son changed this when Baylor made its threatening drive.

Pep band performs for one of the many impromptu rallies. The quality of their music certainly would not win any prizes but the band serves the task of "just making lots of noise".

Homecoming Queen Rosemary Privett appears delighted at crowd's response to one of few humorous events of the ceremony. The moody little flower girl who stalled the show for a moment was gallantly rescued by Jerry Don May (in suave sunglasses). Campus "leaders" escort the girls, who go with players.

Rainy days in good old Fayetteville are common occurrences, bringing out varied array of umbrellas, raincoats and other protective devices. This is really not so much of an inconvenience, since most people wear raincoats all the time, anyway.

Chapter Four

GREEKS

We have heard that the Greek system is in trouble at some schools. But, thank goodness, it is still a going concern in Razorback-land. The Greeks may not be all they claim to be, but they are enough. Brotherhood, we love it.

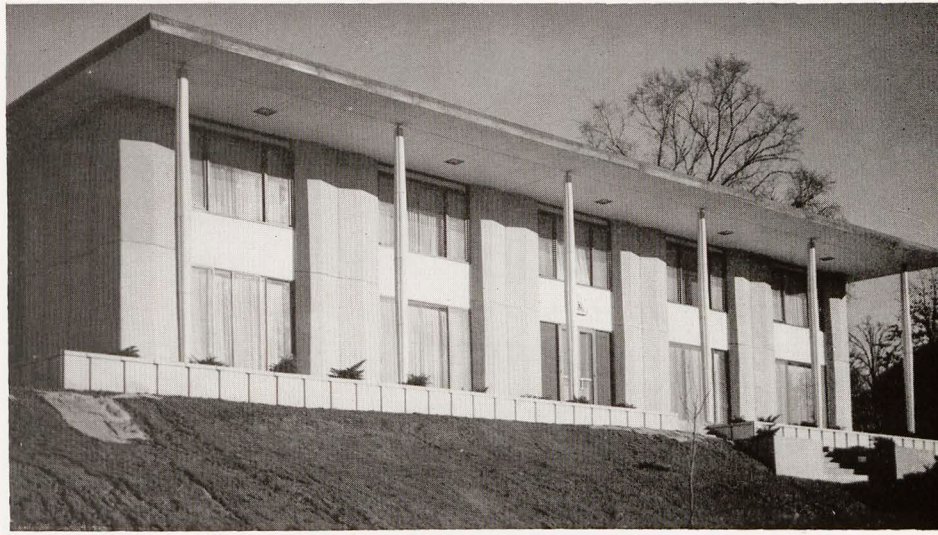

Billy James and date look happy as they lean out a window of the new Acacia house. Actually, it is their first look at it and are about to jump. Others, less distraught, know it will improve.

First Row: David R. Bragg, George Carney, James Carney, Franklin Harold Cochran, Jack Davis Cohen, James N. Cooper, Rel B. Corbin, Dale G. Cosgrove, Warren Edwin Creighton, Gary Felker, Edward William Gass.

Acacia started the year off right by moving into its new quarter-million dollar chapter house, which was dedicated by the Grand Lodge of Arkansas in early October. Rushing builders out and pledges in, Acacians filled their year with a social calendar which included a dedication reception, homecoming dance, Black and Gold formal, Christmas formal, underprivileged children's party, faculty tea, exchange dinners, pre-game buffets, Valentine Dance, and a number of outings. Officers on campus were: Steve O'Kelly, IFC Treasurer; Neil Maynard, Treasurer of YDC; Dave Ruble, Vice President of ABC; Richard Kushmmul, Treasurer of Pi Tau Sigma; and Bill James, Vice President of Phi Mu Alpha. Sam Park was associate editor of the Traveler.

Acacia

and roses during the intermission of the Black and Gold Formal. Losers of Sweetheart elections sometimes just seem to . . . go away.

Alpha Chi Omega

Active Alpha Chi Omegas on the campus this year were Lynda Stair, AWS Executive Board, treasurer of Mortar Board, Phi Beta Kappa and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and Mira Van Patten, Who's Who. Organizational presidents were Belle Thompson, president of National Collegiate Players; Mary Ellen Sullivan, president of Lambda Tau; Mira Van Patten, WRA president; and Susan Branigan, president of sophomore counselors. Members of Sigma Alpha Iota were Carolyn Crowley (treasurer), Diana Hopkins (sergeant-at-arms), and Jean Mesavage. Charlotte Norton was a member of the President's Council.

Social activities of the sorority for the year included the Founders Day Tea, a Christmas party, the Fall Pledge Dance, the faculty tea, the scholarship dinner, and the Spring Formal.

Rushees are tempted by an Alpha Chi in a grass skirt. Just why this particular method was chosen is not certain, since a hula girl in a grass skirt usually tempts boys. Best guess: she is telling a story with her hands which goes, "Alpha Chi is great," and so on.

The wearers of the diamond pin brought to Alpha Delta Pi honors in the three phases of campus life this year.

In scholarship, ADPi ranked third among the Greeks. Marilyn London and Elaine Smith were tapped for Mortar Board.

In campus leadership, Marilyn London served as AWS vice-president; Susan Dulan was AWS state secretary; Pat Balay was a senior senator; Alice Wingfield was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities; Theda Doyle was Tau Beta Sigma president; Sherron Baslee served as a counselor at Futrall and Susan Dulan at Fulbright.

In campus activities, ADPi received second place in Homecoming decorations; Linda Purdy was a majorette; and Gail Campbell was in Angel Flight.

Alpha Delta Pi

tea in her honor. She is second from left end. Mrs. Dena Winborn, president of alumnae, and Mrs. E. J. Dyess, housemother, are next.

Alpha Gamma Rho

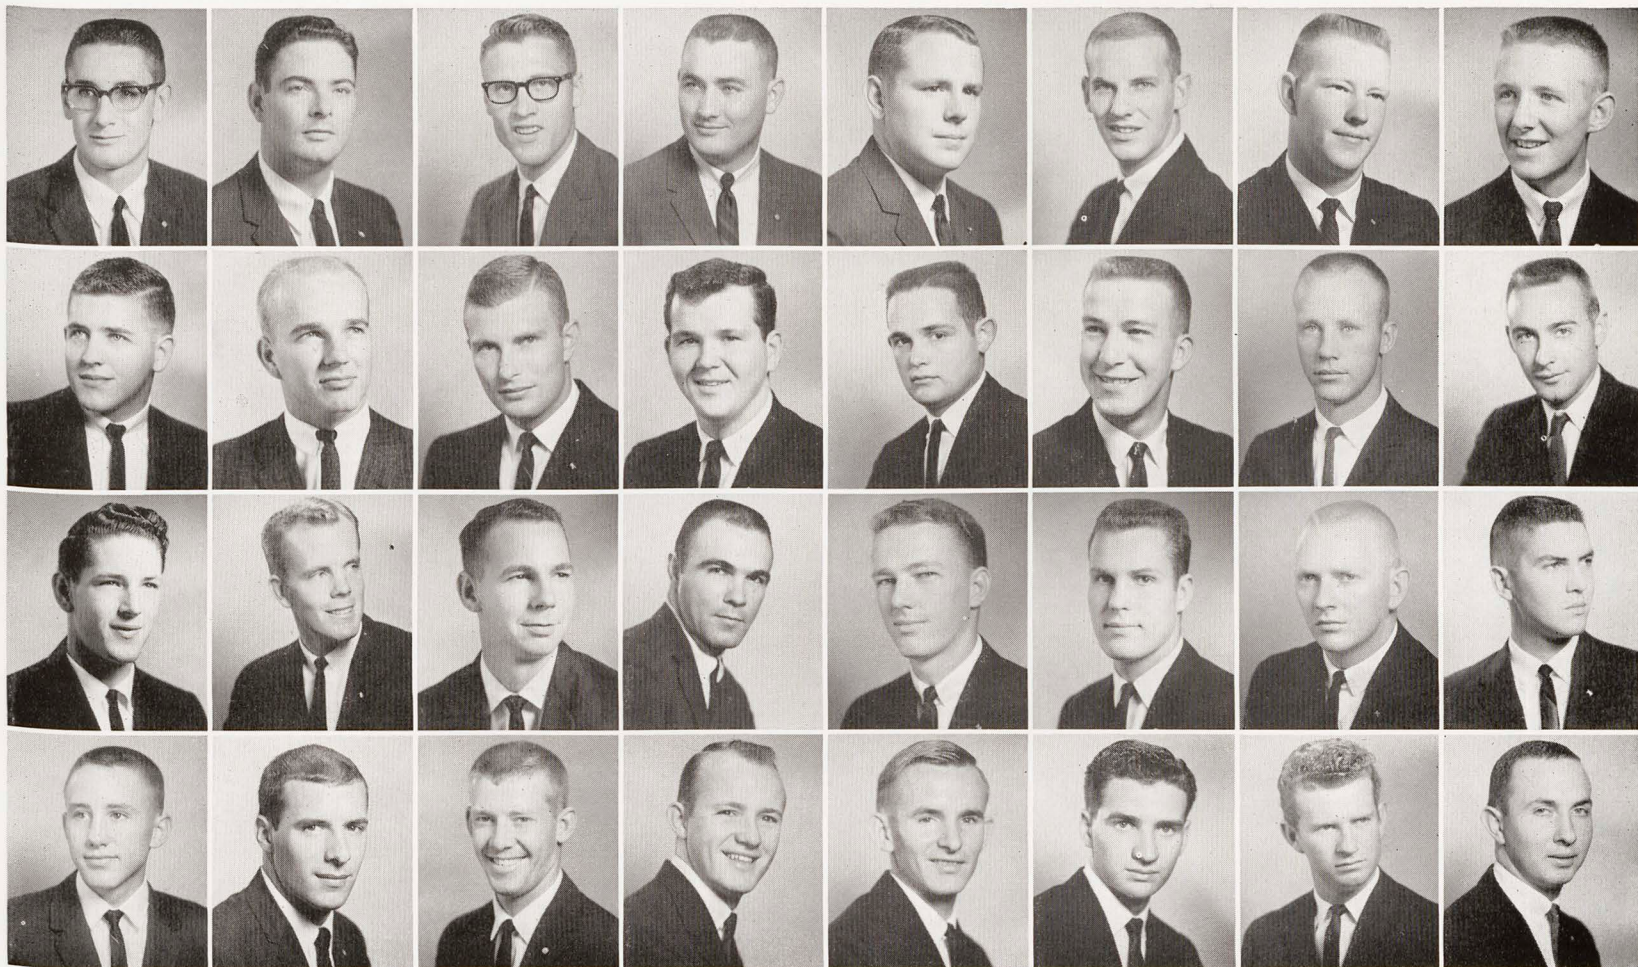

The highlight of the Alpha Gamma Rho social calendar this year was the Pink Rose Formal. Other activities included drop-ins after home football games; the Rooster Day dance, which had a Western theme; the Christmas dance; the Valentine's Day dance; a spring outing at the end of May; and a Christmas Party for underprivileged children.

Outstanding AGR's included Ronald Maxwell, who served as Agri Students Association Manager. Edmond Brewer was Editor of the Arkansas Agriculturist, Chronicler for Alpha Zeta, and Alpha Tau Alpha Reporter. Terry Fugitt was business manager for ASA. Larry Lewis served as Scribe for Alpha Zeta and as Reporter for the Entomology Club. Max Parnell was Secretary of Alpha Tau Alpha, and Jim Marrs was Vice President of the Agri Economics Club.

An AGR is served punch at some function or other. It isn't important which, because the rules say that all punch at such events must at all costs be non-alcoholic, so there couldn't have been anything exciting happening. All Greeks pout a lot about this.

First Row: Paul Allen Bariola, George Albert Berger, Gerald Walter Bequette, Edmond Ray Brewer, James Edward Burton, William Jason Cain, Frank Lyle Carter, Michael Ray Crum.

Third Row: Jerry McDonald, James Ellis Marrs, Ronald Sherman Maxwell, Carlos Neil Mitchell, Gary Fred Norris, Lawrence Richard Oliver, Chester Max Parnell, Gene Larry Phillips.

Fourth Row: Stephen Pile, Lawrence Arthur Potter, Jr., Harold Wesley Rogers, Robert Daniel Selby, Robert Van Shaver, Claude Skelton, Gordon Howard Thompson, Milton Webb.

AGR and date enjoy an easy rendition of "The Midget Swing", in which the partners casually swing a girl midget between them, until one lets go. Then the other lets go, too, as shown here. What fun!

Who's the rat who turned on the lights? No sweat, it's just Jim Finch and date Judy Bishop at the ATO Yard-and-a-half party. He got mixed up on rules, took a yard for himself. She got the rest.

First Row: Joseph Rayburn Blankenship, Jr., William Kemper Bruton, Jr., Tom Cooper, Joe Daugherty, Ron Theron Elkins, James Thomas Finch, Leon Allan Hall, Jack Wayne Hall.

Second Row: William Creighton Holly, John Thomas Hudman, James Robert Johnston, Darrell Lynn Lucas, John Patrick Marinoni, Paul Albert Marinoni, Kick Dosthuizen, Hilton Frelland Osborne.

Alpha Xi chapter of Alpha Tau Omega enjoyed an active social and academic life this year. Two formals led the social list — the Snow Flake Whirl and the Tea Rose Ball. Other highlights were a Half Party, the Bicycle Race, numerous drop-ins and house parties.

Tom Owens and Darrell Lucas were named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Darrell Lucas was an honor graduate, and Tom Owens was Commander of the AFROTC Cadet Chorus and a member of Phi Mu Alpha Symposium. Bill Bruton represented the fraternity in Lambda Tau. Carroll Balkemore served as president of Pi Mu Epsilon and Sigma Pi Sigma, was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, an honor graduate and recipient of a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. The fraternity received the blood donor's trophy.

Alpha Tau Omega

A group of ATO's steer their dates in front of the camera—or is it the other way around? Girls think formals are simply wonderful. Boys, who have to spend lots of money and be on relatively good behavior, are less enthusiastic. This is the ATO winter formal.

Chi Omega

The mother chapter of Chi Omega again brought honors in campus activities. Outstanding members were Mary Wheeler Prewitt, chairman of the Judicial Board; Pat Trimble, editor of the Traveler; Sandy Hillman, Traveler Business Manager; Mary Sue Horner and Cecilia Swaim, cheerleaders; Kay McCollum, Scarlett Cornwell, Shorty McCollum, and Francis Mitchell, majorettes; Mary Kay Stevenson, Student Senate; Marian Alford, Diane Gilliam, and Judy Broach, senior counselors; Mollie Haley Wilson, president of Chi Theta and Who's Who in Business School. Tapped for Mortar Board were Mary Wheeler Prewitt, Joyce Mikeska, Pat Trimble, and Mary Kay Stevenson. Beverly Bynum, Jephrey Phipps, and Rita Foster were charter members of Chimes. Pat Trimble and Mary Wheeler Prewitt were elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Marian Alford puts the hard sell on a rushee. This is deceptive, since the scrapbook (foreground) means it's a cinch she won't get a bid. Marian made the scrapbook all by herself. She got to be Traveler editor that way. The ChiO's make the front page a lot.

First Row: Judy Kay Adams, Marian Carole Alford, Jacquelyn Sue Anderson, Carol Jean Beebe, Susan Jane Berry, Barbara Anne Best, Judy Carol Broach, Lee Fanning Brown, Patricia Robbs Brunner, Margaret Carol Burge.

Delta Delta Delta

Tri Delta ranked high in campus activities. Barbara Duncan was President of Mortar Board, was on AWS Judicial Board, and was elected to Who's Who. Barbara and Dot Harkey held class offices in Business School. Vicki Rhodes, Lynn McWhorter, Carole Lynn Williams and Betty Brackin were Fulbright Senior Counselors, Carole Lynn also was the chairman of the AWS Fashion and Etiquette Committee, and Betty served as chairman of the Student-Faculty Committee. Mari-Ann Hendricks was elected State President of WRA. Diane Elrod, Polly Outlaw and Jannane Bivens were members of the Student Senate. Tri Delta won many beauty honors with Dot Harkey, cadet colonel of the Army ROTC, Carolyn Adair, Army ROTC, and Polly Outlaw, AFROTC cadet colonel. Polly and Susan Smith were Homecoming maids. Donna Axum was chosen National Cotton Picking Queen.

Tri Deltas stuff holes with crepe paper. Pledges are usually stuck with this job, but they don't like it any more than the members.

Girls even con boys into doing it. All this for just a Homecoming float, and nothing to show for it if you lose the judging. They did.

Delta Gamma

Delta Gamma was well represented in campus activities. Kay Baker was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and also served as vice president of WRA and chairman of the Student Union Music Committee. Frances Dillard was chairman of the AWS Finance Committee and secretary of the AWS Legislative Board. Nancy Sharp served as co-chairman of Singfony, treasurer of Panhellenic Council, and secretary of Civic Club. Nelta Pinkerton was co-chairman of the Student Union Special Projects Committee. Gene Gillette was advertising manager of the Traveler. The sorority was also well represented in honoraries, Alpha Lambda Delta, and sophomore counselors.

Delta Gamma's social calendar was filled with numerous activities this year. The annual Pinafore Party and the Anchor Ball highlighted the year.

DG's entertain at their Pinafore Party, so called because of the H.M.S. Pinafore, to which their anchor symbol bears some relation.

Anyhow, they all dress up like kids and have a lot of fun. In keeping with the theme of the party, guests were served water.

In addition to scholastic achievement, which is the basic aim of FarmHouse fraternity, a full social calendar rounds out the group's campus activities. The Bowrey Ball is the big costume party of the year. The annual Christmas dance comes in mid-December. The Spring Formal and Spring Outing complete the year socially.

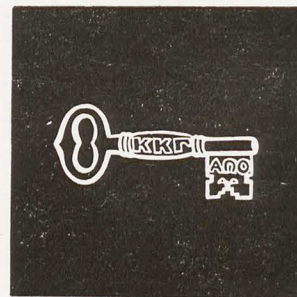

FarmHouse kept up its tradition of campus leadership this year. Bruce Coleman was tapped for ODK and served as treasurer of ASA and secretary of the AI Club. Charles Hooks was chosen for ODK and Phi Eta Sigma and was selected as outstanding sophomore cadet in Army ROTC. Jim Shearers was selected as the outstanding freshman in the College of Agriculture.

FarmHouse

Lew Hendrix receives congratulations from FarmHouse fraternity brothers after winning first place in men's division of Student Union Talent Show, held during Student Union Week. Hendrix won top spot for picking and singing a medley of pseudo-folk songs.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

The wearers of the key have brought to their chapter honors in many activities this year.

Kappa placed first in Singfony and won honorable mention in Homecoming house decoration. Tapped for Mortar Board were Monika Hartstein, Diane Simpson Proctor, Judy Vardner Robertson, and Ann Hanss Massey. Monika Hartstein was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Holding AWS positions were Donna Welhausen, Secretary and Monika Hartstein, Treasurer. Jan Dandy served as Secretary of the Senior Class. Patty Kelly was head cheerleader. Beauty honors went to Shirley Thomas, Miss UofA, and Diana Hubbard, AFROTC sponsor.

Sue Lloyd and cohorts are losing this event of the Sigma Nu relays for the Kappas. There is no d'sgrace in this, since it follows that the girls with the bigger muscles win. The Sigma Nus have the sororities convinced there is virtue in this. What a snow job.

Eighth Row: Ronald Alan Turner, Sam Morris Vogel, Reg Wallin, Jr., John Kitchner Warriner, John Dickson Watkins, Hugh Day Welch, Charles Whiteside, III, Jay Milton Willis, Harvey Erwin Wood, Jim Wood, Clay Woods, Mike Zaleski.

This year, as in years before, Kappa Sigma took its share of honors on the campus. Charlie Whiteside was president of the senior class and vice president of his class in business school. In Blue Key, Kappa Sigma was represented by Mike Thompson (president), Charlie Whiteside, Bill Hawkins, Bill Anderson, Mike Zaleski, Bobby Fussell, Ray Trail, and Worth Camp. Barney Thomas and Burt Moore were ODK members, while Dickey Halsall represented the chapter in Cardinal XX. Barney Thomas was on the IFC Rush Committee. KΣ was represented in varsity athletics by Ray Trail, Gary Howard, Jerry Jones, Tim Langston, Billy Clay, Jack Friar, Ronnie Clary, Richard Trail, and Jim Bone.

The Kappa Sigma social calendar was well filled, including the Christmas Formal, Valentine Party, Suppressed Desire Party, and the Spring Outing.

Kappa Sigma

Scott Stuart uses gorilla tactics on Betty Masters at Christmas Formal while Kappa Sig brothers sagely approve. The full name of it was Country Sage, and it ran somewhere close to a hundred proof. Bill Anderson, left, is really Santa Claus. The sleigh is his, too.

Lambda Chi Alpha

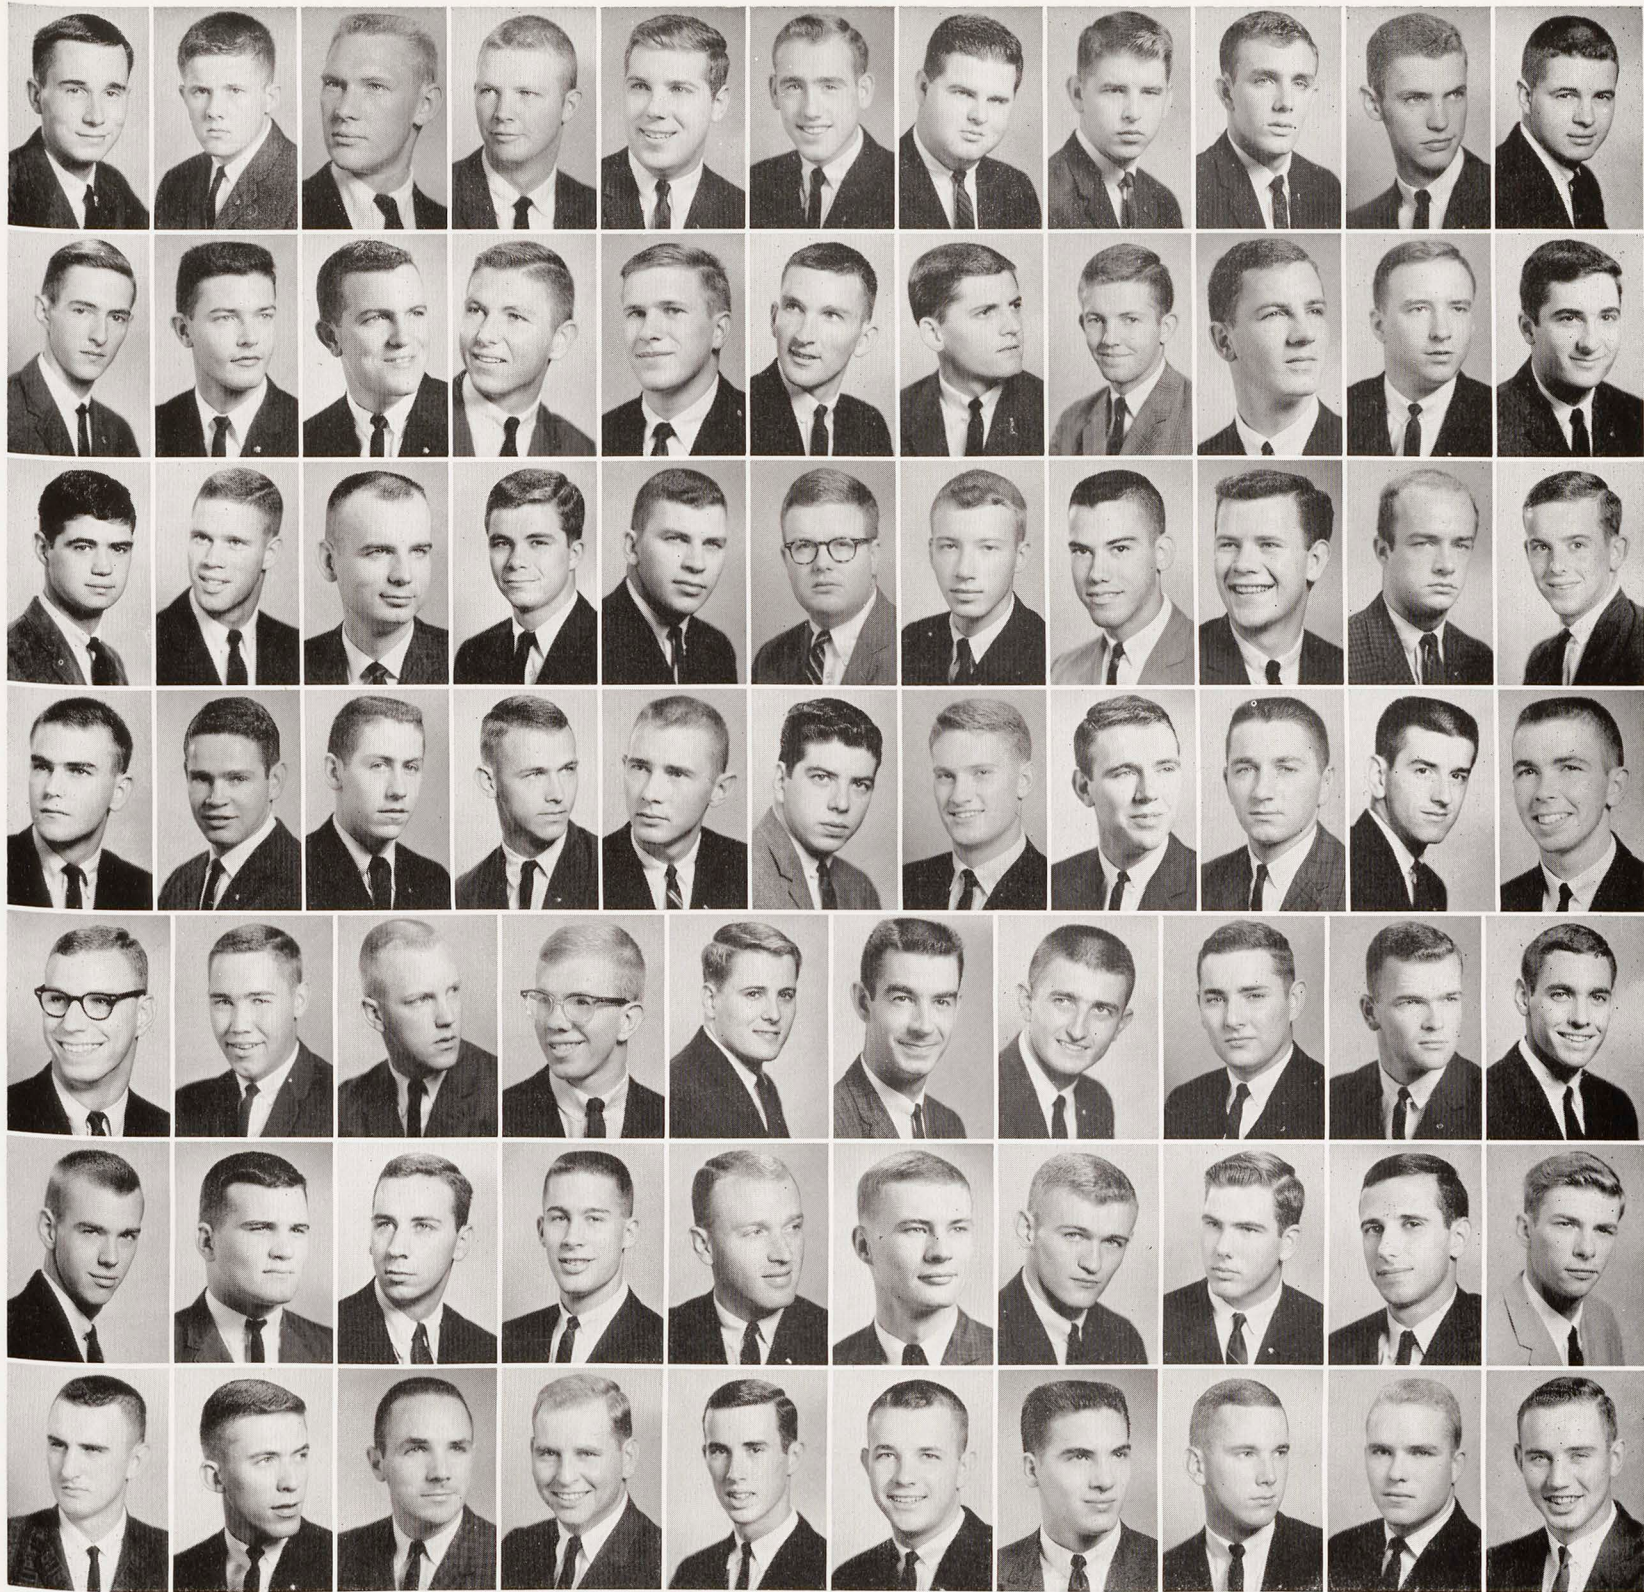

Highlighting the social events of the year were Lambda Chi's annual Playboy Party, the Intern Party, the spring Black and White Formal, and the spring outing. In addition, the fraternity finished second in AAA intramural football, as well as taking third in Homecoming float competition.

Outstanding Lambda Chi's included Stokely Hays, who was elected President of Blue Key and chosen for Who's Who. John Harmon was President of Associated Students for next year. Keith Wetsell and Richard Remke were chosen for Cardinal XX. Dick Holbert was President of the sophomore class in business school and was selected as a cheerleader for the coming season. Stan Patterson was President of the junior class in business school. Larry Wallace was elected Gaebale director for next year.

Lambda Chi's and dates gather around television set as scantily clad Playmate looks on at annual Playboy Party. Since television set is on, one would assume that this party was not quite as riotous as the name implies. What would Hugh Hefner have to say?

Phi Delta Theta opened the year by winning the fall semester of both AAA and AA intramurals. In addition, the men won first place in Homecoming float decoration.

Phi Delta Theta

A Phi Delt, awe-stricken, raises sacred object for adulation of his brothers. They will surely respond, for it is truly a rare event for them to approach so closely a relic of a major deity of their humble tribe. They should be rewarded for their ardent devotion.

Pi Beta Phi

Pi Phis serving the campus included Susan Linebarger, Student Body Secretary, Who's Who; Betty Copeland, AWS treasurer, President's Council, Who's Who; Cathie Rimmel, Mortar Board, Panhellenic president, Drake Relays Queen, Who's Who; Jane Kitchen, Mortar Board, AWS Scholarship Committee chairman, Who's Who; Marinell Coe, Student Union Publicity Chairman, ABC pledge secretary; and Brenda Heck, editor of the Guild Ticker, Commerce Queen, PiKA Dream Girl.

Susan Helmig was chosen as an Army ROTC Honorary Cadet Lt. Colonel. Gene Chambers reigned in the 1962 Homecoming Court. Karen Giss represented the UofA at the Cotton bowl. Cherry Lubker was Lambda Chi Alpha Crescent Girl.

Pi Phi's get the Christmas spirit at their annual party for such festivities. The skinny Santa Claus is a dead giveaway and is probably a Pi Phi. The lady holding the loot, their housemother, is sympathetic. She will say she is grateful, but there is no . . .

This year marked another outstanding year for the men of Pi Kappa Alpha as they excelled by taking first places in intramural football and homecoming house decoration. Social activities for the Pikes included the Christmas Brunch and the District Convention in December. The Faculty Tea and the Dream Girl Formal were the big social events in the spring along with numerous informal parties and drop-ins.

Pi Kappa Alpha had leaders in all phases of campus life. Bill Brady was vice president of IFC, treasurer of Blue Key, member of the Student Senate, and representative of the senior class in BA. Jerry Don May served as president of ABC, and Jim Wellons was elected vice president of IFPC.

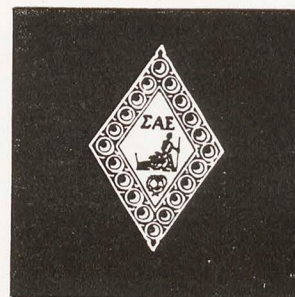

In sports, Jerry Mazzanti was named to the All Southwest Conference Football Team, while Tommy Boyer made All Southwest Conference Basketball.

Pi Kappa Alpha

This artistic wonder in cardboard and crepe took first place in the men's division of house decorations during Homecoming. The idea is to unite aesthetic beauty with a poetic word or two embodying the spirit of imminent mortal conflict. It still looks like hell.

Leadership and social activities highlighted another good year for the Sig Alphas.

SAE was represented in the Student Senate by Phil Rice, Roger Kline, Jim McKenzie, Jerry Pinson, and Jay Dickey. J. O. Buckley served as vice president of Omicron Delta Kappa, and Mickey Mayfield was tapped for ODK in spring ceremonies. Blue Key tapped Frank Lyon, Mickey Mayfield, David Long, and Jay Dickey. Paul Berry served as fall semester IFC Rush Chairman, and Harrison Butler will hold the post next year. Mickey Mayfield was elected president of Theta Tau and also served as president of Circle K.

Socially, the Alphas opened the year with a party for their new pledges and sponsored a tea for all sorority pledges. The Christmas season was highlighted by the annual Red Davis Christmas Party, in which Sandy McMath as Santa Claus made all the little kids cry, and the Christmas Formal, held at the chapter house.

As in the past, Sigma Chi was once again a leading contender in the intramural program. David Watkins ably served as Vice President of the Student Body, while Glenn Jones served as Attorney General. Sigma Chi's held the following positions in the College of Business Administration: Matthew Rothert, President of BA College; Owen Pugh, President of Beta Alpha Psi; and Skippy Coffman, student senator. Glen Jones was President of ODK and Owen Pugh was Treasurer, while other Ski's in ODK included Armil Snow, Conlee Bodishbaugh, Ralph Hammer, Denny Hurley, Tommy Polk, David Johnston, and Dick Hatfield. Blue Key Ski's included George Jernigan, (Vice President), Matthew Rothert, Craig Rains, John Jackson, Larry White, David Watkins, Lee Bowman, Neill Sloan, and M. J. Probst. Glenn Jones, Conlee Bodishbaugh, and David Watkins were selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

John Headlee wheels and deals at the annual Gold Rush party. You bring the gold, he gives you the rush. All for a good cause, though, since the deans required that a cut of the pot go to charity. Note the absence of booze. The deans required that, too.

Sigma Nu

Gamma Upsilon chapter of Sigma Nu continued to add new activities and honors to its formidable record. Individual achievements by Sigma Nu's were numerous. Gaston Gibson served as IFC president. Tim Hinkle was tapped for Blue Key, Jerry Cavaneau, Knox Patterson, John Feilke, and Charles Long were tapped for ODK. Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities members included Gaston Gibson, John Feilke, and Richard Smith. Student Senators were John Feilke, Buzzy McNair, Bob Bryant, Tim Hinkle, John Brashears, and Steve Gillespie. Buzzy McNair, Bob Bryant, Jim Lance, and Jerry Cooper were members of Cardinal XX.

In publications, Gary Carroll was Editor of the Student Directory, Knox Patterson was Editor of the Arkansas Engineer, and Bill Kidder was Business Manager of the Razorback. Chris Polychron was IFPC President.

Garry Carroll and Bill Kidder do their bit for rush. Since they were in character, the skit went nicely. Kidder is going to be Razorback co-editor next year. He is the intelligent-looking one on the right. The Sigma Nu's are proud of him. Really they are.

The Sig Eps were active members and leaders in campus organizations this year. In Circle K, Sammy Weems served as International Vice-President and Governor of the Mo-Ark district, while Scott Smith was vice-president and publicity chairman of the local chapter. Jerry Medlin and Jim Womble were selected for membership in Theta Tau. Scott Smith and Jim Morse represented the fraternity in Cardinal XX. Bill Runyan and Dwight Talburt were members of ODK. Dick Savage was a Razorback cheerleader. Charley Daniels, Jim Williams and Kenny Dean played football for the Razorbacks, while Steve Lackey, Roger Schlissler, and Jon Brittenum were Shoats.

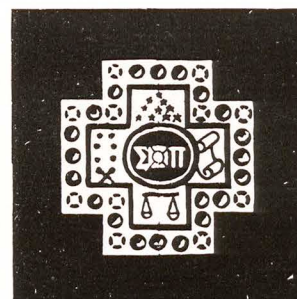

The Christmas party, the Golden Hearts Ball, spring outing and numerous football parties and drop-ins highlighted the Sig Ep social calendar for the year.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Scott Smith is on the verge of going into a trance over his date, at the same time performing a frenetic new dance called the Uptown. This is very difficult, since the dance requires one to move very fast, but one must expect such dilemmas at a college formal.

The Singapore Sling, Sigma Pi's oriental party placed number one on the social calendar this year. Other social events included the White and Gold Ball and the orchid formal.

Sigma Pi also actively participated in all intramural sports. Johnny Orler led the football team and was selected to the all intramural team. In varsity athletics, Sigma Pi was well represented by Jim Grizzle.

By placing academic achievements first, many men were prominent in campus organizations. Heading the list was Covin Jordan, who was chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Other outstanding men included David Foust — Theta Tau, AIIE, Blue Key, and Engineering Council; Charles Chesley — Sigma Pi Sigma, Pi Mu Epsilon and IFC, and Herman Investor — Theta Tau, ODK, AIIE and Engineering Council.

In its second year on the University campus as a national fraternity, the big news for Theta Xi chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon was the move to a new place of residence. The Tekes moved from the old house at the north end of Arkansas Avenue to the other end of the boulevard, joining the neighborhood of Sigma Nu and Pi Kappa Alpha.

The major social functions of the year included the annual Christmas Snow Ball, the Spring Red Carnation Ball, the Sweater Party, Founder's Day Banquet, drop-ins, and exchange dinners.

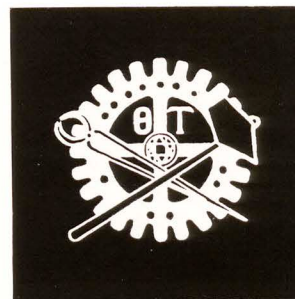

Tekes active in campus activities included John W. Graves, vice-president of the Young Republicans, and Gordon Apple, president of Young Americans for Freedom. Neil Schmitt was commander of Pershing Rifles and a counselor in Humphreys Hall. Mickey Cotrell was co-editor of the "UofA Republican."

Tau Kappa Epsilon

This year the UofA was the site for the annual TKE Arkansas-Oklahoma Province School, in which five chapters in the two states participated. The conference was well attended by pledges from the various chapters. The idea is to make them gung-ho members.

Theta Tau

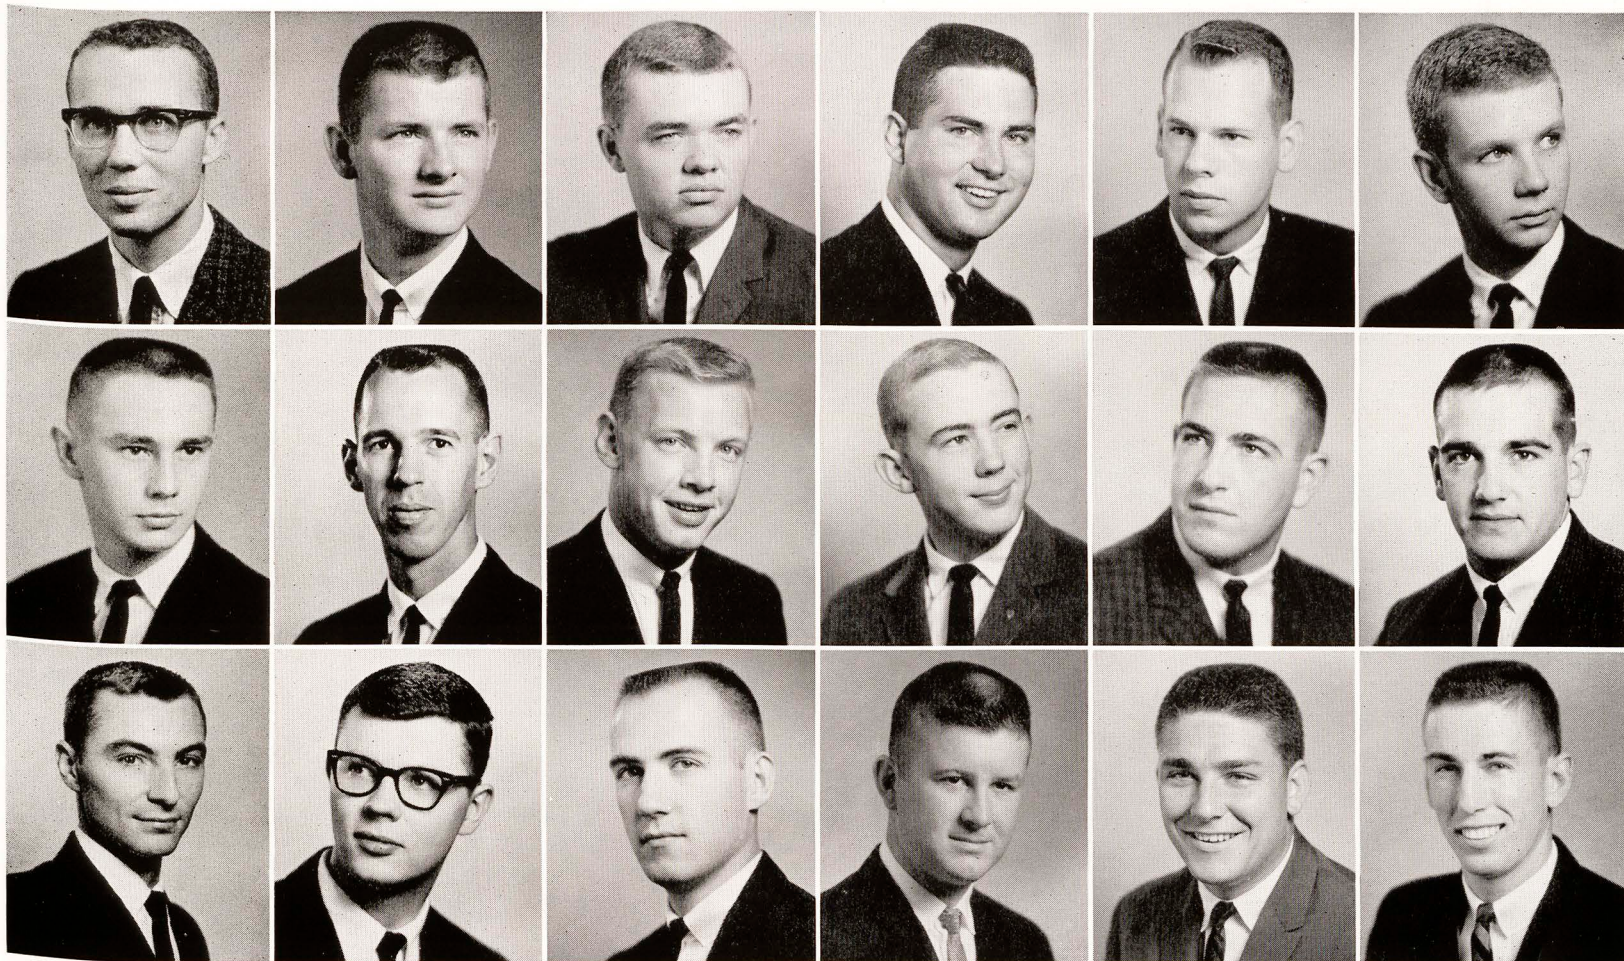

Although Theta Tau is primarily concerned with scholastic achievements, its social calendar is not lacking. Early in the year, the Founders Day Banquet was held, followed by the fall and spring outings and the St. Patricia Banquet. On April 7 an all day celebration in honor of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Theta Tau at the University of Arkansas was held, climaxed by a banquet that night.

Along with an outstanding scholastic record, members of Theta Tau continued to show leadership ability in many phases of campus life and were especially outstanding in the various engineering organizations. There were five members in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, fourteen members in ODK, and six members in Blue Key.

Taking a break from studies, men of Theta Tau engage in friendly card game — "friendly" except for Buck Johns, that is, who takes these things pretty seriously. Pressed by hard grind of engine school, Theta Tau's have little time for frivolous activities.

The shield and crown of Zeta Tau Alpha was well represented in campus activities. Judy Phillips served as A.W.S. president. Ann Erwin and Judy Phillips were on Mortar Board. Kay Hafenbrak was associate editor of the Razorback. Sandy Hubbard and Melinda Meek were A. W. S. Committee Chairmen. Janice Hargus was vice-president of Young Democrats. Sherre Lambers was vice-president of Chi Theta and secretary of S. A. M. Carolyn Raley and Judy Phillips were elected to Who's Who. Carolyn Raley was chairman of Legislative Board. Judy Boyd and Carolyn Raley were on the A.W.S. Judicial Board. Zeta had three senior counselors, thirteen sophomore counselors, and three Student Senators. Zeta won first place for its Homecoming float and second place in the Sigma Nu Relays.

Zeta Tau Alpha

Zeta pledges huddle in fear of the members, whom they have locked out but who must eventually return. Lockouts are great fun and do wonders for pledge esprit de corps, but the members know the pledges are just locked in. They laugh all the way to the Shamrock.

OPEN MINDS
OPEN DOORS

HALLS

The University has lots of dorms. Lo's and lots and lots of dorms. They are building big new dorms all the time. This year it was Futrall. Last year it was Humphreys. Next year there will be another big new dorm. A great many students live in the dorms. This year, a certain group of students said they wanted to live in the dorms, too. Now maybe the administration wishes they hadn't built so many big new dorms.

Carnall Hall

Carnall Hall, the oldest dormitory on campus, built in 1905, housed ninety busy upperclass women this year.

Four of Coterie's officers were Carnall girls. Regina Rushing was President; Pat Ritcher, Vice-President; Glenda Fricker, Secretary; and Ann Cooper, Historian. Fern Hubbard, Secretary of Mortar Board was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." Judy Birch edited the "Coed's Code" and Linda Park was crowned Queen of Hearts for the AWS Vice-Versa Dance. Other girls held similar honors.

Jana Tull, President of Carnall, led the girls through an activity-filled year. They held open house for parents and friends, a Christmas Dinner and dance, a smorgasbord dinner, a senior breakfast, and awards day banquet, a sack supper and relay races. They topped the year off with a spring time costume party.

Judy Birch served her hall as Secretary; Berta Seitz, Treasurer; Dorthy Thibault, Social Chairman; and Patsy Gail White, House Manager.

Margaret Pinkerton, who holds distinction of being the only engineering student in Carnall Hall, competes successfully with her male counterparts.

Fulbright Hall

Freshmen girls representing sixteen states spent their first year of college in Fulbright Hall. After the "horrors" of moving into a new home, the girls settled down to a hard year's work. Most of them combined extra curricular activities with their all important studies. They participated in AWS, ABC, PEM, WIHC, Civic Club, Young Democrats, Young Republicans, WRA, and various church organizations. Some even qualified for Schola Cantorum, the Razorback Band, and Fine Arts Drama Productions.

In the first semester elections, they chose Loretta Thompson, President; Mary Kay Stevens, Secretary; Marilyn Pryor, Treasurer; Karen Carlson, social chairman; and Carol Lynn Taylor, house manager. Second semester Carol Lynn Taylor, led as President with the help of Kathy Holloway, Secretary; Gail Elkan, Treasurer; Tetty Wilson, Social Chairman; and Betsy Rader, House Manager.

Fulbright girls reaped the rewards of cooperation when they won second place in the Homecoming float decoration contest, and placed third in Singfony.

Freshmen women, knowing they will be living together all year, hold get-acquainted session. Carpet on floor is not standard equipment in Fulbright.

Futrall Hall

Futrall Hall, the newest of five University-operated residence halls for women, opened its doors in September, even though work was still being done on the building.

The first month was a hectic one for Futrall residents. With carpenters and painters still at work on the building, the girls left the dorm at 8 a.m. on weekdays and returned when workmen quit at 5:30 p. m. Finally, the work was finished and Futrall's 200 residents settled down to a more comfortable way of life.

Futrall Hall women were active in all phases of campus life. Their social calendar was topped by the spring formal.

Futrall Hall is named for Mrs. Annie D. Futrall. As the wife of University President Dr. John C. Futrall, half a century ago, Mrs. Futrall acted as hostess at University functions for 26 years — the longest such period of service in the University's history.

Mrs. Annie D. Futrall was guest of honor at dedication ceremonies for women's dormitory bearing her name. Reception and open house followed dedication ceremonies.

Date looks benignly on while Futrall coed prepares to pounce in one direction or another. For that story, see picture opposite.

Holcombe Hall

The residents of Holcombe Hall experienced one of their most active years in campus participation. Holcombe won second place in the annual Singfony competition.

Under the leadership of Linda Gill, President; Sandra Haley, Vice-President; Jobelle Beasley, Secretary; and Suzanne Jones, Treasurer, the upperclass women entered into almost every area of campus affairs.

Judith Nutt was WIHC Student representative; Linda Gill served as WIHC president; Connie Musick was an AF-ROTC Honorary Lt. Colonel and a Razorback cheerleader; Brenda Hudson, Judy Dean, and Betty Jo Bufford were members of Alpha Lambda Delta; Linda Kennedy served on the WRA Executive Board and on the President's Council; Charlotte Calhoun was a charter member of Chimes; Fern Hubbard was president of Phi Upsilon Omicron; Lynda Davis, Carole Ann Cook, Betty Stephens, and Sheila McCray were members of Tau Beta Sigma. Holcombe women participated in various AWS committees and service groups.

Socially, the year's calendar was filled with open houses, guest dinners, teas, and the annual Harvest Moon Ball. University theatre productions found Holcombe women entering into the drama.

This active year was the final one for upperclass women in Holcombe Hall. Freshman women will be housed in Holcombe next year.

Loading up car for the trip home, Holcombe Hall residents prepare to leave campus for Easter holidays, look forward to week of fun away from studies.

4-H House

In compliance with precedent set since the founding of the 4-H House, the residents experienced an active year. Active in campus activities were Carolyn Qualls who served as Treasurer of Phi Upsilon Omicron, Secretary of Wesley Foundation, Reporter of Coterie, and Program Chairman of Colhecon; Rose Malock who was Chairman of AWS Judicial Board; Pat Dodgen, who was selected as an International Farm Youth Exchange Student and served as Treasurer of Coterie; Leota Lane who was Treasurer of Colhecon, Vice President of the Student Religious Council, and a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron; Linda Weir who was elected Secretary of Colhecon for the second semester; and Joyce Plumlee who was a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron.

Socially, the highlights of the year included the Christmas Faculty Tea, the annual Polyanna Banquet also in December, the dinner-date party in February, and a spring outing.

Humphreys Hall

With the closing of Razorback Hall at semester, Humphreys enjoyed the privilege of being the only freshman men's residence hall on campus.

The men of Humphreys were represented in many campus activities, serving in MIHC, Civic Club, ABC, Circle K, Pershing Rifles. The floors were also well represented in the independent sports program.

The social year was filled with many activities. Each floor held dances in the lounge of Humphreys, and highlighting the social calendar was the Spring Formal in the Student Union Ballroom.

No one looks forward to Easter vacation more than homesick freshmen, and Humphreys Hall residents are no exception. Some may decide not to come back.

Buchanan House

Under the leadership of Bill Estes, president, Terry Preston, Vice President Mike Smith, Secretary, and Ryan Vehik, Treasurer, Buchanan pushed forward with a full schedule of events.

Besides having the top grade point of all men's residents halls, Buchanan also took an active interest in many campus organizations: Civic Club, MIHC, and Circle K.

Buchanan also participated in the MIHC Outing and many other social events.

Razorback Hall

Razorback Hall, the house with the running pig over the door, lasted for one semester this year, but it turned out to be a semester loaded with action. Under the leadership of president Gary Dodd, Vice President Mike Snipes, Secretary Jim Gillian and Treasurer Jim Horton. Sports were under the direction of manager Dean Bowman, and Student Senator Steve Gillespie and President's Council member James Coffield were from Razorback. The men entered a house decoration in homecoming competition, and gained campus prominence in their demand for equal (or better) pep rally seats. They held the first independent walkout, sponsored by their own 7:20 society, and capped the social events with dances and receptions. Following the decree that women would occupy Razorback next year, the men retired to Humphreys, carrying their new banner with them.

Workmen begin transforming Razorback Hall from men's dormitory to women's dormitory, for which it will be used next year. Hall was vacant second semester.

Second Row: David Autry Clifton, Orval Lee Cook, Eugene Ladner Crouch, Richard K. Cunningham, James Franklin Finch, Robert Eugene Hanes, Kenneth Wahl Hatfield.

Wilson Sharp

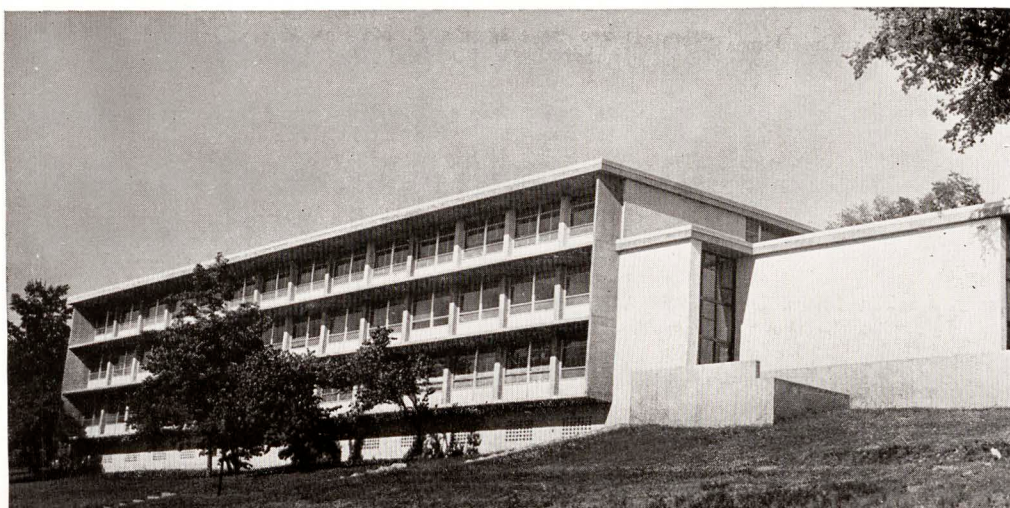

Located on the high hill overlooking Razorback Stadium and Barnhill Fieldhouse, Wilson Sharp is only a short walk from practice fields for its residents. It houses over 110 varsity and freshman athletes. In addition to their many athletic achievements the men of Wilson Sharp have leaders on the campus. Sammy Hilburn, Ray Trail and George Walker were in Blue Key.

Danny Brabham, Dick Hatfield, and Gordon Guest were members of ODK. Guest was also a member of the Student Senate.

The leaders of Wilson Sharp are Sammy Hilburn, President, Don Smith, Vice President, Mike Haynie, Secretary and Treasurer, and Kenny Hatfield, social chairman.

New addition to Wilson Sharp will provide separate dining facilities for athletes, who formerly took their meals in Brough Commons, unbefitting men of their stature.

Gregson Hall

Gregson Hall, composed of two houses, William and Sedgwell, was active in almost every phase of campus activity this year. Outstanding residents were Marvin Boatman and Jim Moore, president and vice president of MIHC, respectively; Troy Henson, member of ODK and the Student Senate and president of IEEE; Skipper Kays, Traveler reporter, and Paul Clampit, president of ARC. Don Laurenzana, Dave Bond and Bob Clark served on the MIHC court, with Bond as chief justice.

Gregson men were well represented, too, in Phi Eta Sigma, Pi Mu Epsilon, the various engineering societies and all the campus church organizations. A social highlight was the dance held by the combined upperclass men's halls, in which Gregson participated. Other social events were held throughout the year.

Gregson Hall inmate carefully peruses the dormitory's most popular reading matter, providing answer to question, "What kind of a man reads Playboy?"

Droke House

Droke had members in ABC, Commerce Guild, Circle K, Civic Club, the various engineering fraternities and all the campus church organizations.

Droke house was active in intramural sports this year, fielding a strong team in every competitive sport. The group also sponsored periodic religious discussions in the house. Social activities included a Christmas dance, many informal parties, and the annual spring outing.

Droke's officers were Tommy Teeter, President; Billy Graham, Vice President; Gary Jackson, Treasurer; Don Johnston, Social Chairman, and Jim Morgan, Secretary.

Third Row: Bill McGehee, Larry Max Maloney, Martin Michael May, Harvey Claude Morris, Frank Akira Nakamura, Donald Wayne Norvell, Patrick Franklin O'Connor, William Edward Pauli, Nelson Franklin Reid.

Gladson House

The 1962-1963 school year was another high water mark for the residents of Gladson House. Besides participation in various intermural and aquatic sports, the men of Gladson were active in such extra-curricular groups as Civic Club, Circle K, ABC, MIHC, Young Republicans, Young Democrats, all the engineering fraternities and church groups.

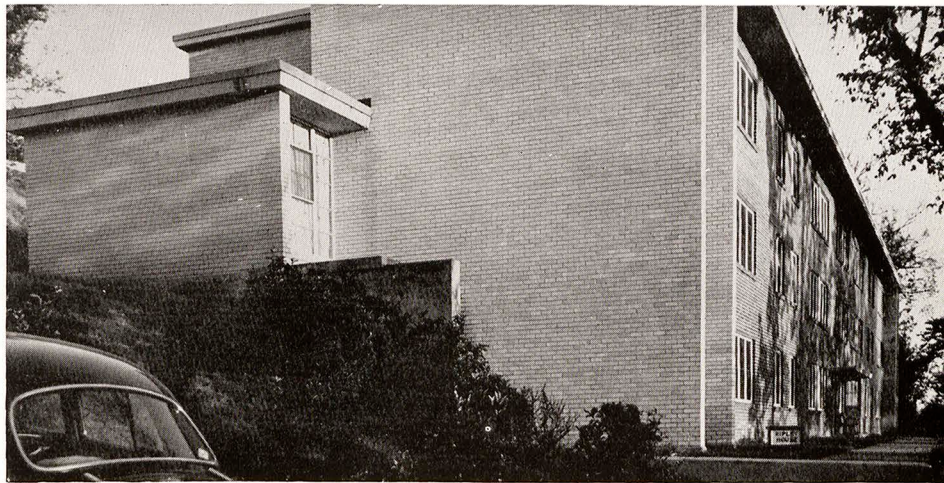

Socially, the year was highlighted by an outing at Monte Ne, an exchange dinner, and one "Mixer" — which ended all social activities for the year. All in all, it was another year that, as in previous times, would guarantee an entirely new group in the dorm next year; no one in his right mind would ever "sign-up for the mixer" again.

Ripley House

Ripley participates in all intramural activities and has maintained an enviable record in this area. Residents of Ripley were represented in such campus organizations as ABC, Circle K, Civic Club, the various professional fraternities, the campus church organizations and others.

A full variety of social functions held the attention in Ripley House during the fall semester. The house attended Fayetteville and Little Rock football games and organized listening parties for out of town games.

Third Row: William Morris Mooney, Jr., Danny Byron

Student Government

The organization responsible for self-government at the University is known as the Associated Students of the University of Arkansas. It is divided into three branches: executive, legislative, and judicial.

The executive branch is composed of the student body President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer. These officers are elected at large by the student body as a whole.

The legislative branch of the student government is the Student Senate. Chaired by the Vice President, the Senate's members are elected by colleges according to enrollment in the college.

The judicial branch is composed of the Attorney

General and the Student Court. Theoretically, the Student Court has the jurisdiction to try students for violation of any disciplinary statute, but more often than not such matters are handled by the University disciplinary board.

Student government aroused a little more interest than common this year, primarily because of a proposed reorganization of the Student Senate. The measure was supported by President Brodie and stirred up rather strong feelings on both sides. At the time of this writing, it was due to go on the ballot at the general election.

Campus Kings

St. Pat is elected by the students of the College of Engineering during Engineers' Week to reign alongside St. Patricia. Each department in the college nominates a candidate, who presents a skit at the Engineers' Rally. The winning candidate is usually the one who can sneak the dirtiest jokes past the censor.

The Campus Lover contest is conducted by the Civic Club as part of the annual Campus Chest drive. Each men's living group on campus nominates a candidate. The candidates' pictures are displayed in the Student Union, and votes are cast by contributing money to the Campus Chest. The candidate who receives the largest number of money votes is crowned Campus Lover.

Razorback Beauty Selection

Razorback Beauty candidates wait on patio at Mountain Inn prior to being interviewed by The Lettermen. Girls seem to be getting along famously, but knowing that only six of them will be chosen those wide smiles probably conceal a certain amount of hostility.

Candidates were interviewed three at a time by Lettermen Tony Butala, Jim Pike and Bob Engeman. Each girl was asked a general question on some subject pertaining to the entertainment field. Linda Rushton, center, is particularly good at this sort of thing.

The 1963 Razorback Beauties were selected by The Lettermen, nationally popular vocal group. The Lettermen appeared on campus for a concert sponsored by the Student Senate Entertainment Committee.

Each women's living group on campus enters two candidates in the judging, with the exception of Fulbright Hall which, because of its size, enters four.

The Lettermen studied pictures of the girls, then interviewed them personally at their suite in the Mountain Inn. Karen Giss, Razorback Beauties Editor, was in charge of the interviews.

After the interviews, The Lettermen studied the pictures some more as they struggled with the difficult task of choosing six winners out of the thirty candidates. Finally they reached a decision, just in time to make their concert in the Men's Gym. Their selections are shown on the following pages.

Jim Pike and Tony Butala, two-thirds of The Lettermen, study beauty pictures closely. Kay Hafenbrak, Razorback associate editor, failed to influence decision.

ATHLETICS

Athletics is certainly one of the most important aspects of University life. Especially football-type athletics. It bolsters school spirit; it gives you something to do on Saturday afternoon; it builds character, especially when you win as the Razorbacks have been doing in recent years. Who says demphasize?

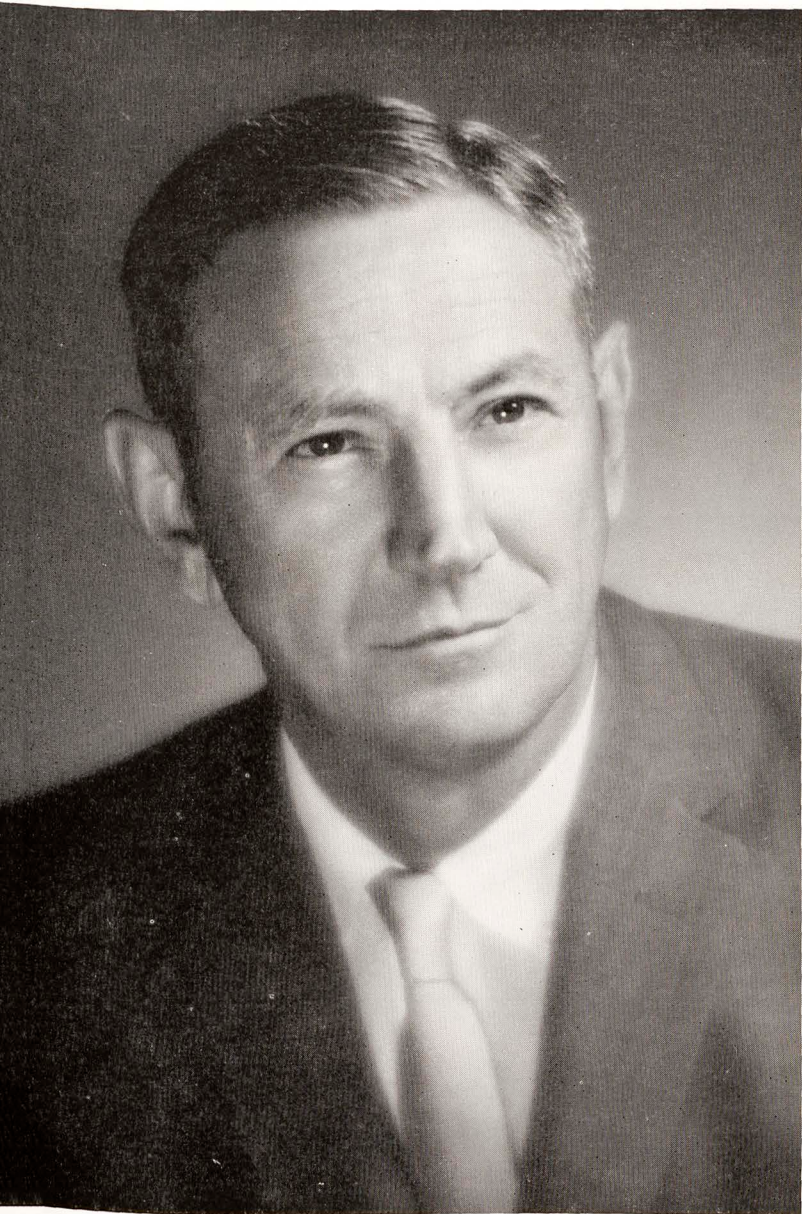

John Barnhill
Director of Athletics

The House That Barney Built

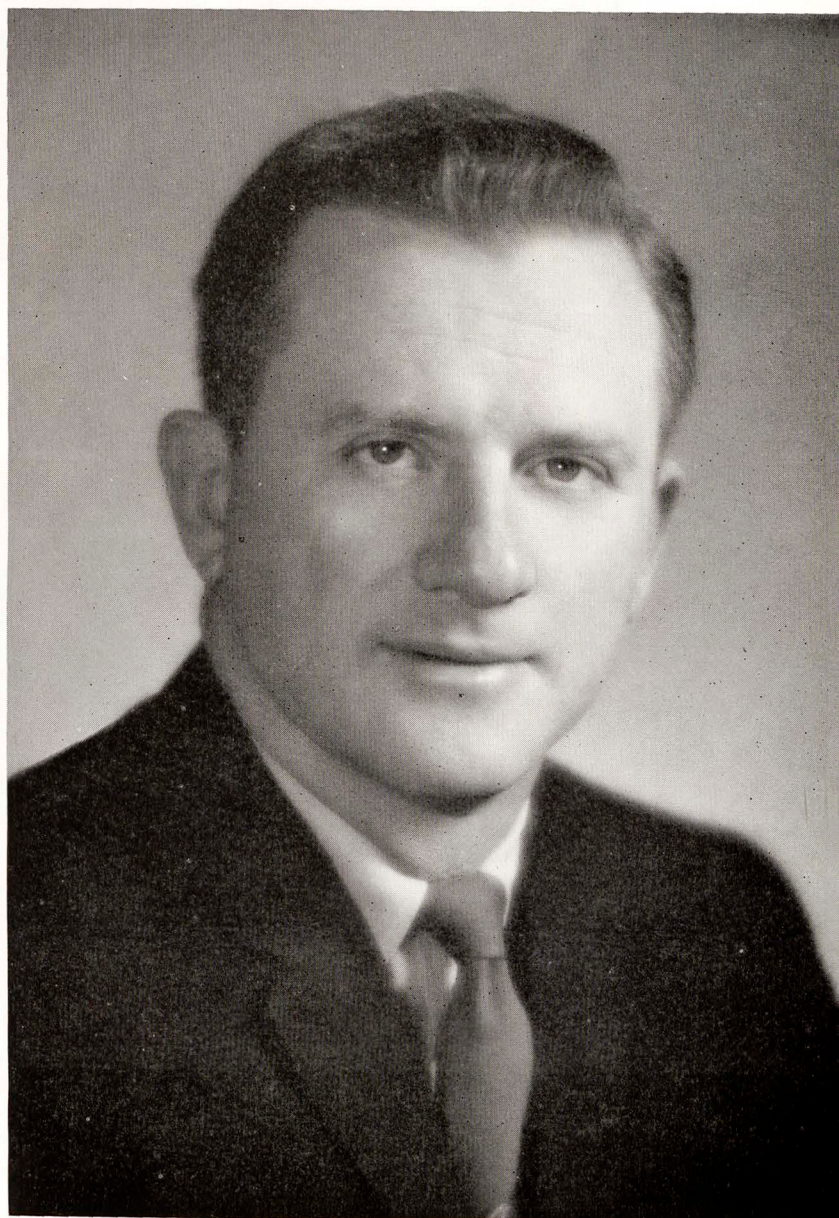

When Vance Packard writes "The Dynasty Builders," he must include John Barnhill. Whatever success Arkansas' athletic program enjoys today — or will have 10 years from now — reflects the foresight of the administrator who has dedicated 16 years to Razorback athletics. The challenge of undeveloped potential brought him to Arkansas in 1946. The results of his work are evident: an excellent physical plant; a solid scholarship program; and fantastic interest.

GEORGE COLE, a member of the Arkansas Hall of Fame, has been connected with Razorback athletics virtually continuously for 35 years. He quarterbacked the '24 team, and today oversees scholarship operations and serves as liason officer for campus functions.

GLEN ROSE is a realist . . . a basketball coach of 20 years experience in a predominantly football conference could be little else. Still, this man called "Gloomy" is one of the most respected coaches in the U.S. with a 364-202 record and six Southwest Conference championships.

FRANK BROYLES is an opportunist. By 1958 the foundation had been poured. Since then his record is history (33-20). The brilliant young head man's formula seems a simple one. He has merely gathered exceptional assistants around him and recruited an All-American every year.

Assistants . . . Film Room To Field

When the Arkansas staff began planning for the 1962 season, which was very soon after the Sugar Bowl game, they were faced with two problems: (1) the "normal" loss of player personnel, and (2) the always expected loss of capable assistant coaches. It is the second of these problems we are concerned with here.

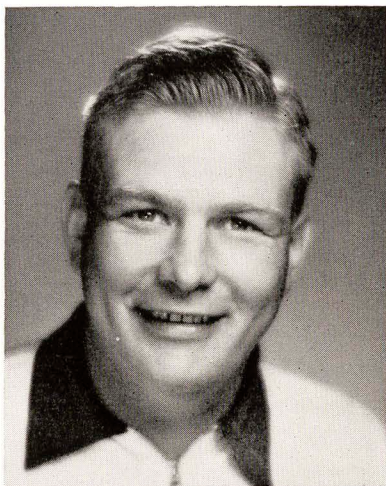

Dixie White, an extremely knowledgeable coach of offensive interior linemen, accepted a similar position at LSU and Hayden Fry, the trainer of the most exciting offensive backfield in recent Porker history, was nominated to fill the head coaching job at SMU.

Both coaches might take pride in the fact that it took no little shifting around to replace them.

To replace Dixie, Mervin Johnson, a former all-big eight tackle under Broyles at Missouri, was recalled from Missouri to share the offensive line duties with Steed White, who had worked mainly with the ends previously.

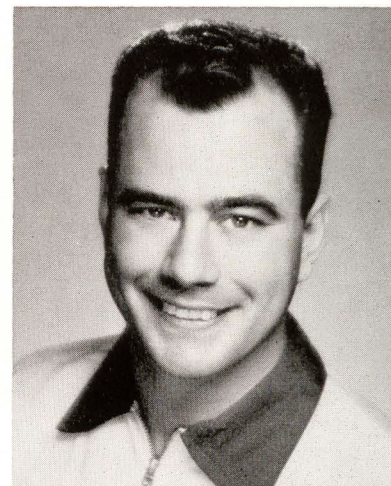

Bill Pace, a former member of the Razorback family was called from Kansas as the numerical replacement of Fry. Pace, however, was not to assume Fry's offensive duties, but, rather, to work with the defensive secondary to free Doug Dickey as an offensive hand. The replacements were more than adequate.

Tom McNelly, Razorbacks' outstanding place kicker, puts one through the uprights in Sugar Bowl game against Ole Miss.

Billy Moore (10) demonstrates famous "knuckle ball" running style in season's opener against Oklahoma State. Moore's ball-

Arkansas 34 — Oklahoma State 7

Before anyone was sure what one was, Frank Broyles had tested his Tush Hogs ("Tush" is southern Arkansas mispronunciation for tusk). The oldest of the SWC's "younger set" unveiled his three-team system against the OSU Cowboys, and what was to become the Porks' most powerful offensive attack sputtered for a quarter.

Billy Moore pushed over the season's first score from the one early in the second frame and opened the gates for four more touchdowns. In winning 34-7, Arkansas piled up 431 yards; better than half — 241 — of them came in the air.

Though Moore threw for the second tally, he spent the rest of the day in a lean shadow thrown up in the spotlight by sophomore Billy Gray. Gray hit pass receivers for 69, 11, and 25 yards for three of the five Pork scores.

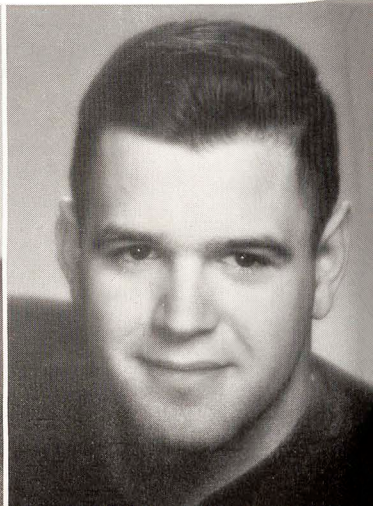

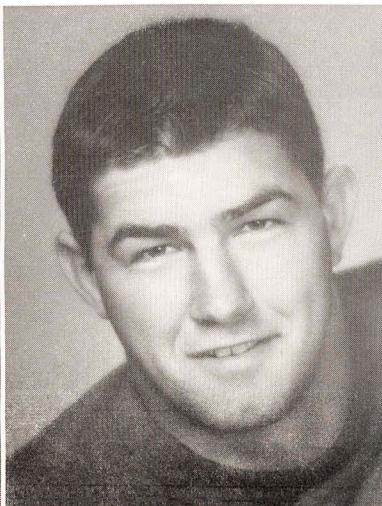

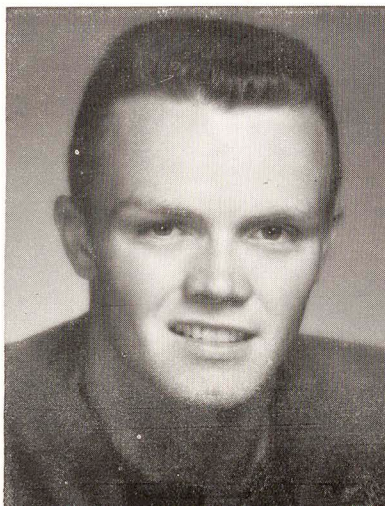

There were no All-America selectors in the stands.

Tulsa 14

During the hot Texas September, which claimed at least two gridders, Jerry Rhome, the soph passing stud of the 1961 Ponies, told Hayden Fry he couldn't play "that" kind of football. That got him a scholarship at Tulsa, a year's ineligibility, and a seat in the press box at the Arkansas-Tulsa game. He was better off there. Arkansas won 42-14, but the Tulsans screamed, "Wait till next year. We'll sic Rhome and the rest of our outlaws on you."

The Hurricanes did manage to tie the Hogs 6-6, when Tommy McKnelly missed a PAT attempt. He didn't miss another until the Rice game. Billy Moore, who the same day set a school mark for the longest trip from scrimmage when he raced 90 yards to a touchdown, put the Hogs over the hump for good with a 1-yard plunge and a two-point toss to Jerry Lamb making it 14-6. Billy Gray kept pace with two more touchdown throws, and Freddy Marshall raced 19 yards with :03 remaining in the game for the final bit of icing.

Getting 90 of them in one chunk, Moore managed 129 yards rushing on only nine carries.

A fellow with the interesting name of Stu McBurnie led the Tulsa air attack, hitting John Simmons, a rangy end who was to become the number two receiver in college football, five times early in the game.

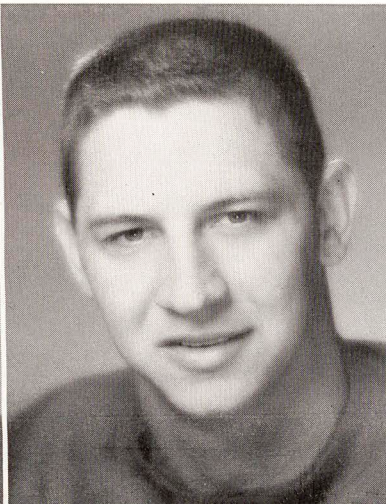

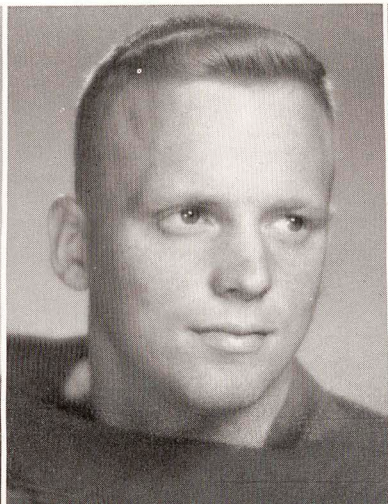

Jerry Rhome isn't a very big guy.

Arkansas 42 — TCU 14

In 1958 TCU whipped Arkansas 12-7, scoring two touchdowns. In 1962, with 8:02 of the second period remaining, a sophomore named Jim Fauver scored another, ending an extended drouth and knotting TCU and the Porks 7-7. By the time the Frogs scored again in the third quarter they trailed 28-14. The Froggies lacked but one point matching a previous four-year total, but ironically Arkansas scored six times, winning 42-14. Can't history be exciting?

The encounter was a test of the long and the short of it (stubby Billy Moore versus rangy Sonny Gibbs). Led by the fiery Moore, the Porks, too, countered with their own big man, Danny Brabham. The Ozark Lil' Abner scored twice, bolting 43 yards once, and netted 111 yards, thus asserting himself not only as an excellent blocker, but also All-Southwest potential as a runner.

Arkansas 28 Baylor 21

After what had to be the worst half-time speech in football history, Arkansas hung on before an overflow Dads Day crowd to top Baylor 28-21. That's an oversimplification, but provides as good a framework as any for further discussion.

Frank Broyles' charges raced to a 28-7 halftime lead, scoring every time they got the ball. An astonished home crowd saw the Hogs pile up 226 yards total offense in the first two frames, while holding the Baylor ground game to 38 and the vaunted passing attack to 98.

It appeared to be a lark as Billy Moore first handed to Danny Brabham, then scored twice himself on short plunges before yielding to sophomore Billy Gray. Gray ended the Arkansas scoring with almost six minutes left in the first half. He hit Jim Worthington with a 17-yard pass at the Baylor one—then kept for the score.

The Bruins scored once before halftime, and threatened to break it wide open in the second half. After an Arkansas punt, Don Trull used just three plays in scoring in the third period. Ken Hatfield fumbled the Bear kickoff, and Trull was off again. This time he used six plays, moving from the Arkansas 36. The final 23 minutes boiled down to a defensive war of nerves—each team holding the other near it's goal.

Broyles' shirt tail did not come out. It was pinned to his socks.

Texas 7 — Arkansas 3

Though they'd met only a trio of league opponents between them, Arkansas and Texas met on October 20 to determine the Southwest Conference championship. Five weeks remained of the schedule, but the 65,000 fans crowded into Austin's Memorial Stadium knew this was the big one. Texas ranked number one nationally; Arkansas was sixth.

The Porks drove to the Texas 31 midway in the second quarter from where Tommy McKnelly booted a 41-yard field goal, which the Hogs threatened to make stick. The Razorbacks' only other real threat died when Brabham fumbled inside the 'Horns' five.

The Longhorns finally rallied behind the brilliant leadership of Duke Carlisle and Johnny Genung with 7:52 left on the board. Eighty-five yards, 20 plays and 7:12 minutes later Tommy Ford fell into the Arkansas end zone with the winning tally—It was mighty dark in the world's best lit football park for the Arkies.

Arkansas 49 Hardin-Simmons 7

In a game anticipated enthusiastically by almost no one, Arkansas bruised the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys 49-7 in Little Rock.

"We'll show up," said the Cowboy head coach, "But after that . . ." The young mentor came into the fray with the shortest possible winning streak (one game, a 14-7 win over Trinity) after having dropped the previous 27 battles hand running. Actually, however, coaches with a lot more behind them than the Cowboys have had doubts about playing in Little Rock.

The Porkers, still licking their wounds from the Texas encounter ranked ninth nationally, a pair of notches below the previous week's rating, were in no trifling mood. Although they left some still-limping troops, battered in Texas, the Porkers scored in every period but the fourth. The Hogs jumped to a 14-0 lead quickly in the first frame, and added 21 more in the second. The final 14 points came for Broyles' crew in the third period. In that stanza, the Cowhands also managed to push across a score—their lone one.

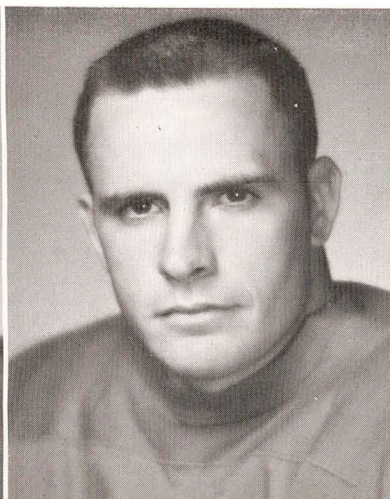

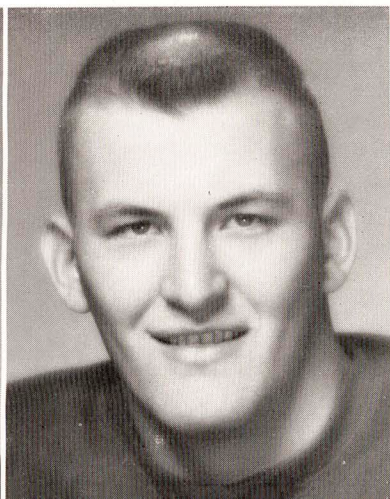

Arkansas' fifth victory was so business-like that it was almost distasteful. The real justification for the game? It was a money-maker.

Arkansas 17 — Texas A&M 7

The Arkansas touchdown machine, which had worked so well the week before, sputtered as the Hogs slipped past A&M to their sixth win, 17-7.

The Porkers trailed for almost a half, before taking shaky command. A young scatback named Travis Reagan put the Porkers in a hole early in the first stanza when he returned a Tommy Moore punt 51 yards for the Aggie touchdown. The Arkansas counter attack fell short and the Porkers had to settle for Tommy McNelly's 31-yard field goal.

With a couple of minutes left in the first half a 19-yard pass from Billy Moore found George Rea Walker at the Aggie one. Billy banged twice at the Farmer line and gave the Hogs a 10-7 halftime lead, with an assist from the McNelly toe. The Razorbacks held a strong statistical lead at halftime, though their lead was slim.

Moore iced it for his mates with a six yard sweep late in the third quarter after he'd relied on Danny Barbham for two key first downs.

Arkansas 28 Rice 14

Jess Neely had to violate a conference rule to do it when he brought his "lucky" blue jerseys to Fayetteville. They weren't Lucky, that is.

Case in point: early in the first period, Tommy Moore's 51-yard punt hit at the Rice goal, then bounced back into the playing field. The Owl's Ronnie Hatfield grabbed the ball and then suprisingly retreated into the end zone for a Porker safety. The stage was set for the rest of the afternoon. The Hogs celebrated Homecoming with a 28-14 victory.

While Neely was still spluttering about that first miscue, the Razorbacks raced to a 14-0 halftime lead. George Rea Walker scored to cap a 47-yard drive, and Mike Parker sprinted 37 yards with a pirated pass to set up a second score. Billy Moore took that on in.

What was to become the Big-eyed Bird's only real threat gave them a touchdown with just 9:31 gone in the third quarter when Gene Raesz caught his third pass of the drive.

Arkansas hung on to the seven-point lead until Moore found Jerry Lamb behind the Owl secondary early in the fourth stanza. The 46-yard pass and run combination gave the Porks a 21-7 lead. Moore and the artful Lamb salted it away late in the period with a 26-yard toss.

Rice countered with a quick score, but it was too late to save more.

Arkansas 9 — SMU 7

Armed with little more than a master's degree in psychology and a fist-full of red helmets, SMU coach Hayden Fry, a former pupil and later aide to Frank Broyles, fought the old master to a virtual standstill for better than three quarters.

With 41,000 prospective coronaries in the stands, a band of Porker sophomores snatched the game from under the freshman head coach, 9-7.

The Ponies threatened to make a seven-point lead, realized out of a 78-yard first period drive, stand up until the fourth quarter when Broyles replaced All-American Billy Moore with sophomore Billy Gray. Gray quickly directed a 44-yard drive for Arkansas' touchdown, giving to Jesse Branch for the last 10 yards.

Tom McKnelly, a soph kicking specialist, gave the Hogs the margin with 5:55 remaining with a 27-yard field goal.

Arkansas 34 Texas Tech 0

The Arkansas Razorbacks finished their finest season sprinting past Texas Tech 34-0 enroute to five season records.

Ironically, the best season in Razorback history did not result in a Southwest Conference championship, as Texas went undefeated. The nine victories (one loss) were the most wins in a single season. Other marks included most points scored in a single season, 286; most yards rushing, 2,412; most total offense, 3,570 yards; fewest yards permitted rushing, 918.

In guiding the Porkers past the Red Raiders, Billy Moore missed a try for an individual record. Moore, who scored three touchdowns and threw for two more against the Raiders, finished one point shy of the all time one season scoring record set at 84 points by George Cole.

On Billy's third touchdown he was given an opportunity to go for a two-point conversion which would have given him the scoring record. He was cut down but a foot or so short of his prize.

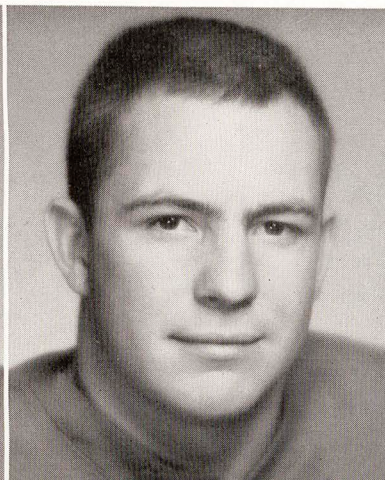

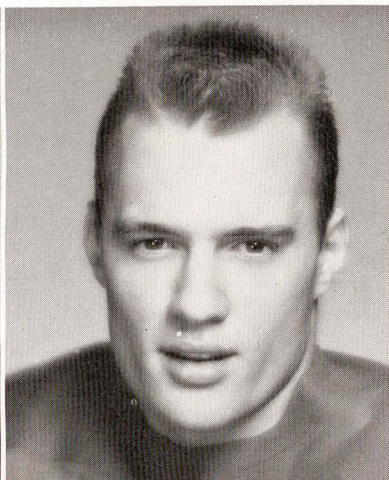

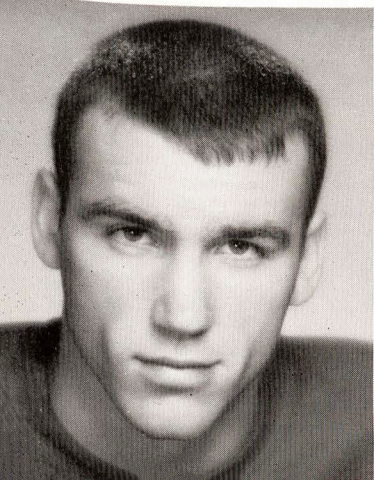

The Porkers finished sixth in the national ratings, and took a couple of weeks off before starting workouts in preparation for a January 1 meeting with third-ranked Mississippi.

Sugar Bowl

At the peak of the integration crisis last fall, a Mississippi football game had to be relocated because of feared violence. Even then it took Bobby Kennedy, a court order, and several hundred U. S. Marshalls to move the Big Reb line.

In the face of such power, perhaps it was ill-advised for Arkansas to take on the Rebs in the Sugar Bowl. Ole Miss, nationally number three, was undefeated and remained that way through January 1.

The artful Glenn Griffing and his mauling mates kept the ball for 36 plays and rushed and passed for 429 yards—the most amassed against the Razorbacks in 54 games under Frank Broyles. Surprising, then, was the score as Johnny Vaught managed only a 17-13 win.

It was the third bowl loss in a row for the Porkers' disappointed seniors. They'd fallen 7-6 to Duke in the Cotton, and 10-3 to Alabama in the Sugar.

Arkansas managed an early 3-3 tie, matching an Ole Miss field goal, but trailed 10-3 by halftime. Griffing, who completed 14 of 23 attempts for 242 yards, floated the ball to Louis Guv for 33 yards and the score at the close of the period.

That might have shattered Arkansas' morale if Ray Trail hadn't received fullback Buck Randall's fumble at the Ole Miss 18 on the third play of the third period. Two plays later, durable Jesse Branch scooted across from the 10 with the Arkansas touchdown.

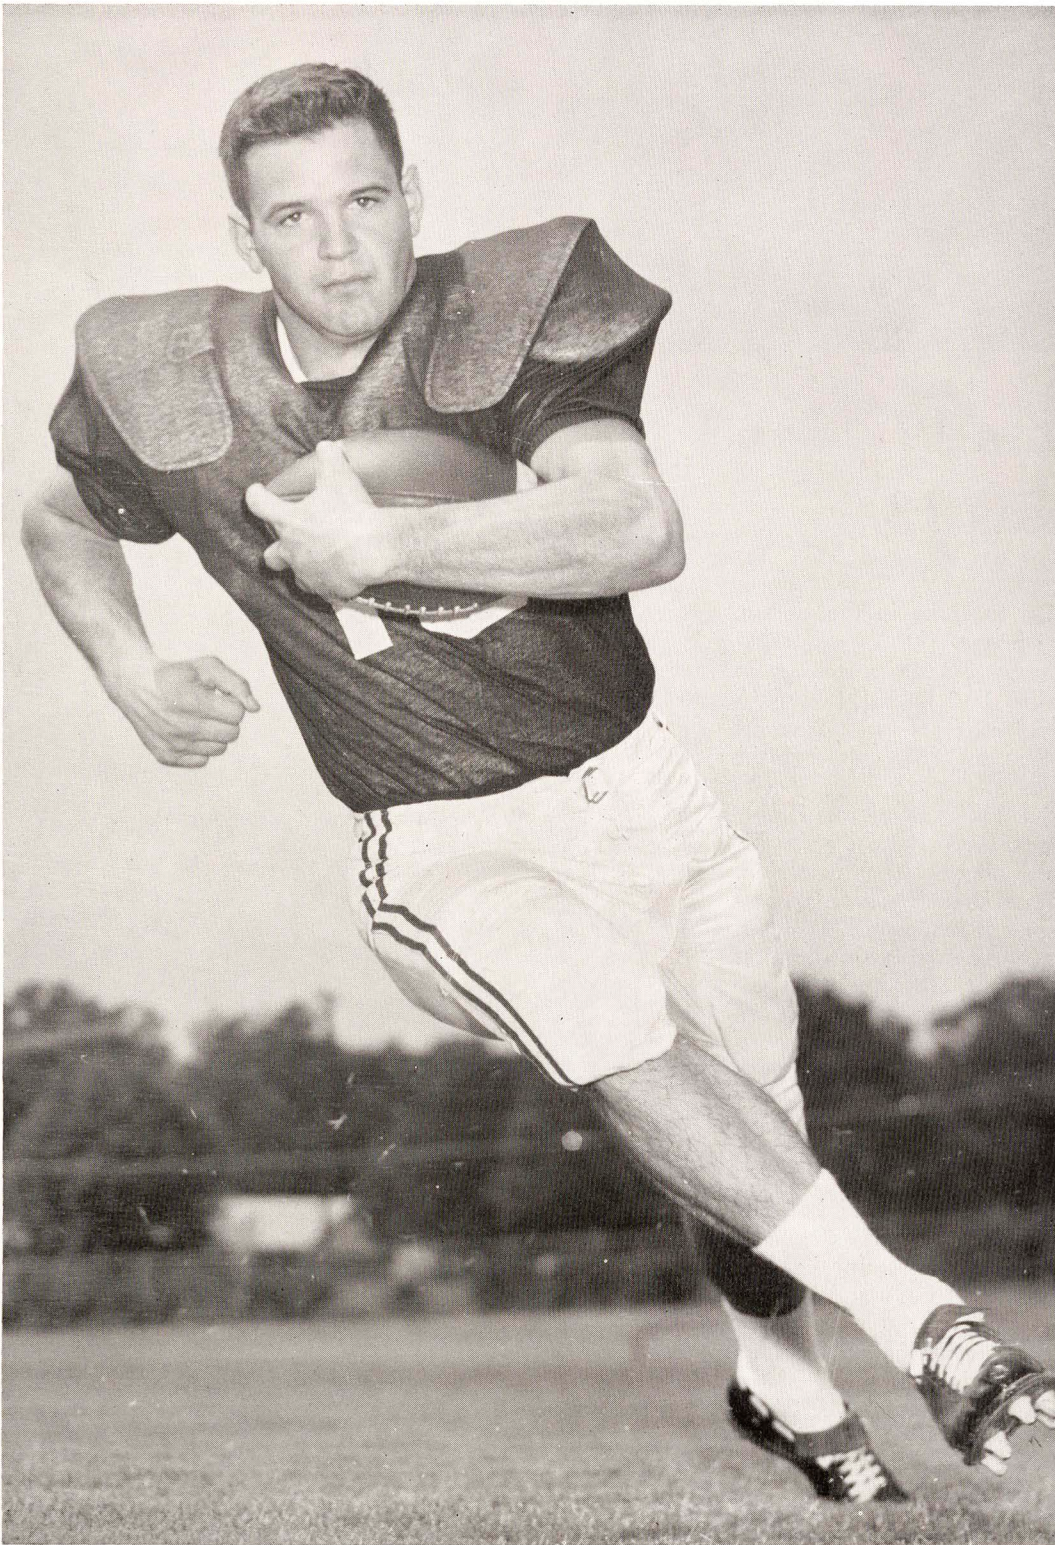

The Rebs bounced back, however, with the first really great sustained drive against the Porkers since the Texas game—Griffing driving. The masterful Mississippi quarterback drove 80 yards, 35 of them on an unbelievable pass to Guv and then scored himself with a pair of sneaks from the 10; the final try from only inches out. Score: 17-10.

The Porkers had one remaining offensive threat. With a third and 5 situation at the Old Miss five, Billy Moore sprinted right. Randall, cat-quick, all but disjointed him as he made his cut. Billy limped off, never to return, meeting Billy Gray (who set up the first Arkansas field goal with a 68-yard pass) and Tommy McKnelly, bringing in the kicking tee.

After the field goal, Arkansas played virtually no offense. They took over deep in their own end of the field four times after stopping drives on the 4, 24, 8, and 7 yard lines, but then found themselves with no place to go.

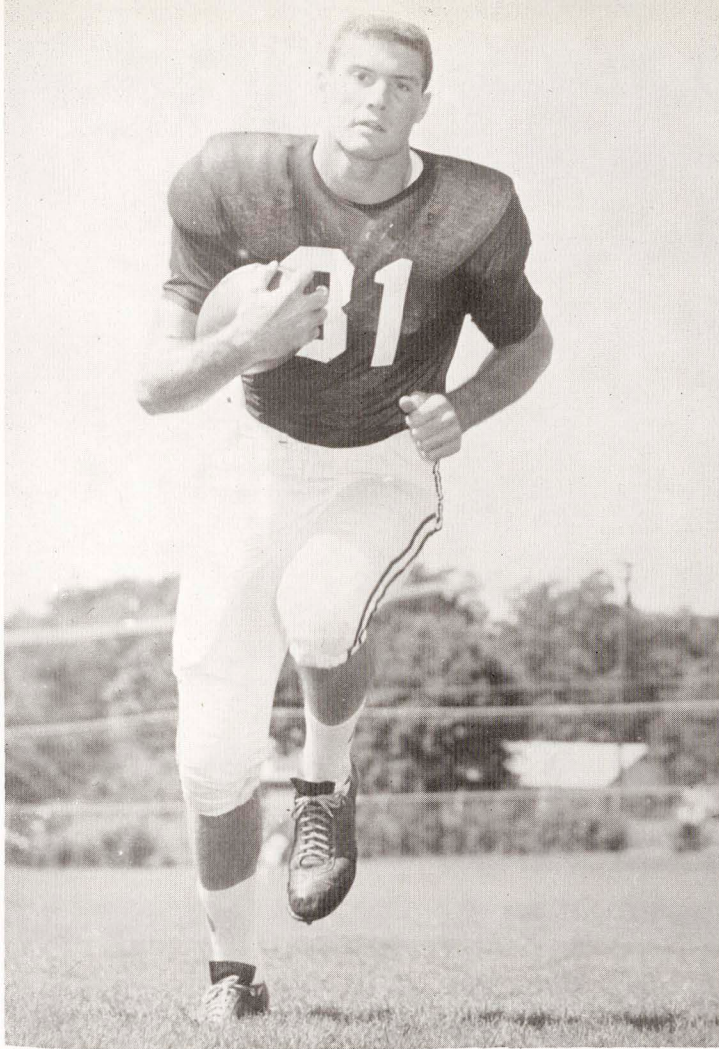

Jesse Branch took short toss from Billy Moore to score Hogs' only touchdown of game. Rebs controlled ball most of day.

Warren Vogel tips in two points over the protest of two Texas Christian Horned Frogs. The Razorbacks routed TCU — 104-94.

Practically unnoticed, Glen Rose's Razorbacks finished fourth in the lackluster Southwest basketball conference. The Porkers' 8-6 league mark was an improvement over the 4-9 1961-62 record. Intersectional competition proved tougher, however, as the Hogs took 13 of 24 over the long haul compared with a 14-10 mark the previous year.

Rose recruited a pair of junior college transfers — Warren Vogel and Jim Jay — and instituted Saturday afternoon basketball at Arkansas in moves aimed at balancing both his bench and his budget. Vogel averaged 5.8 per game; Jay, 3.1. The afternoon innovation also enjoyed modest success.

A couple of tough breaks hampered the Porks, though it is impossible to say to what extent. Jerry Rogers, the number one back court hand injured a knee against Tulsa and was never the same. He was finally forced to undergo an operation during the Christmas break. Bobby Anderson was an academic casualty.

Tommy Boyer and Skippy Coffman combined to bring Arkansas from behind to a 64-62 overtime win over Kansas in the opener. It was the first of three extended games, and the only one they won. The Hogs raced to a 32-23 halftime lead and then staved off a late assault of the Missouri Tigers to win, 70-61 at Columbia. The second win was the first defeat for the Tigers.

The Pigs' first defeat came at Stillwater as the OSU Cowboys came back to claim a 46-45 overtime victory. With the score tied 45-45, and three seconds remaining, Cowboy King was fouled in the act of shooting. The first swish was sufficient.

A second loss within a week brought the Porkers to grips with the realities of a .500 season as the undefeated Tulsa Hurricane romped through Fayetteville to a 76-58 win. Jim Wilson and Boyer managed 18 points each, but the Tulsans held the rest of the Hogs in check.

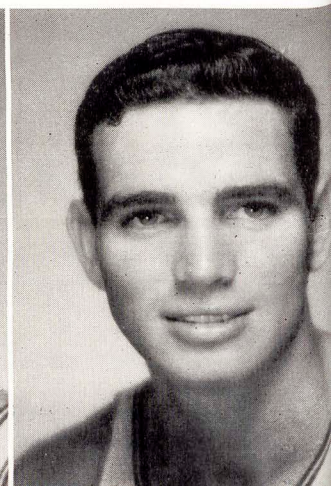

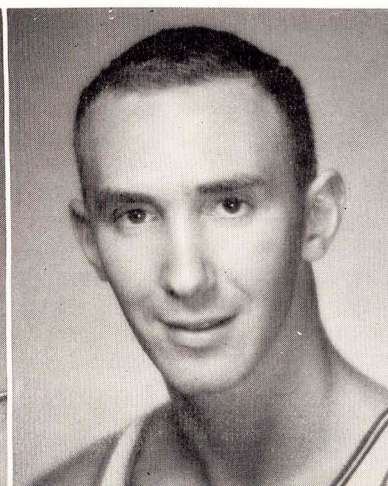

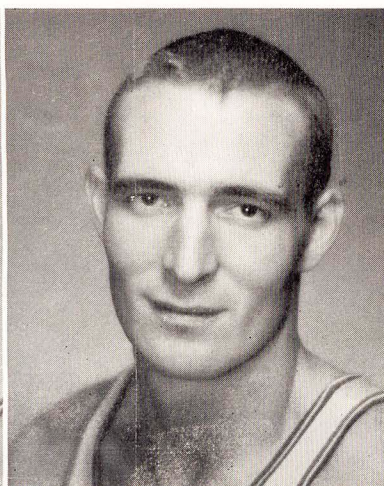

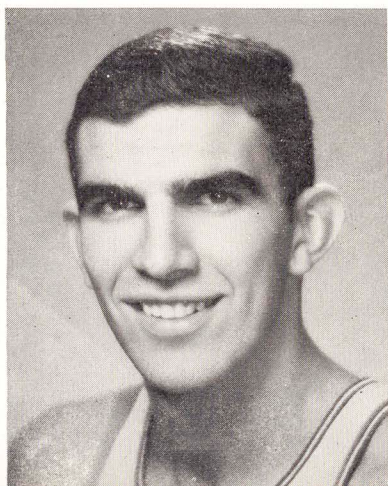

The Razorbacks split a two-game pre-Christmas road trip, taking Ole Miss 90-60 in Little Rock before only 2,000 fans and losing to LSU 72-70 in Little Rock. Though the Tigers tamed their opponents, they couldn't handle Boyer. He had 35 points.

Larry Hogue picked up 10 or 15 pounds last summer, and that coupled with his already aggressive nature made him one of Glen Rose's top drivers and rebounders. Here he forces the issue against Baylor. Hogue enjoyed an almost .400 floor average and was the team's number four rebounder, sweeping the boards 50 times. He will return for 1963-64.

Larry Wofford shoots over Baylor's Bears as mate Tommy Boyer fights for position under the Hog bucket. Wofford, the number two offensive man, netted 277 points and averaged 11.5. Having moved out front, Boyer took only 76 rebounds during the season, but was obviously more dangerous in an offensive role.

Basketball

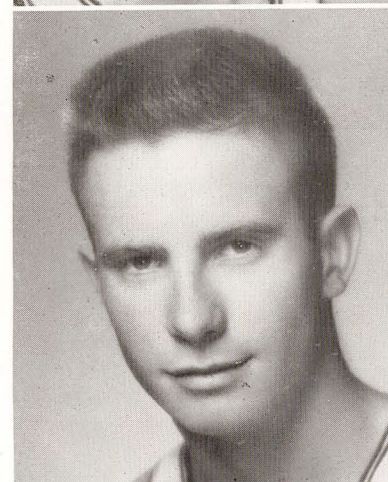

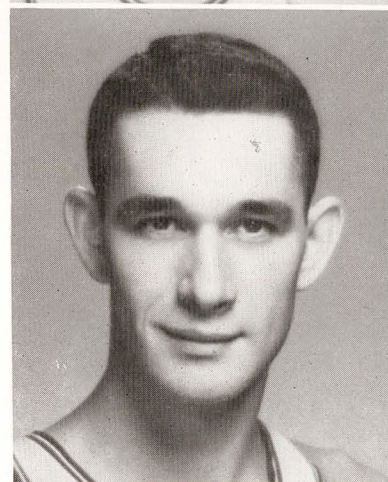

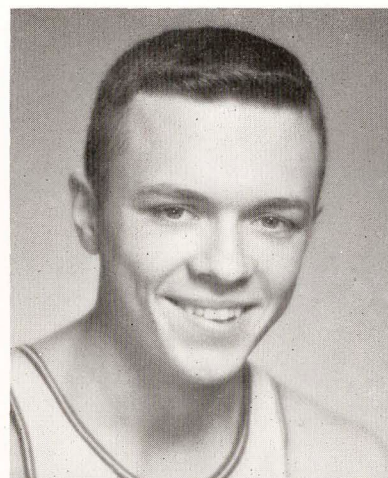

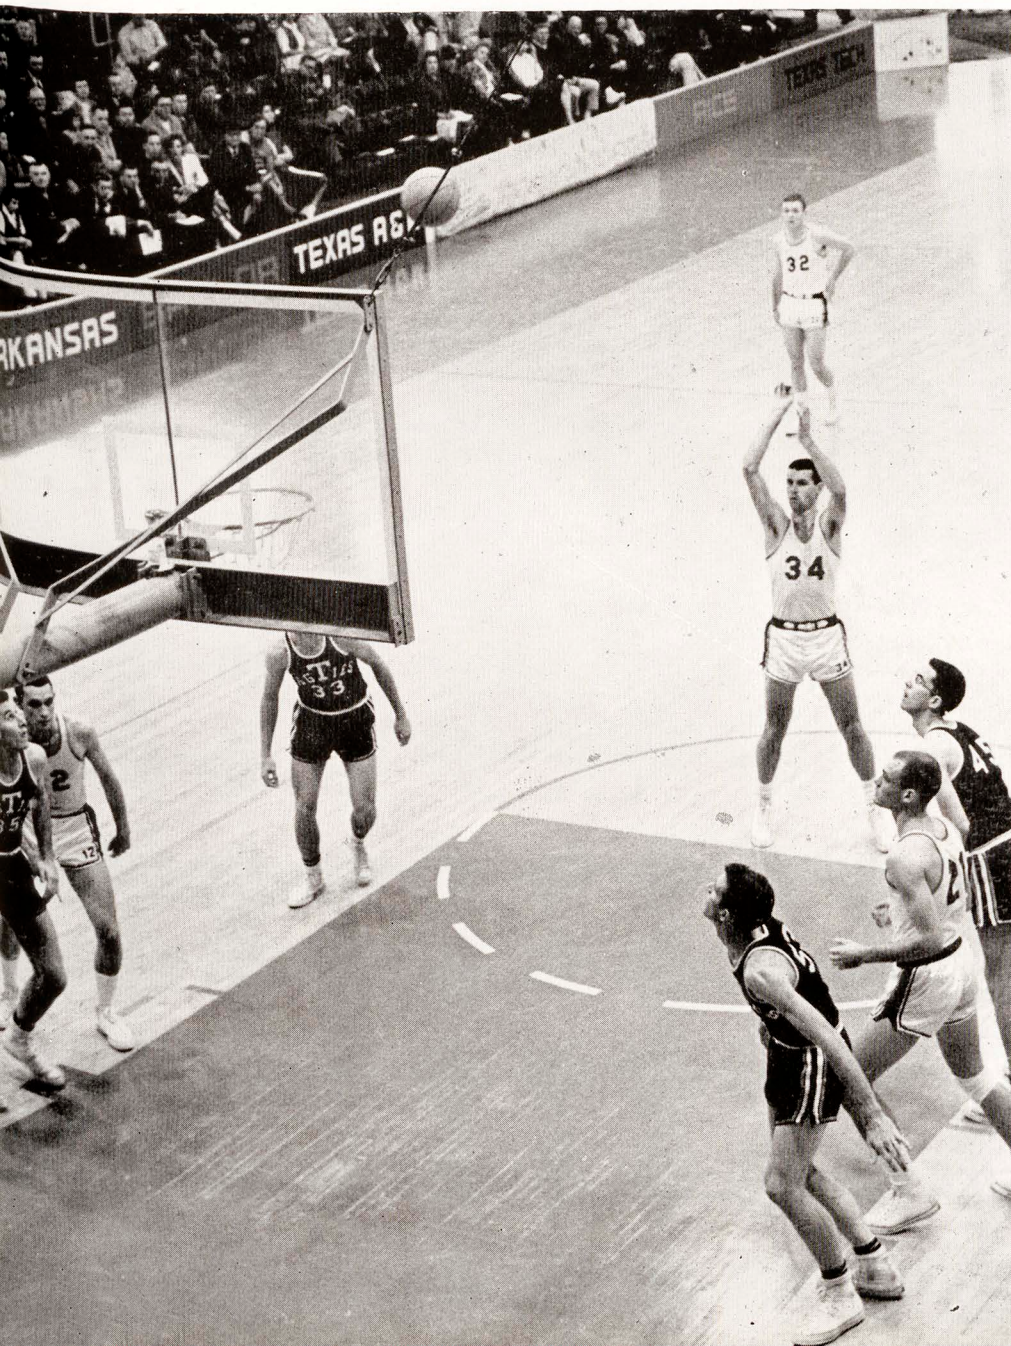

The quintet spent its post-Christmas vacation in Oklahoma City at the All-College meet. Santa Claus didn't. The Porks first drew Loyola, which was sporting a 6-0 record, a 110 point per game scoring average, and a number four national ranking. They managed a moral victory over the Illinois crew, holding them to a 81-62 score in the opener. The UofA gained but one win in the double elimination affair, rallying in the second game to whip Toledo, 58-55. Creighton finished the local entry, 73-61.

Arkansas split the four opening conference games in the brief period between Christmas and final exams. They edged SMU 73-71 and routed hapless TCU 81-59, but fell to league champion Texas 69-63 and to Rice, 85-70.

The Porkers built a nine-point halftime advantage into a 22-point route on a friendly foreign court in taking their seventh win of the season, over TCU. Big (6-9) Kendall Rhine poured through 44 points for the Rice Owls, as the Hogs failed their first exam — on Saturday before the remainder of the campus started the tests.

Intersectional rival, Tulsa, came back after the exam break to take a second victory from the Porks, 68-66. They returned to conference play combining a tenacious defense with the offensive duo of Boyer and Larry Wofford and upset Texas A&M in Fayetteville, 66-55.

Tommy practices the art that brought him a pair of national records, pumping home a free one for Arkansas. He aimed at nothing in particular, but, as he put it, "just held the ball till it felt right."

Low pressure Glen Rose seemingly steps out of character to make a point during a heated contest. In twenty years he has done so many times; he will again. But because of his basic nature, many fans will fail to see the driving determination of Glen Rose.

Although Boyer made his name at the charity stripe, the Fort Smith lad was an all around offensive leader. Shooting from the top of the circle, as here, or beyond, he fired for a .448 average from the field over the slate and .476 in conference play.

Basketball

Jim Wilson, senior center, seeks two points after faking his shadow as transfer Warren Vogel gains rebound position for the Razorbacks.

Taking advantage of the home court and the excess personal fouls of the two top defensive hands — Wofford and Coffman — Texas Tech swiped a see-saw affair in overtime from the Porkers, 80-75. With the score tied 67-all, the Hogs gambled the regulation game's final 54 seconds against a chance for the last good shot. When Vogel was unable to shoot, it went into an additional period. The Porkers were in it till the final :15, but a trio of charity shots erased their chances, as Tech pulled ahead, 76-73.

Still battling for a chance at a second place finish, Arkansas took Baylor in mid-February, 75-65. The springboard to the win was Boyer's phenomenal shooting. The one-eyed free throw artist hit 31 points, 19 of them in the first half.

In an attempt to stop Kendall Rhine, who scored 44 against them in the season's first encounter, the Razorhogs threw up a zone around the Rice Owls. It held Rhine to 12 points, but failed to stop the Owls.

A&M split the Arkansas series with a thrilling 80-78 victory at College Station. They did it with a page from Boyer's book — stylish free shooting on the part of Bennie Lenox. With just seconds remaining and the score tied, 76-76, Lenox calmly hit his fifteenth straight free throw to give the Aggies a two-point edge. He then grabbed a loose ball and was immediately fouled. His tosses gave him 37 points and the Aggies the win. The following Tuesday night the shoe was back on the other foot as Boyer escorted Texas Tech out of the first division with 18 of 18 free throws — a conference record. The Porkers gained a 43-38 halftime lead and held their own in the final stanza to win 83-78.

Saturday night, Boyer claimed a national free throw record against Baylor. He hit 44 charity tosses before missing. The old mark had been 43 set by Duequene's Dick Ricketts. The Razorbacks put in 12 straight points late in the first half to grab a precarious one-point lead over the Bears by halftime. A solid second half gave it to Arkansas, 67-61.

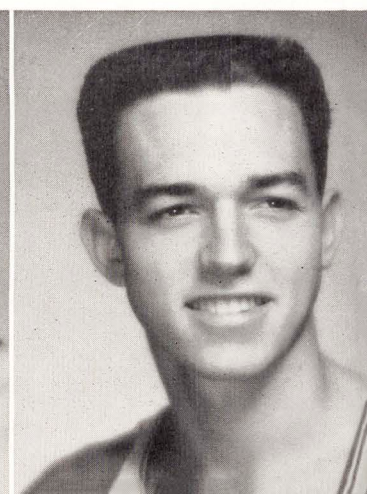

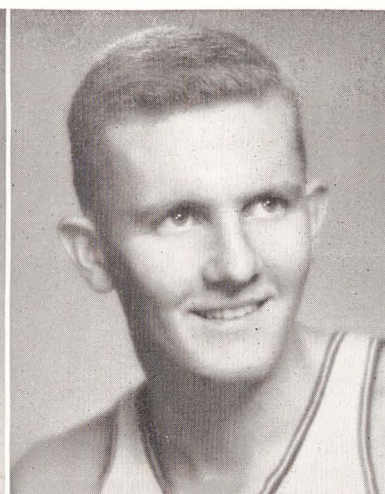

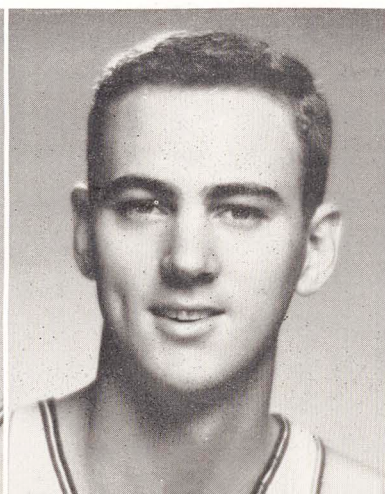

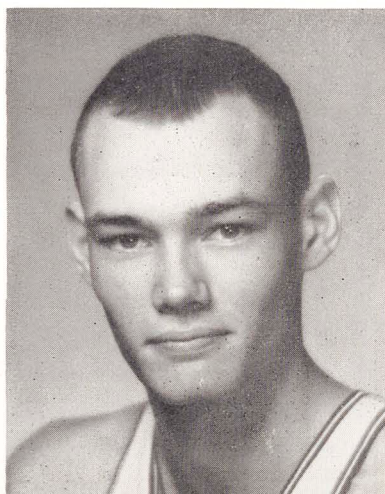

The Hogs won two of their final three games, completing a sweep of the series over SMU, 82-79, but losing to Texas a second time, 99-86, and trouncing TCU's Horned Frogs, 104-94.

Tommy Boyer
All-Southwest

It takes a full page to list all of Tommy Boyer's records — national, conference, and as a Razorback. Tommy started his college career by breaking the Shoat scoring mark; he ended it by topping all the national free shooting records. Sandwiched between the two events was a "soph of the year" nomination, two all-conference berths and 1,067 points (second in Razorback history only to George Kok's 1,195).

Jim Mace grimaces as he stretches out for that extra distance in the broad jump. Mace and Dick Perry teamed to give the Porkers good strength in this event with both men hitting near 24 feet.

Preston Holsinger, crack Oklahoma State vaulter, skims over the bar to take first place in the Arkansas Relays with a height of 15'-0".

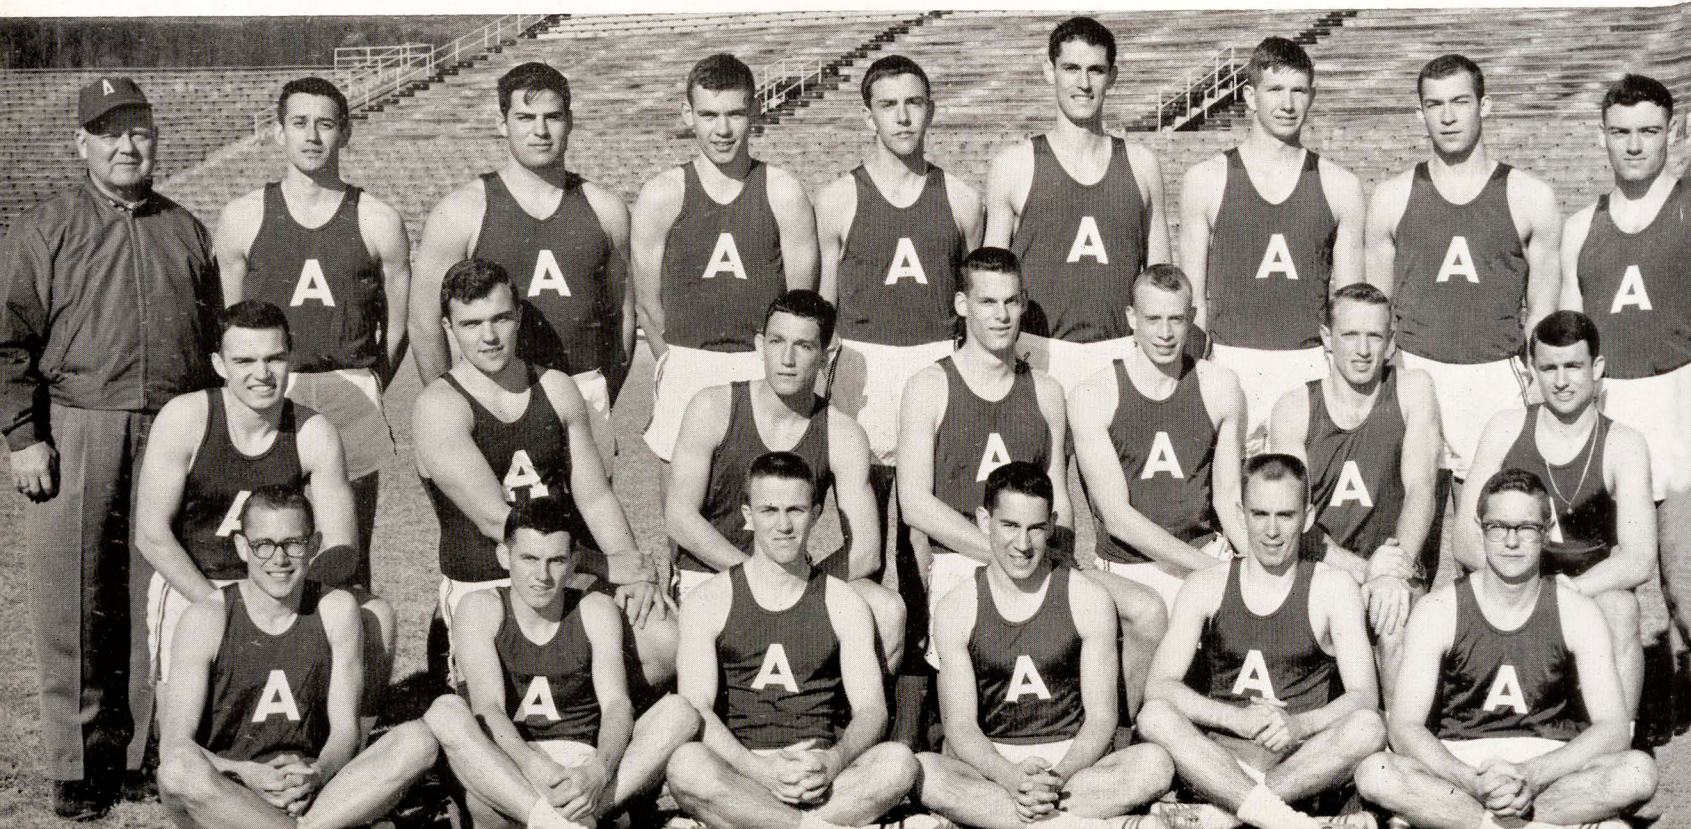

Track

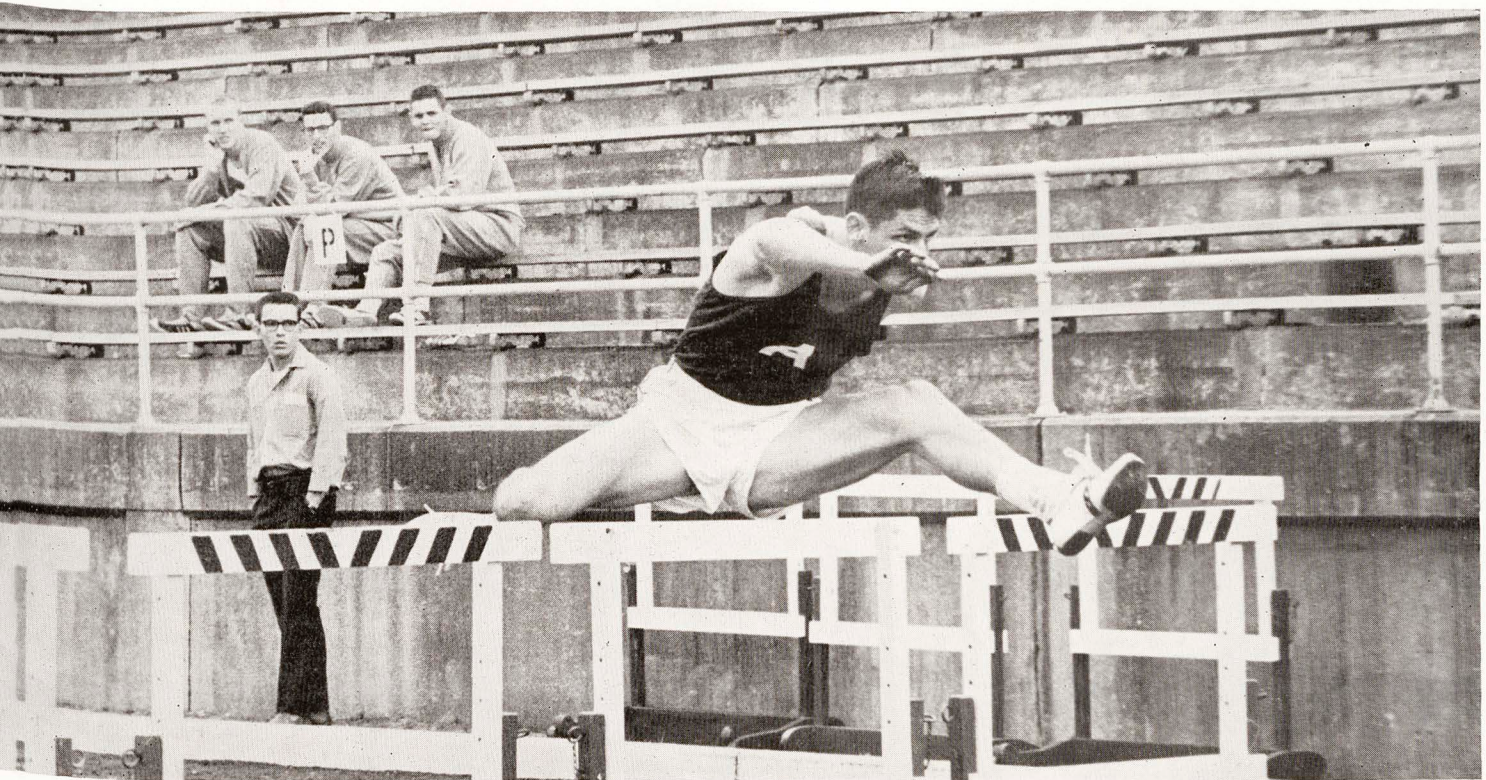

While not setting the world on fire by any stretch of the imagination, Arkansas' track crew enjoyed one of their finest campaigns in years. It had its usual problems in lack of sprinters, but it more than compensated for this by an abundance of top hurdlers and distance men. With Ralph Brodie, Ed Renfrow, Jim Hartness and Jim Mace doing the honors, the Porkers registered the nation's top time in the shuttle hurdle relay with a 59.6. The Hog two mile relay team was also a respected quintet as they set a new school mark of 7:40.1, averaging 1:55 a half.

A distinguishing factor of the Razorbacks was their lack of individual stars, but a good amount of overall strength. A young team, it reached its peak at the end of the season as several boys began to develop into good competitors.

Hurdler Ralph Brodie shows flashing form, but an idle season and campus politics frustrated his assault on Clyde Scott's mark.

Haydn Hicks pushes across the finish line anchoring the Porker two mile relay team to a new Arkansas record.

Jim Bone, moved into outfield for '63 season, legs out infield hit.

Jim Jay, a two sport man, lifts a long one for the Porkers. Jay, in addition to playing a lot of shortstop, led the Hogs' hitting.

The Arkansas pitcher gleefully whips his fast one past the visiting batsman. Generally, Razorback pitching was only average.

Phillip Kolb takes time out for a puff and a pant after turning in a practice round on the Porkers' Cross Country crew. The Hogs made a good run for the crown, but fell a hair and a half short of it.

Cross Country

Arkansas, a former perennial cross country conference champion, made a strong bid for a return to the limelight this year, and they almost made away with all the marbles as they finished second to Texas A&M by one point. At one stretch in the late '50's the Pigs walked off with four straight crowns before the drought set in. Brighter days appear on the horizon though because the Razorbacks return all their men off this year's team plus adding a strong transfer and an exceptional freshman crop.

Top man for the harriers this year was John Deardorff. A tireless worker, Deardorff provided the Hogs with the leadership they needed while also kicking in with some pretty fair times. The Wichi'a junior turned in a 14:33 over the three mile course which was good enough for third in the league.

Number two man for the Razorbacks was Wayne Irsch. He placed seventh in the conference meet and Bobby Williamson finished 10th.

Next year promises to be an even better one than this past campaign for Ab Bidwell's crew. Mike Chilton, a JC transfer will be joined by freshmen distance runners Tommy McKnelly, Lewis Miner, Richard Burnett, and Bill Owens, who promise to give the returning veterans a run for their money. Competition is sure to be hot to see who gets the coveted positions.

Tennis

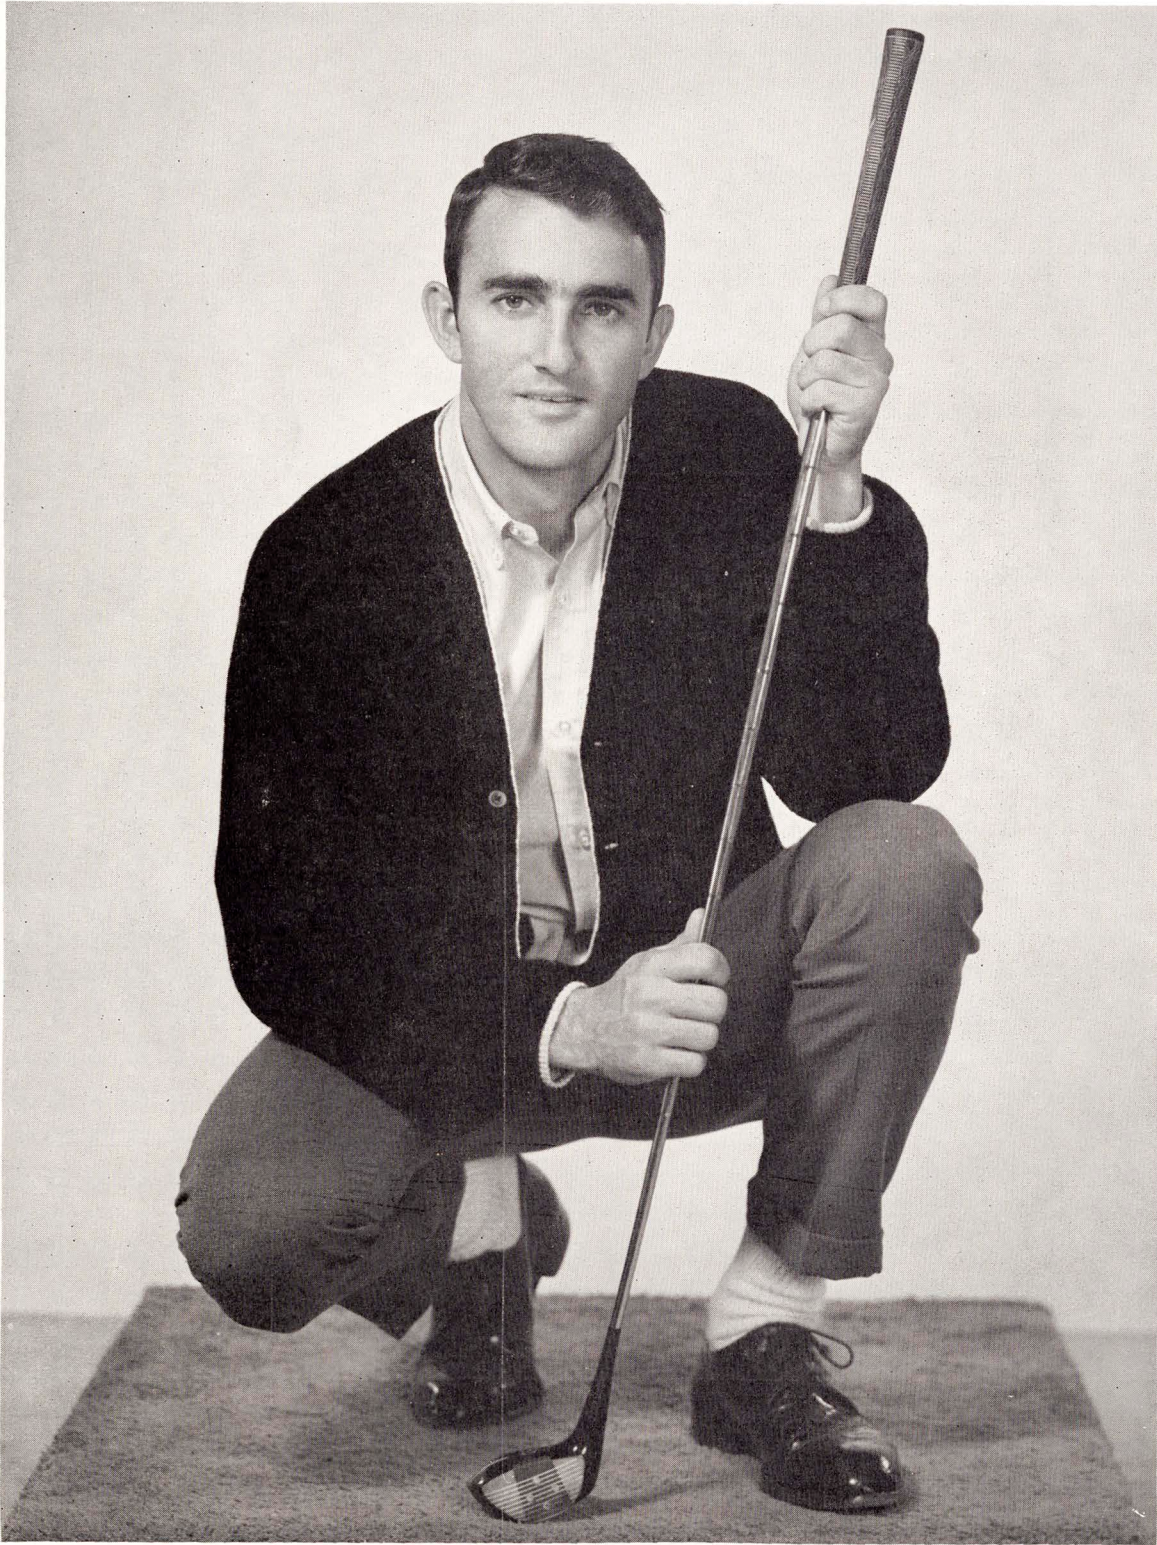

The remnant of a piecemeal approach to its tennis program and an admittedly tough schedule left the University of Arkansas netters with a 1-9-1 record. Coach Jay Dickey's crew opened with a win, 4-2, over Centenary, but failed their next 9 consecutive tests; 2-4 to SMS, 3-4 to Missouri, 0-6 to Northeastern Oklahoma, 1-5 to Wichita, 2-4 to Emporia State, 0-4 to Tulsa, 0-6 to Northeastern Oklahoma, 1-5 to Tulsa, before tying Wichita in the finale, 3-3.

Aware that it was too late to salvage the tennis program overnight, Dickey has directed his efforts to establishing a foundation upon which future coaches and players can build. His ideas were to encourage high school athletes to join the program through obtaining and publicizing better equipment and to establish a more appealing scholarship program. He describes these efforts as successful. For the first time, the tennis program has been able to offer financial assistance to the netter just off the high school campus.

Any immediate rebuilding of the tennis team must center around sophomore Roy Murtishaw. He reminds one of Coach Dickey when he was Arkansas' number one man, but probably lacks Jay's aggressiveness.

R. H. Sikes

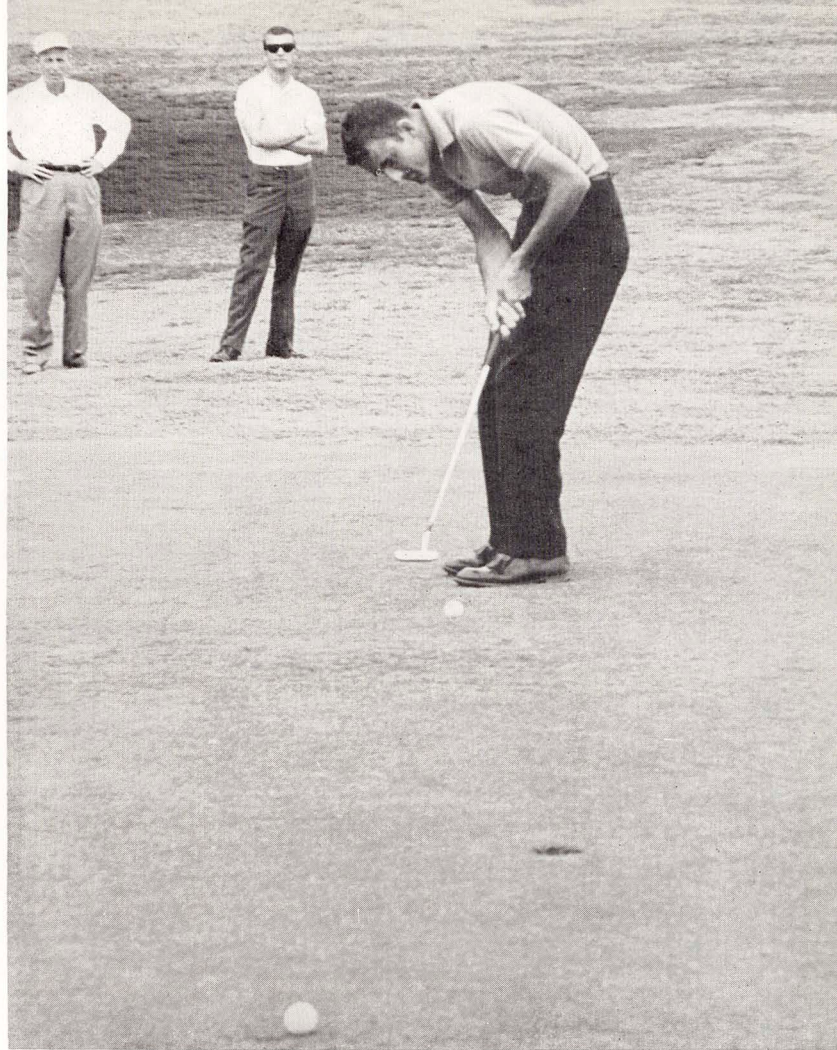

R. H. Sikes carried the Arkansas golf team (and his own bag) through three seasons. And although he had distinguished himself in the state, it was not until he won the 1961 National Public Links title that his national stature skyrocketed. Since then, among other honors, he's won the title again, in '62. Also in 1962 he was selected the "Putter-of-the-Year." In 1963, he's already been named to the Walker Cup Team. As usual during the college season, Sikes was Arkansas. He led the Porker linkmen with an unblemished record.

Golf

The lack of depth, which plagued all the springs sports at Arkansas, was evident in the 1963 golf team. With National public Links champion R. H. Sikes playing one of his finest seasons for Ellis Bogan's crew, the Porkers still didn't figure to finish in the first division of the Southwest Conference.

R. H., undefeated in the early going was joined by Richard McCauley, another senior, in playing excellent golf. These two, however, simply weren't enough; and with the loss of a third letterman at the start of the season, Bogan had to fill in with sophomores. Though sophs Kenny Oliver, Nolan Rushing, and Fred Rose showed improvements, their inexperience hurt them.

Going into the final week of competition before the Southwest Conference meet, the Razorback golfers were $13\frac{1}{2}$ - $16\frac{1}{2}$ in league play, losing to TCU, 2-4; to SMU $2\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{1}{2}$; and to Texas, 2-4. They topped two league opponents, winning over Texas A&M $3\frac{1}{2}$ - $2\frac{1}{2}$ and Baylor, $3\frac{1}{2}$ - $2\frac{1}{2}$ before falling to league leading Texas Tech and taking on Rice to wrap up the regular season.

Determined R. H. Sikes shows the form that brought him two Public Links Championships and the "Putter of the Year" title.

Shoat Football

The success of any freshman athletic program is measured, not by its record of wins and losses, but by the number of potential varsity athletes it develops. By either criterion, Jack Davis's Shoat's had a good year.

The frosh recorded a 3-1-1 season. They opened with SMU and lost to the Methodists, 6-0. Texas Tech fell 14-6 in Little Rock before OSU tied the Shoats in Stillwater. They finished the season with a road victory over Wichita, 30-20, and a 28-8 win over Tulsa at home.

Though not lacking in talent, most of this year's frosh crop is at least a year away. A rule change last winter may force Frank Broyles to return to but two playing units. Because the three-team system last fall provided a record number of lettermen, the 22 remaining positions may be filled by lettermen. Fellows like Jackie Brasuell, Jerry Mooty, Bobby Nix, in the backfield, and linemen like Richard Trail, however, will make their presence felt. Brasuell, who came from Van Buren without a scholarship — and won one — surpassed the freshman record made by All-American Lance Alworth, running for 437 yards on 65 carries and passing for an additional 232.

Confusion reigns at scrimmage during spring football practice as freshmen fight for places on next year's varsity squad. The majority of them will probably be redshirted to save a year of eligibility. The ball is somewhere in the middle of this mess.

Freshman backs (two, at least) take part in spring drills. A third anticipates scrimmage against varsity, considers giving up scholarship.

Shoat reserve Dan Gibbs takes dead aim at a free shot against Fort Smith Junior College. From the angle of the ball to the goal, it would appear that his aim was none too good. As a team, the freshmen averaged a respectable .752 from the line while hitting a cool .484 from the field. The Porkers whipped JC on the Fort Smith court 92-60 and won the return match in Fayetteville, 96-56.

Shoat Basketball

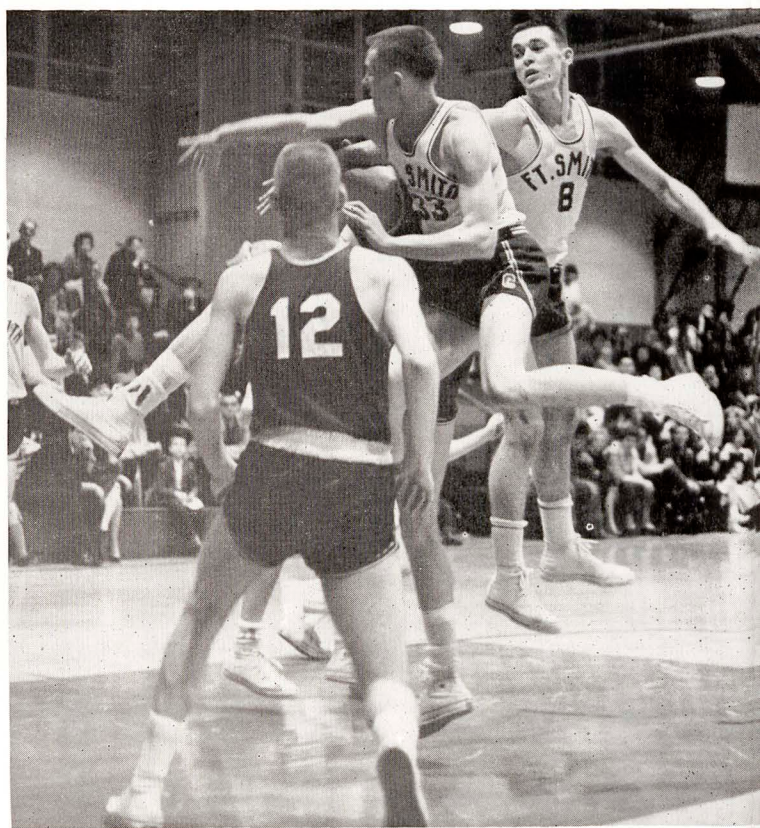

The Shoats compiled a 10-2 record running Coach Duddy Waller's all-time record to 54 wins against only 15 losses. The mark represented a vast improvement over the 1961-62 edition which only broke even over the twelve-game slate.

Like their senior counterparts, the Frosh ran afoul of neighboring Tulsa. The Gales whipped them 70-63 in the third game of the season and then snapped a seven-game Hog winning streak, 93-80.

Waller, a respected taskmaster, combined a potent offense with a respectable defense as the Shoats averaged 82.6 points per outing while holding their opponents to a 63.3 composite. As a team, the Freshmen shot an impressive .484 from the field.

Rickey Suggs, a long-armed lad from Berryville, led the Shoat offense with 163 points, averaging 15.3 per evening. Fayetteville's J. D. McConnell was another big gun with 156 points and a 13.1 average. Steve Rousseau turned in 134 points and Justin Daniel, another local product, had 116.

Glen Rose must look to this crop for replacements for what amounted to his entire starting five — either as bench strength or as regulars.

Larry Bearden, Nathan Meyers, Ronnie Ellis and Richard Burnett.

Shoat Track

While not a flashy year for the Shoats in paper results, it never-the-less served its function in developing talent for the varsity. Ab Bidwell's recruiting seemed to be in the right areas this year as the Frosh graduates will step right in to fill the gaps in the higher up ranks.

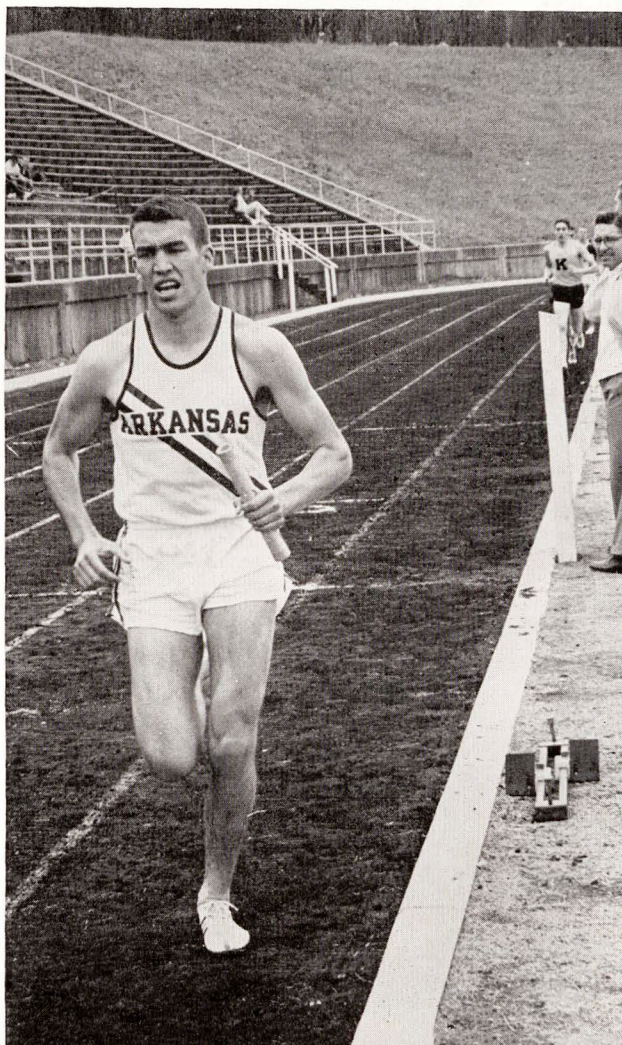

There wasn't quite the development in some of the Shoat individuals that Bidwell wanted, but good showings by the distance, weight and field event men more than overshadowed this.

Nathan Meyers set a new Arkansas Freshman record in the discus following in Don Schilling's footsteps, and Larry Bearden could easily be the Razorbacks number one vaulter next year having cleared 14' in practice on occasions. Robert Homan at 9.9 in the century is the fastest Arkansas can offer in the Frosh or varsity divisions. He should be able to give the Pigs some much needed help there next year.

But the real strength of the Baby Porks lies in the longer events. Phillip McKnelly, Bill Owens, Lewis Miner and Richard Burnett provided the Hogs' with good depth from the 880 on up. McKnelly was easily the most exciting runner for the Shoats making up for what he lacked in finesse and style with sheer power. His seemingly sprint-type final kicks at the end of the mile brought the crowd to its feet with approval.

Bidwell said this year's Frosh were unusually hard workers and have laid the basis for good future times. According to Bidwell they're a year ahead of schedule as far as laying down a good foundation is concerned and can be expected to produce some help a year ahead of time.

Phillip McKnelly provided the crowd thrills for the Freshmen this year with his fantastic finishing kicks in the distance events.

Doug Smith, Editor

1963 Razorback

A Reluctant Review

It is traditional that at this point in the Razorback, the editor drops his editorial "we" and steps blushingly right out in the open to make a few comments concerning his book and the people who helped or hindered in its production.

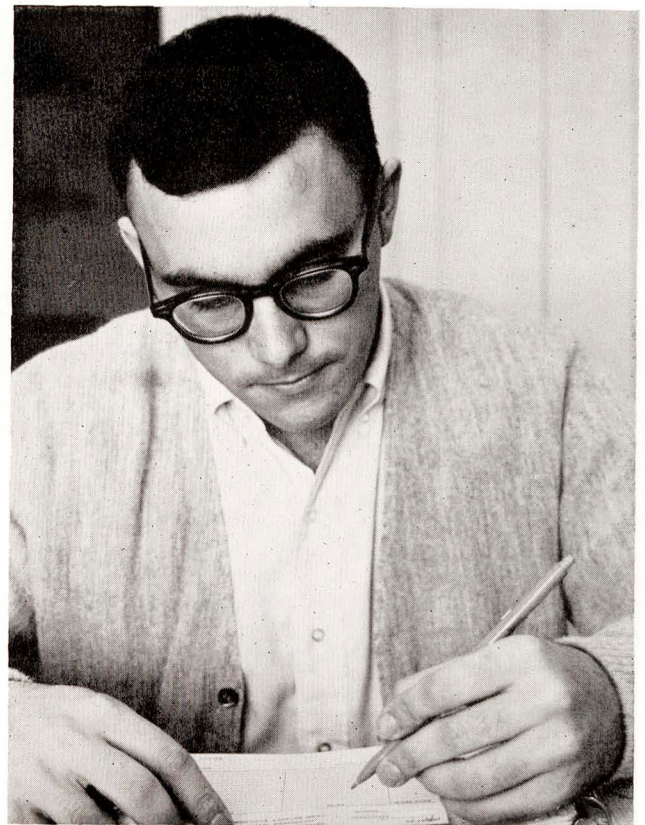

I approach this task with a certain amount of reluctance. I have, in fact, evaded it squarely for some time now. But it is getting late in the year (1:30 a. m., May 1, to be exact) and I am beginning to get nasty calls from the printer, who is understandably curious as to whether I plan to send in any copy for this section.

There are a couple of reasons for my procrastination. For one, I am afraid of saying something that might embarrass me later. Last year's editor fell into that trap. The other reason is that I am not at all sure I can explain how this book got out (assuming that it has, or you wouldn't be reading this) when it is still not clear in my own mind. But let us put our heads together, and maybe we can make some sense out of it.

It all started last spring when I was elected editor. Ah, those were happy days. I was chock full of enthusiasm, completely undaunted by the size of the burden I was about to assume.

I existed in this blissful state until September, or approximately the time the real work started. My spirits have been declining ever since.

The storm hit with a vengeance. There were class

portraits to take and cards to file and class panels to make up, not to mention Greeks and droms, and cards to type and 1001 other things, anyone of which is enough to drive a sensitive person to drink or distraction. Or both.

Of course it would be ridiculous for me to claim that I did all these things by myself, so I suppose this is as good a time as any to talk about my staff. I will try to say only nice things.

My staff organization was, to say the least, informal. No, on second thought I think the organization was formal enough, it was in the performance that things got kind of messy. Take the military section, for example. It is a culmination of the combined efforts of Organizations Editor Bruce Roberts, Arts Editor Jim Williams and Associate Editor Garry Carroll. I never did find out what happened to my military editor.

If I had to single out the two most valuable staff members, my choice would be Kay Hafenbrak and Douglas Wilson. Hafenbrak, so efficient she's scary, injected a semblance of order into the proceedings. Wilson started out as Greeks Editor, then was promoted to Associate Editor when he showed a naive willingness to do more.

Business Manager Bill Kidder's knack for putting things off was surpassed only by my own, but he usually managed to muddle through. And he came to my aid a couple of times when I was sore oppressed.

Others who performed their duties admirably, or at least acceptably, include Polly Outlaw, whose picture was prominently displayed on the bulletin board all year; Cathie Rummel, forced to resign at the end of first semester because of circumstances beyond her control; Terry Poynter, an old colleague from Traveler days; Ed Dohoney, former editor who got the index in shape; Jane Schermerhorn; Anabeth Cadwell; Karen Giss; Ron Hall; Mollie Wilson nee Haley, and the aforementioned Roberts, Carroll and Williams (who is keeping me company on this unseasonably cold morning).

Roberts, incidentally, said his section would be the first completed and it was, even though six weeks late. This should give you an idea of the progress of the book as a whole.

Well, it is over now. Although I am not quite imaginative enough to visualize the Razorback as a "paper mistress" as one former editor referred to it, I have developed a sort of affection for the old thing. Maybe it was worth it after all.

Now that I've gotten warmed up, I have some more things I would like to say, but they are mostly in the nature of personal reminiscences and keen observations on things in general. This kind of exhibitionism is usually reserved for the editor's final word at the end of the book. I will meet you there.

Arkansas Traveler

Four ChiO's Per Page

The Traveler experienced many changes this year. The avant-garde crew disappeared — Doug Smith moved his talents across the hall to the Razorback office, Doug Wilson got married and Armil Snow quit sleeping in Hill Hall.

But on the whole, the energetic spirit of the Traveler continued. Pat Trimble, who never wanted to be editor in the first place and who deserves laurels for her courage, guided the paper through a successful year despite administration criticism, political pressure, court decisions, writs of mandamus and Sam Park. Her name will be immortalized on the "Lest We Forget" list on the bulletin board.

If the Traveler gave a "Most Valuable" award, this year's would probably go to Benny Swindell who ably managed the inside pages. Besides being competent (a rare enough trait these days) Benny is such a nice guy you get the impression that when he says "damn" he feels guilty about it.

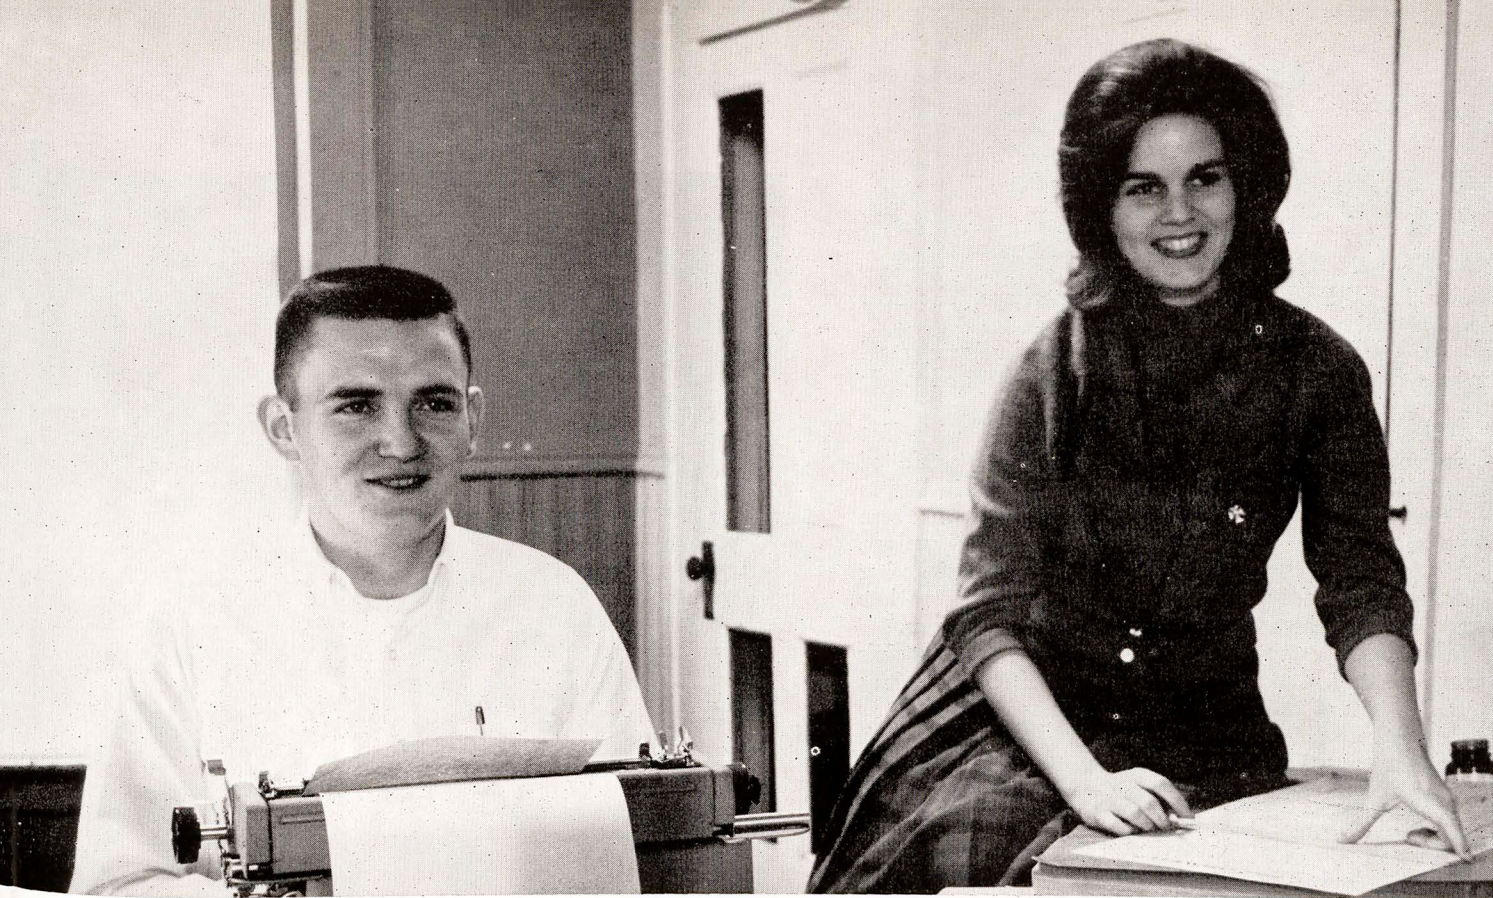

Then there's Mike Riggs, or more aptly, there was Mike Riggs. Associate Editor first semester, he was perhaps the only member of the staff not in the business for the money. The kindest remark we can make is that he meant well.

Pat Trimble's right hand assistant, News Editor Marian Alford, devoted much time and energy to the Traveler, resulting in her being selected as editor of next year's paper.

And Sam Park — there can be no words to describe this reporter, possibly because when our language was invented no one thought anyone like him would ever

exist. Sam's subtle sense of humor ("Dot Harkey or bust"), his Fruits of Autumn trio and his column, "The Devil's Advocate," have endeared him to the campus forever. The world would be missing something if Sam didn't exist — though off-hand we can't say exactly what.

Sports Editor Norvell Plowman (Norvie to his friends) served as the staff authority on football, basketball, track and jokes. Norvie lived the Razorbacks, working also for the Democrat and UPI. He also served as host at the gala and long to be remembered staff party, a role he performed most graciously.

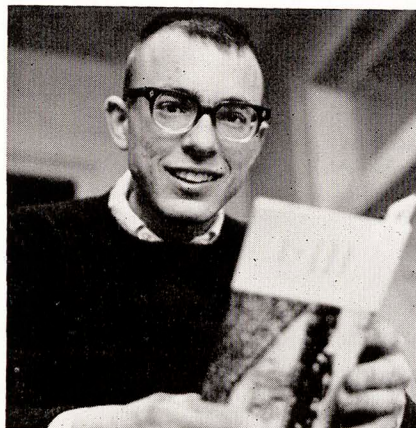

Ann Graham, Kappa, and Carolyn Ferrill, Tri-Delt, performed the not insignificant feat of breaking up the ChiO monopoly on the Traveler. Ann also helped break up a friendship at the Traveler staff party. But then she had help.

Mike Trimble, the editor's little brother, turned out to be a pretty sharp guy on his own. He has the makings of a good newspaperman if he learns how to type.

And in answer to many questions — yes, there really is a Chi Chi Hargraves, a silly, spastic little girl who writes extremely bad columns, even worse Razorback copy, and who has been to the infirmary twice this year — once with a broken toe and once with a back sprain she received by being so overwhelmed by the sight of art editor Steve Drasznak opening a Coke that she fell down a whole flight of stairs in Hill Hall. Perhaps, just perhaps, she will improve with age.

As usual, the insultingly efficient business staff managed to keep the paper out of debt and their office clean — both rather difficult tasks.

The year began on an hysterical note with Pat Trimble's nervous tears the first critical week of publication and ended on the equally hysterical note of the Student Senate controversy. In between there was a pep rally incident that threatened to explode into a Greek-independent war, pro-integration picketing the Monday before Christmas holidays and many late night and early morning hours in the print shop.

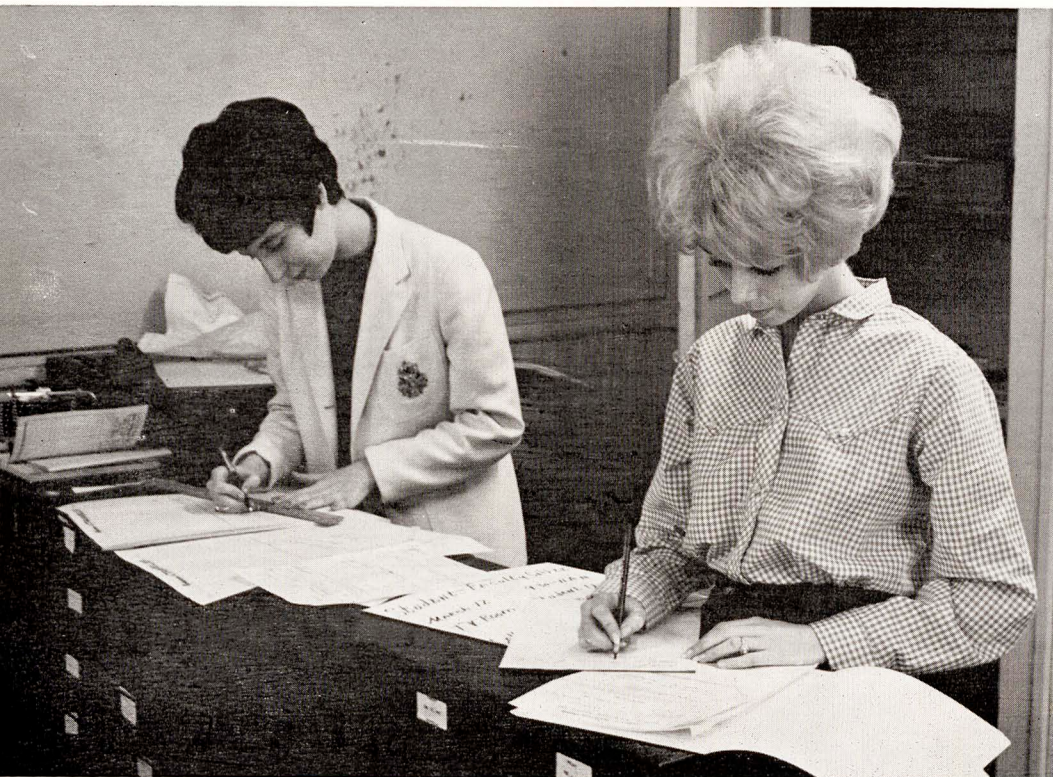

The crisis came in the spring when Ralph Brodie's reorganization plan placed the Traveler in a precarious political situation. The issue is too complicated to be explained here, and we never really understood it ourselves, but if nothing else the Student Court decisions helped enrich the staff's vocabulary for Park was overheard ordering a double mandamus at George's.

The whole year was pretty laughable, but some moments cause us merely to smile. The crazy Coke machine that on good days gave bonuses and on bad days kept your money; the Confederate flag unfurled out the window during the Ole Miss crisis; Beezus and Boom Boom Latuer, cartoonist Garry Carroll's two most delightful characters, and the barbershop quartet of Trimble, Trimble, Riggs and Park.

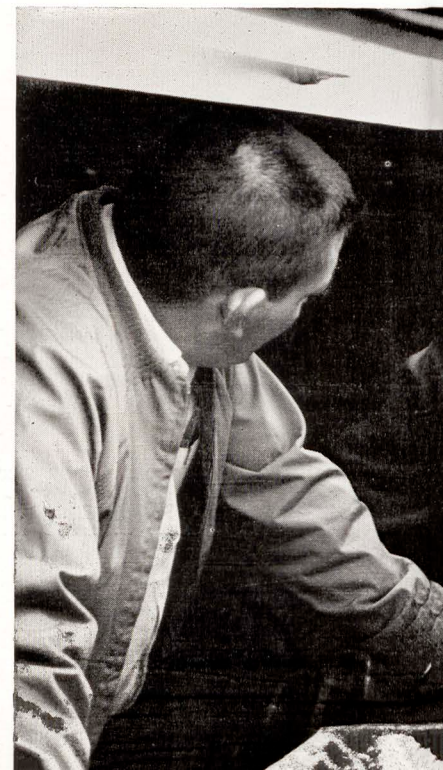

Like the song says, "It's nice to remember." — CHI CHI.

Agriculturist

The Arkansas Agriculturist is the quarterly publication prepared by that group of students who are thought of as the farmers and farm wives of the future.

Since it is prepared by the students in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics the copy deals mostly with research studies and student projects.

Its specified purpose is to inform students, prospective students, faculty and alumni of the activities in the college. One of its principal jobs is that of trying to convince the children of the landed aristocracy across the state that they would be better off in agriculture than in the College of Business Administration. The Agriculturist is circulated throughout the state in high schools and extension offices.

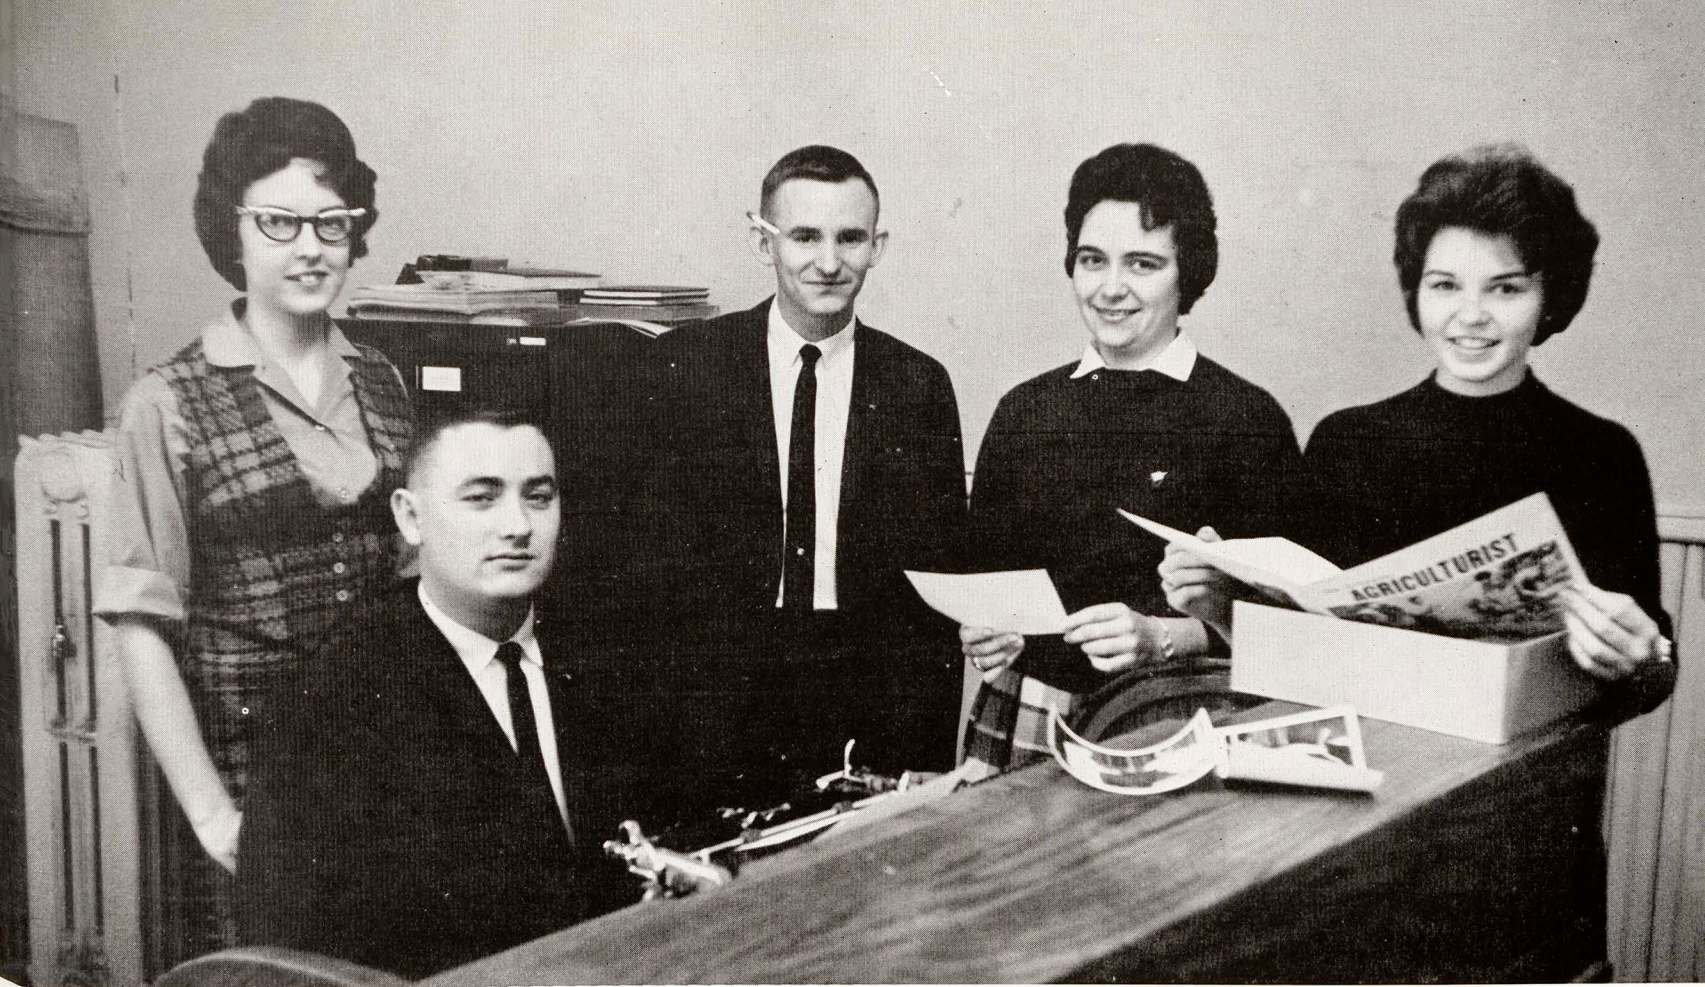

Outstanding students both in scholarship and activities are featured in the pages of the few issues of the Agriculturist. Highlights of the book are the announcement of Who's Who in Agri School and the activities of Agri Day. The Agri Day issue contains the Agri Queen and her court and the winners of the ASA keys.

Staff members are selected from the student body and gain valuable experience in working on the publication, particularly if they are interested in agricultural journalism.

Engineer

The Arkansas Engineer is the official publication of the College of Engineering. It is published quarterly, but three of the issues go pretty much unnoticed.

The exception is the March issue, which contains Cheese cake pictures of all the St. Patricia candidates. Some March issues have become collector's items.

There is a joke page in every issue. Next to the pictures of the girls, it is the most popular part of the magazine. It is dirty. The rest of the magazine is devoted mainly to articles of a technical nature. There is also a Dean's page and an Editor's page. Sometimes, when the editor is especially nerry, these pages express conflicting opinions. But not often.

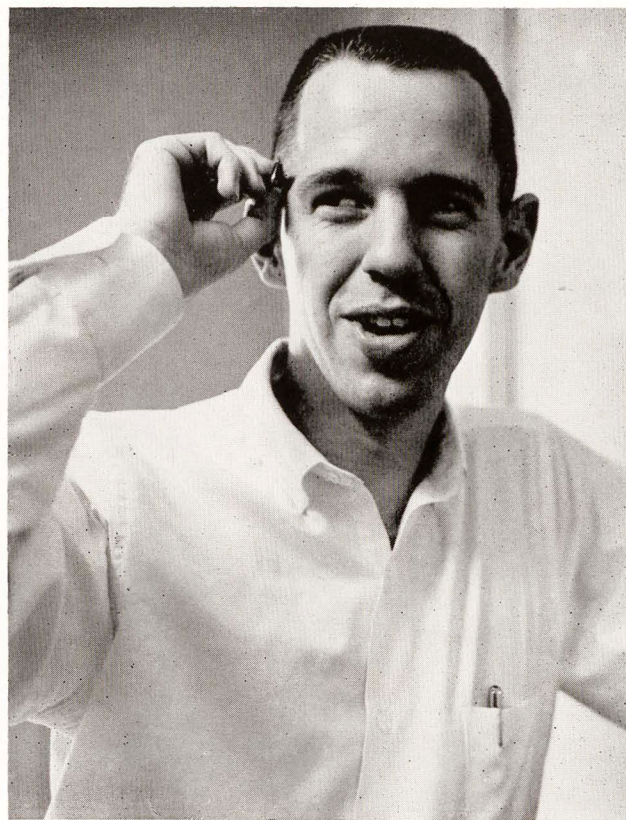

This year's editor was Knox Patterson, who is already planning bigger and better things — like transferring out of engineering school. Patterson has at least one other distinction: he is a Sigma Nu, but not obnoxious about it. This year's copy editor, Ronnie Dunn, was elected to edit the whole thing next year. He is also a Sigma Nu. Oh Well.

Guild Ticker

Like Christmas, the Guild Ticker comes but once a year, usually sometime around Commerce Day in April. The Guild Ticker has a big staff, which is purely for show, since the editor does all the work.

Brenda Heck, last year's Commerce Queen and probably the best-looking editor the Ticker ever had, was the one who got to do all the work this year.

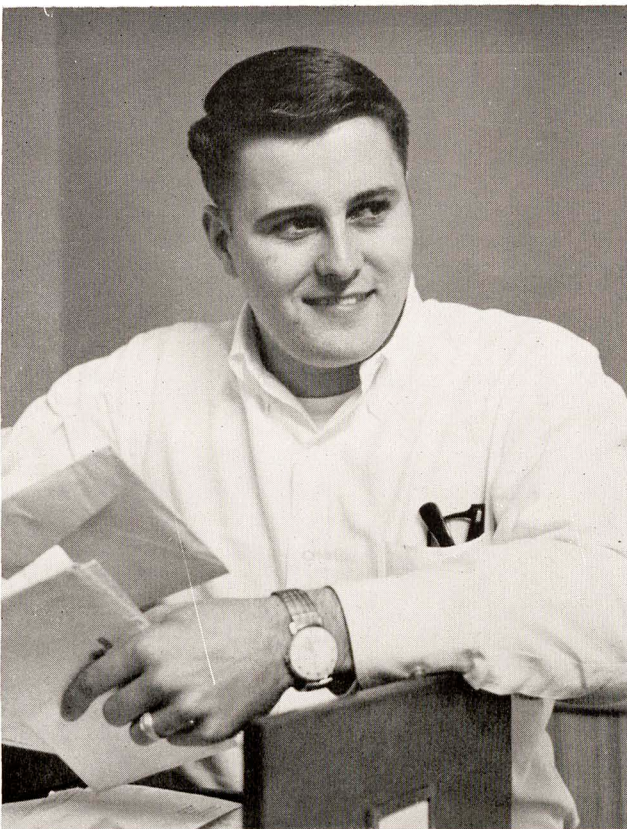

"Industry In Arkansas", a favorite topic around the College of Business Administration, was the theme of the 1963 Guild Ticker.

Also featured in the Ticker were the Commerce Day activities, Commerce Queen Robin Jordan and her court, and Who's Who in the College of Business Administration.

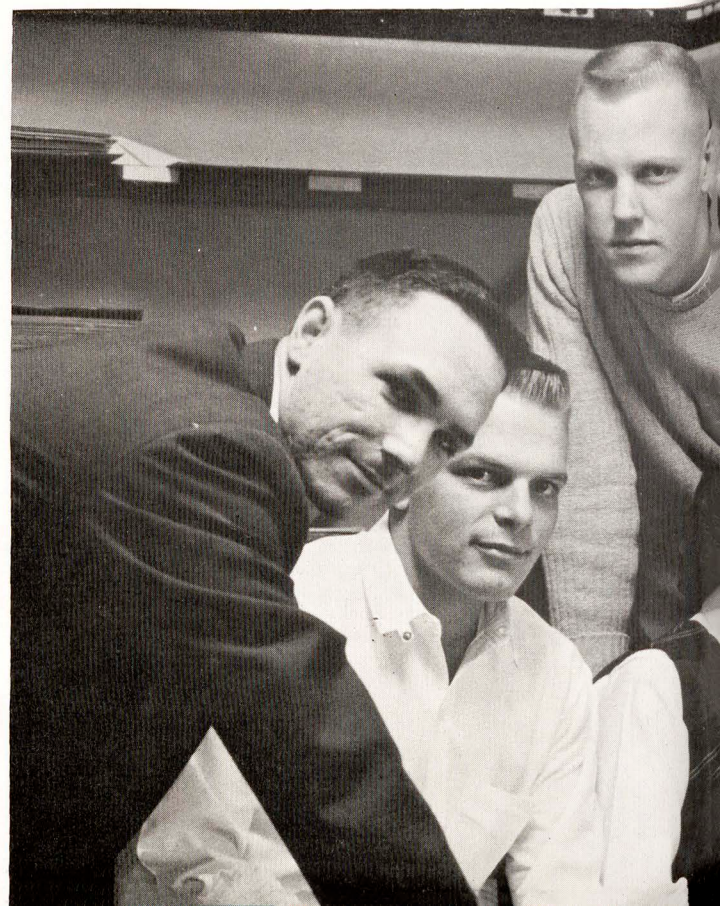

Also included were pictures of all the seniors in business school.

Preview

Preview is a magazine format publication which is prepared by selected students from the College of Arts and Sciences.

The magazine is published yearly and is sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences, the largest of the University's colleges. Aside from being the largest the college probably has the most diversified range of interests, to which Preview must cater.

The goal of this year's Preview was to represent these various interests by devoting the major portion of the magazine to poetry. The other contents included work from primarily the English and the Art departments in the fields of fiction, poetry, painting, woodcutting, and illustration, although the layout of the book is not confined to these areas.

Again this year Preview was a project of Lambda Tau, honorary English fraternity. The magazine began publication in 1946 when it was originally sponsored by Lambda Tau. The first issue was published in a special issue of the Traveler.

Until last year the book was a general project of the A&S college for quite a few years.

Law Review

The Arkansas Law Review and Bar Association Journal is published quarterly by the School of Law and the Arkansas Bar Association, acting through a non-profit, benevolent association which was founded for this purpose in 1947.

A copy of the Law Review is sent to every member of the Arkansas Bar Association and every state and territory in the Union. Some copies even go as far as Belgium and Australia.

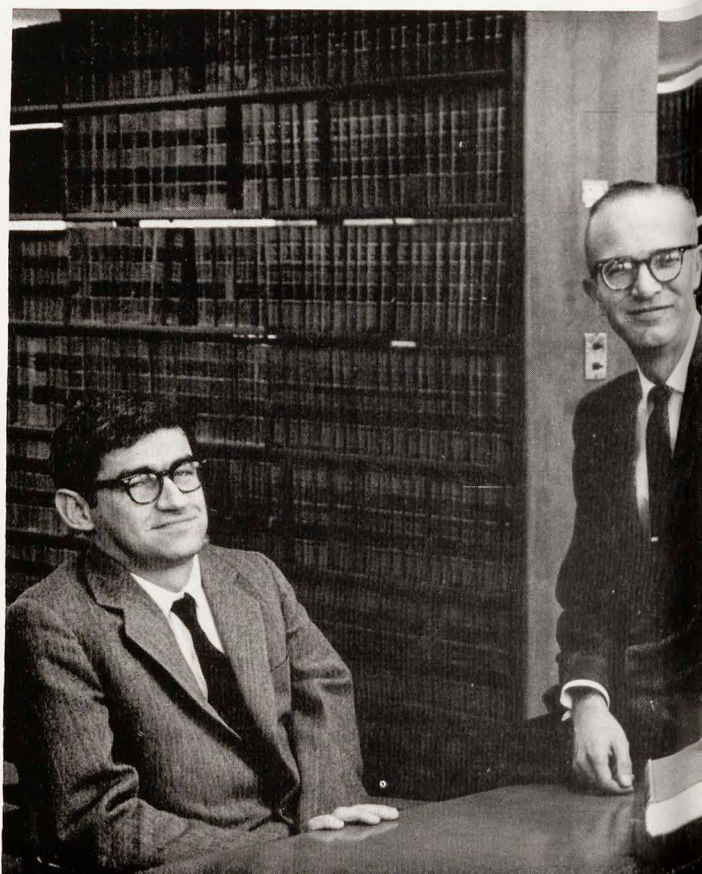

The publication is often cited in court as an authority on such cases as taxation, trusts, and banking.

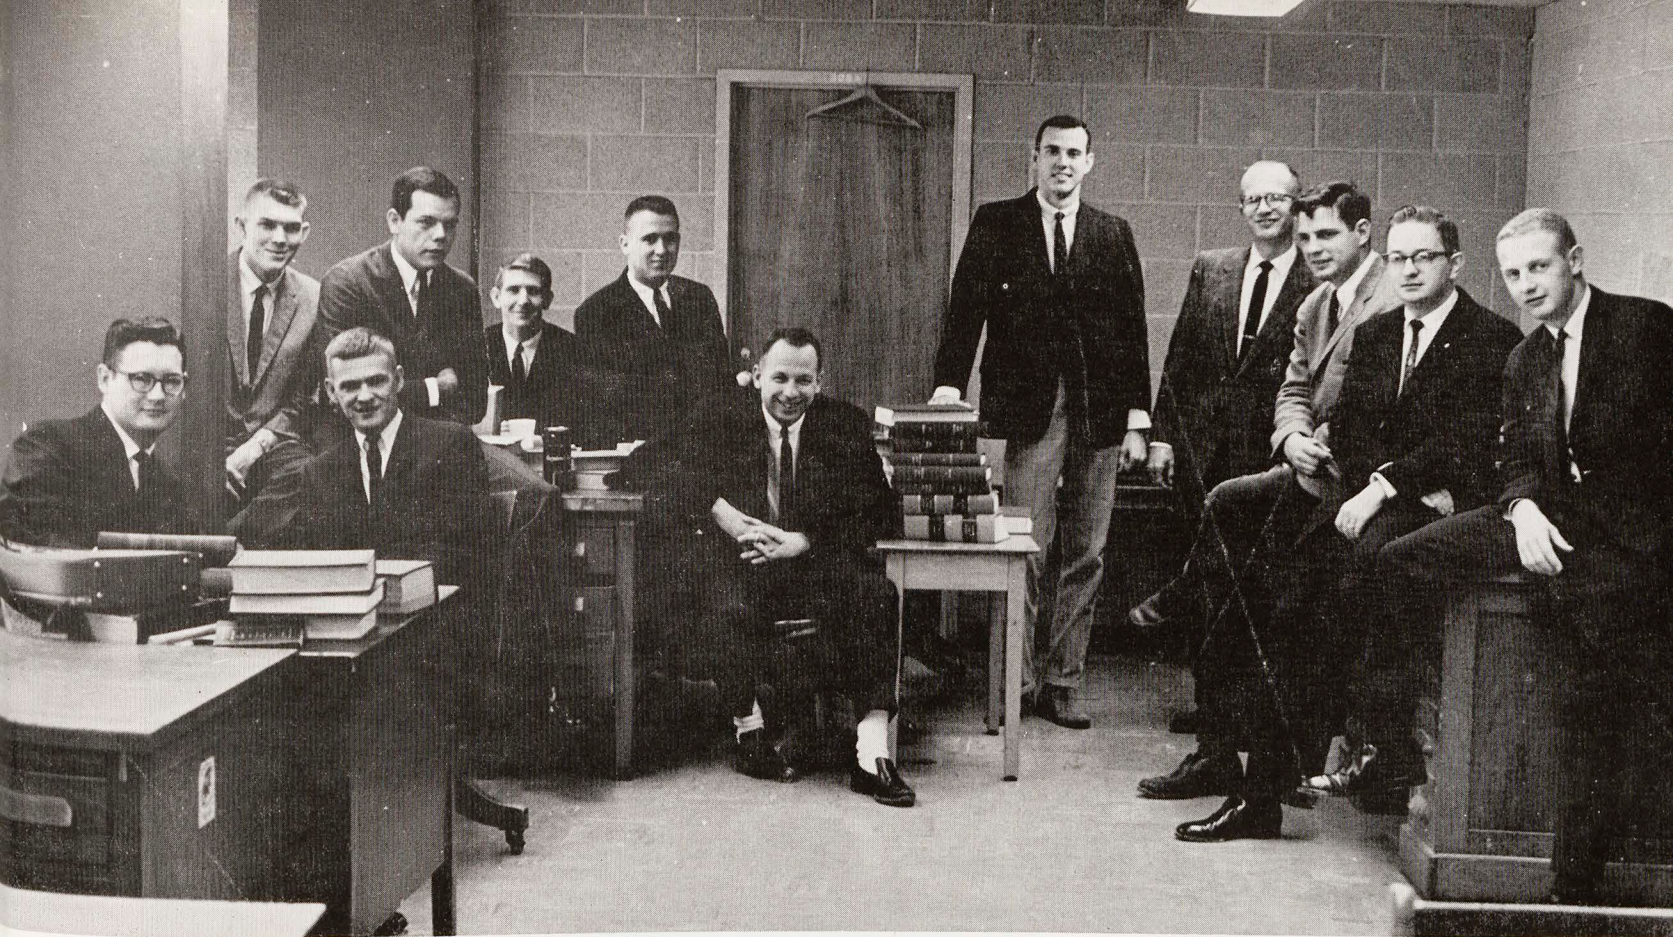

The ancestor of the Law Review was the Law School Bulletin, which was published irregularly from 1929 to 1946. In contrast to the Bulletin, where most of the work was done by the faculty, the Law Review is primarily a student endeavor.

Members of the editorial staff receive credit hours toward graduation for work on the Law Review. Each published student article is afforded a fractional credit hour. Students seeking membership on the staff must meet certain grade point requirements and submit one or more articles of acceptable quality.

Additional articles for the Law Review are prepared by prominent jurists, with the majority of this work being done by the University Law School faculty.

The articles appearing in the Law Review can be generally classified into three categories: recent decisions, case notes, and comments. The articles are under the supervision of the student editorial board and a faculty advisor.

Law Review staff gathers in Waterman Hall office. Staff members receive credit toward graduation for work on publication. Selfconfident smiles reveal that fellows know they are an elite group. Harry Barnes is so self-confident he can wear uncool white socks.

Student Directory contains names and phone numbers of all University students. Hanging on to one is a definite problem.

Student Senate Publications

Sheila Boylan, A-Book Editor

For most of first semester, a burning question on campus was, "When is the Student Directory coming out?" The question went unanswered for so long that the Board of Publications took the unprecedented step of removing the Directory editor, and replacing him with a Board appointee. The Board also tightened the rules pertaining to editorship of the Directory. Henceforth, Directory editors will be required to present periodic progress reports, and will be subject to removal if progress is unsatisfactory.

The Directory, with a pixieish Scarlett Cornwell perched atop a telephone on the cover, was finally distributed to students at second semester registration.

In contrast to the Directory, the '62-'63 A-Book was ably handled by Co-Editors Sheila Boylan and Ruthann Luedicke. The A-Book, the official handbook of student information, underwent a major revision resulting in a more readable publication. There were also a lot of pictures of Pi Phi's in the book.

Both the Directory and the A-Book are published by the Student Senate. Both publications have budgets of approximately $1,000. Editors are selected by the Board of Publications.

Candidates for co-editorship of the Razorback, Kay Hafenbrak and Bill Kidder, present their ideas to the Board of Publications.

Board of Publications

The Board of Publications has the responsibility for seeing that journalistic ethics are adhered to in campus publications. The Board also elects the editors and business managers of the Razorback and the Traveler, and the editors of the A-Book and the Student Directory. The Board also controls the letting of contracts for printing, engraving and other services.

Student membership of the Board rotates among the officers of various campus organizations. Permanent members of the Board are the head of the Department of Journalism; the University Director of Information and a Presidential appointee, usually the Dean of Students. The Vice President of the student body serves as chairman of the Board and votes in case of a tie.

Ex officio membership on the Board is extended to the editors and business managers of the Traveler and Razorback, the editors of the Student Directory and the A-Book, and the business manager of the University.

ARTS

In spite of occasional snide remarks about the kind of people who hang out around the fruit bowl, most UofA students have a relatively high regard for the arts. High relative to the rest of the state, at least. We don't go through four years of college for nothin'.

Mr. Zuss and Nickles argue over J. B.'s faith. George Whitfield and Earl McCarroll, above, were the two outstanding players in Archibald MacLeish's interpretation of the Book of Job. The dialogue was colorful and crafty, but MacLeish's solution is decidedly shallow.

Matt (Gene Gray) defends his lady's virtue against dashing bandit El Gallo (Earl McCarroll) and cohorts, including Billy Hicks.

"Sentimental Education" was the winner of a playwriting contest. The general reaction to it was first contempt, then enthusiasm: "If winners are this bad, I should take up playwriting." In view of this, the cast cannot be blamed for their bad performances. Most agreed the scenery was the best part of the play, a sign of life in the usually excellent drama department.

The "beautiful" Rosina is joined in song by Bertha and Brasilio. The results proved the theater group should stick with drama.

Fred Fox steals another scene in his very apt portrayal of Brasilio, the music instructor. He was also the only member of the cast who managed to keep the correct pitch during his songs. Dr. Bartolo had a colorful costume that made his presence on stage known.

Queen Elizabeth behaves quite shrewishly in this Schiller play, for which the actress obviously practiced by sucking lemons. The play is good Schiller for the most part, but the author made the mistake of solving a personal problem with a political situation.

Fairy Puck, athletically played to the hilt by Butch Marino, gives good support to a generally splendid cast. Hermia and Lysander must have stumbled in from another play, but this was far outweighed by Pat Wallace's Helena and the fantasy roles of Oberon and Titania.

Art Department

The University of Arkansas Art Department is a successful participant in the general education program of the College of Arts and Sciences. The objectives of the College of Arts and Sciences are to develop the student both as an individual and as a member of society, and to train him to be a specialist in the scientific or cultural field of his choice. The Art Department carries out its part in this program by offering a wide variety of activities with courses in sculpture, painting, commercial art, graphic arts, art education, and the history of art. The department has for many years influenced the cultural life of its students as well as those at other art centers throughout the state and nation.

Members of the art faculty and students participate in several well-known exhibitions in the United States. The department sends showings and lectures to many parts of the state. With these showings and demonstrations the University Art Department has helped raise the standard of art in Arkansas.

Bruce Williams, art major from San Antonio, Texas, begins work on a collage painting which is representative of the wide range of media used by students enrolled in courses offered by the Art Department.

Ben Bassham, art major from Rogers, and Jan Halbert, art major from Malvern, discuss the merits of a composition in the painting studio.

Sculpture in various stages of completion form an interesting setting in the sculpture studio in the Fine Arts Center. It is not uncommon to find students working overtime in the Center.

Music Department

Charlotte Cherry, music major from Washington, D. C., is an outstanding example of the serious and talented student artists working together in the Fine Arts Center. Charlotte was a member of the orchestra accompanying the University Theatre's, "The Fantasticks."

Dr. Marx Pales, professor of music and director of the University-Fayetteville Symphony, skillfully leads the orchestra in a concert presented in the Concert Hall of the Fine Arts Center. This concert is one of many programs held on the Fayetteville campus each year.

University-Fayetteville Symphony

The symphony orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Marx Pales, is in its fourteenth season at the University of Arkansas. It is sponsored by the University and the people of Fayetteville. This year the orchestra performed such works as the symphonies by Franck and Tschaikowsky, Debussy's "Prelude to an Afternoon of a Faun," and Borodin's "Polovetsian Dances." Roger Widder of the music faculty was featured soloist with the orchestra, giving performances of Eugene Goosen's "Oboe Concerto."

The University-Fayetteville Symphony toured six Arkansas cities in March. They gave concerts for high school students in Fort Smith, Hot Springs, Pine Bluff, Smackover, and Hope. Concerts were given for both high school students and the general public in Crossett. This tour was sponsored by the music department and the Division of General Extension.

The Symphony gave several excellent concerts on the University campus this year.

The University-Fayetteville Symphony gives many fine concerts during the year. Practice by groups of the symphony such as the string bass division are necessary to maintain the standard of these performances.

Everyone seems to enjoy the practice sessions necessary for enrollment in University Chorus. Some actually sing, others open their mouths, all will probably make good grades.

Collegiate Singers and University Chorus

Two of the largest organized groups of singers on the University of Arkansas campus are the University Chorus, which is open to all students at the University, and the Collegiate Singers, a more select group to which many music majors belong. The two groups are directed by Willard Opplinger and Ray Conner. Richard Brothers assisted with these groups during the fall semester.

University Chorus and Collegiate Singers have combined with Schola Cantorum for the past two seasons for a large Christmas choral concert. The recordings of these concerts are sold in record form to provide scholarships for the International Students Organizations. The Christmas Concert which ends the fall semester for the groups is a presentation of carols and religious songs from every country.

University Chorus and Collegiate Singers spend spring semester in preparation for their annual Spring Concert which is presented near the end of the semester.

The Collegiate Singers and University Chorus combine to give several concerts during the fall and spring semesters. Director

Schola Cantorum

The fact that the Schola Cantorum is an excellent singing group has never been questioned at the University of Arkansas. As the most highly selective choral group on campus, it consists mainly of music majors with trained voices. Its frequent concerts in Arkansas and surrounding states, under the direction of Richard Brothers, have always been warmly received.

When the Schola decided two years ago to enter the Guido d'Arezzo International Polyphonic Competition in Arezzo, Italy, there was much opposition.

This came not from the University, but from the State Department. The Schola went to Italy, won the competition and raised considerably the culture of the state in the eyes of the nation.

The Schola Cantorum did not forget the people who had sent them to their victory. The fall and spring semesters were spent preparing for a concert tour of the State. These presentations were appreciated by proud and happy people throughout Arkansas.

President Kennedy invited the members of the Schola to tour the White House after they sang for him in the Rose Garden. The President congratulated the singers, whose success he had announced at an earlier Washington press conference.

University of Arkansas Band

For the fourth straight year the University of Arkansas Band was a featured band in a major bowl game. The "Marching Razorbacks" were no disappointment. Their performance at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans was a fitting climax to a highly successful marching season.

The band's half-time shows, capably directed by Dr. Richard Worthington, delighted Razorback fans and guests. The band played at ten pep rallies on the University campus and three pep rallies in Little Rock. The "Marching Razorbacks" made appearances at many Southwest Conference games.

During the second semester the band prepared for the concert season. Two concerts were presented in the spring semester.

The University can always depend on the Razorback Band's presence at any event which requires or lends itself to good music.

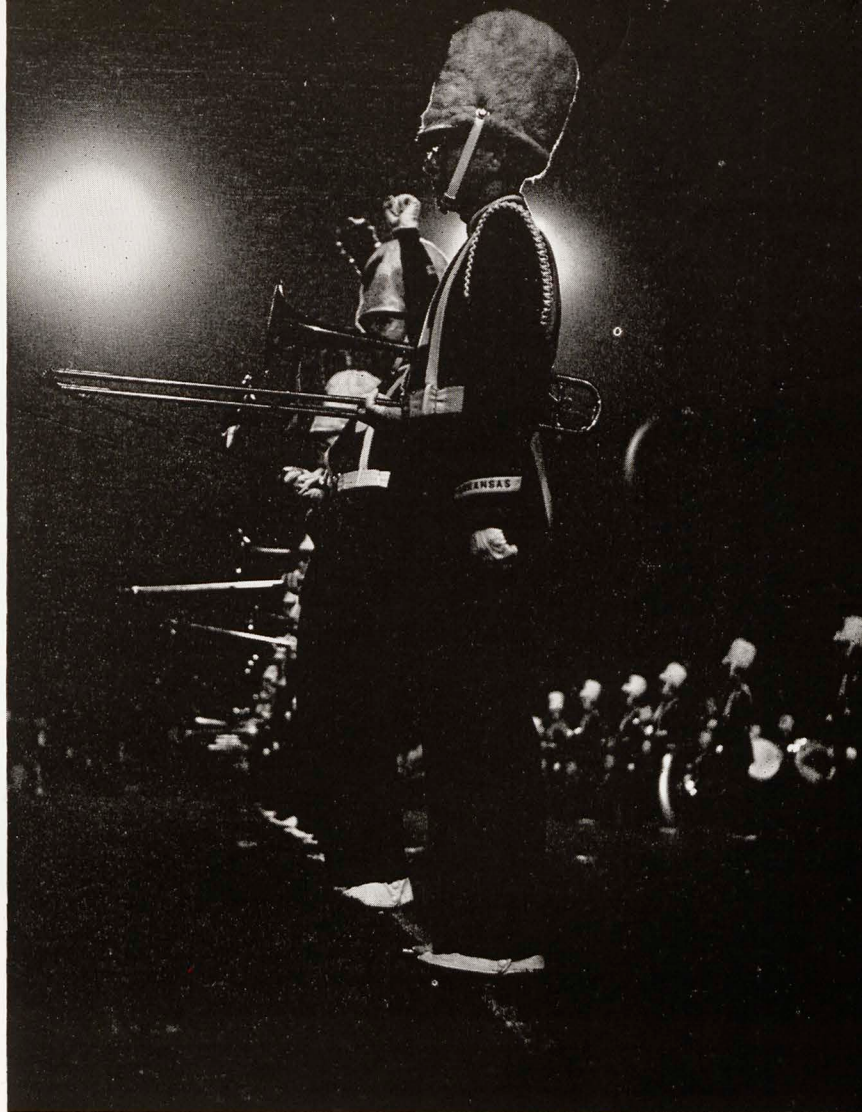

The Razorback Band goes into the familiar "U of A" formation in War Memorial Stadium for the singing of the University Alma Mater.

The Marching Razorbacks take the field in War Memorial Stadium for another of Dr. Richard Worthington's excellent half-time showings.

On almost any crisp fall afternoon the girls in Fulbright Hall can expect to hear the confusion of the Razorback Band in practice. The confusion always seems to fade into a superb show.

The band's preparations for the marching season the past four years have ended in a major bowl game. This year's fitting climax to a successful fall semester came in the Sugar Bowl Classic. The band appeared at parades, breakfasts, on television and at the game.

The Komitas Quartet, the State Quartet of Armenian SSR, visited the University of Arkansas on their first American tour. The group is part of the cultural exchange program between Russia and the U.S.

Guests

This year the students of the University were entertained by several guest performers and lecturers.

The Fine Arts Concert Series featured such performers as the Vegh String Quartet, Elena Nikolaidi, Le Rondeau De Paris, the Komitas Quartet, the Ramat Gan Chamber Orchestra, and William Schatzkamer.

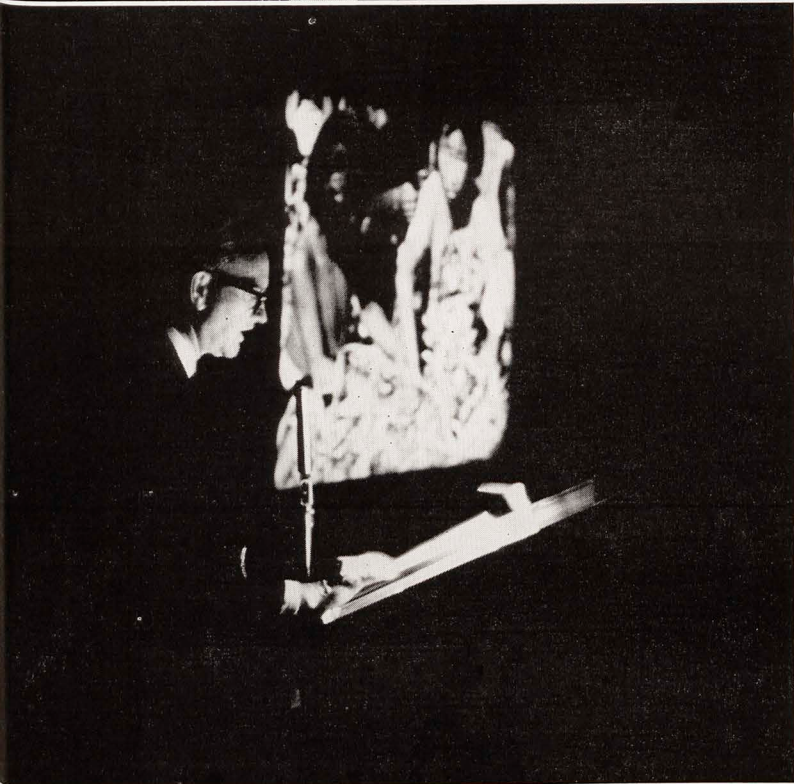

The Distinguished Lecturers Committee arranged lectures by Miss Eudora Welty, John Strohm, and William Lawrence.

Eudora Welty, distinguished novelist, spoke before an overflow crowd at Waterman Hall. Her topic was "Words into Fiction."

Maureen Forrester, a young Canadian contralto, made her American singing debut in 1956. She has since become an acclaimed performer.

William Lawrence, science editor of New York Times, delivers the first lecture in Distinguished Lectures program—"Atoms for Peace."

The Ramat Gan Chamber Orchestra, which has been touring Europe since 1954, is composed of some of Israel's finest musicians.

Final groups and guest to visit the University campus were: The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Izler Solomon; Mr. John Strohm, the only United States newspaperman to visit Communist China with the State Department's approval; and Bill and Pat Medley, concert pianists for the Concert Series.

Chapter Eleven

MILITARY

The military, if one can realistically connect ROTC with the military, is a fact of life for most male students at the University. The degree of unpleasantness depends to a large extent on one's attitude. Most ROTC cadets have a very poor attitude.

Army ROTC

The Army Reserve Officers Training Corps has offered its course of study and training to cadets at the University since 1873. The main purpose of this program is to acquaint students with the role of the present day Army and to prepare them for executive positions in either the regular or reserve Army after completion of the four year course and graduation.

A freshman is instructed in a basic orientation of Army Organization, the role of the Army, and small bore rifle marksmanship. As a sophomore he studies military history, map reading, and small unit tactics.

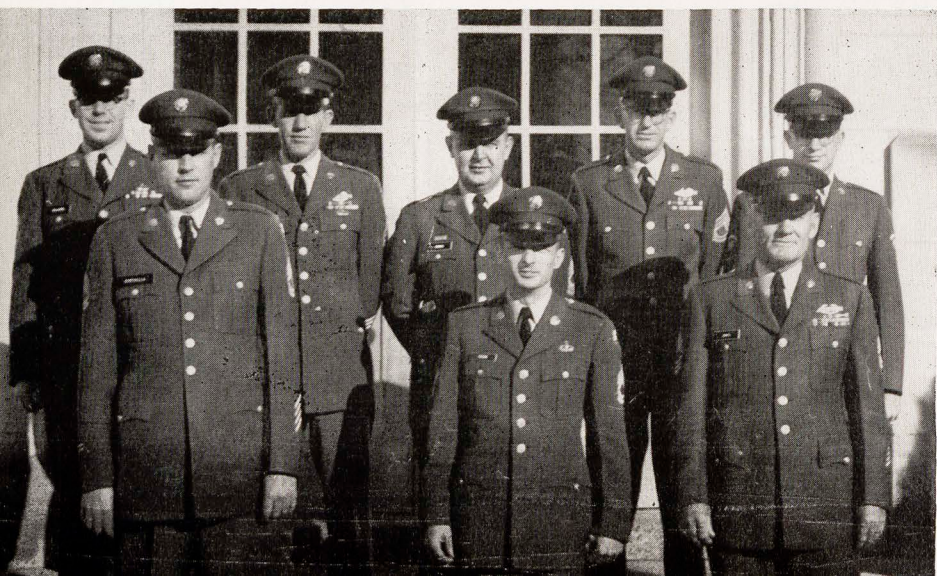

Cadets are selected for the two-year advanced program by a board of officers on the basis of character, leadership, intelligence, aptitude, and alertness. In this program the cadets are taught leadership techniques, advanced tactics, military law, Army administration, and radio communication techniques. Between the junior and senior years the advanced cadets attend a six-week training program at one of the Army's training centers where they receive more intensive instruction under actual field conditions. This experience is applied at the University during the leadership labs and drill periods on Tuesday and Thursday mornings.

With frequent drill sessions, the members of Pershing Rifles remain in practice to serve as honor guard for visitors on University campus.

Pershing Rifles

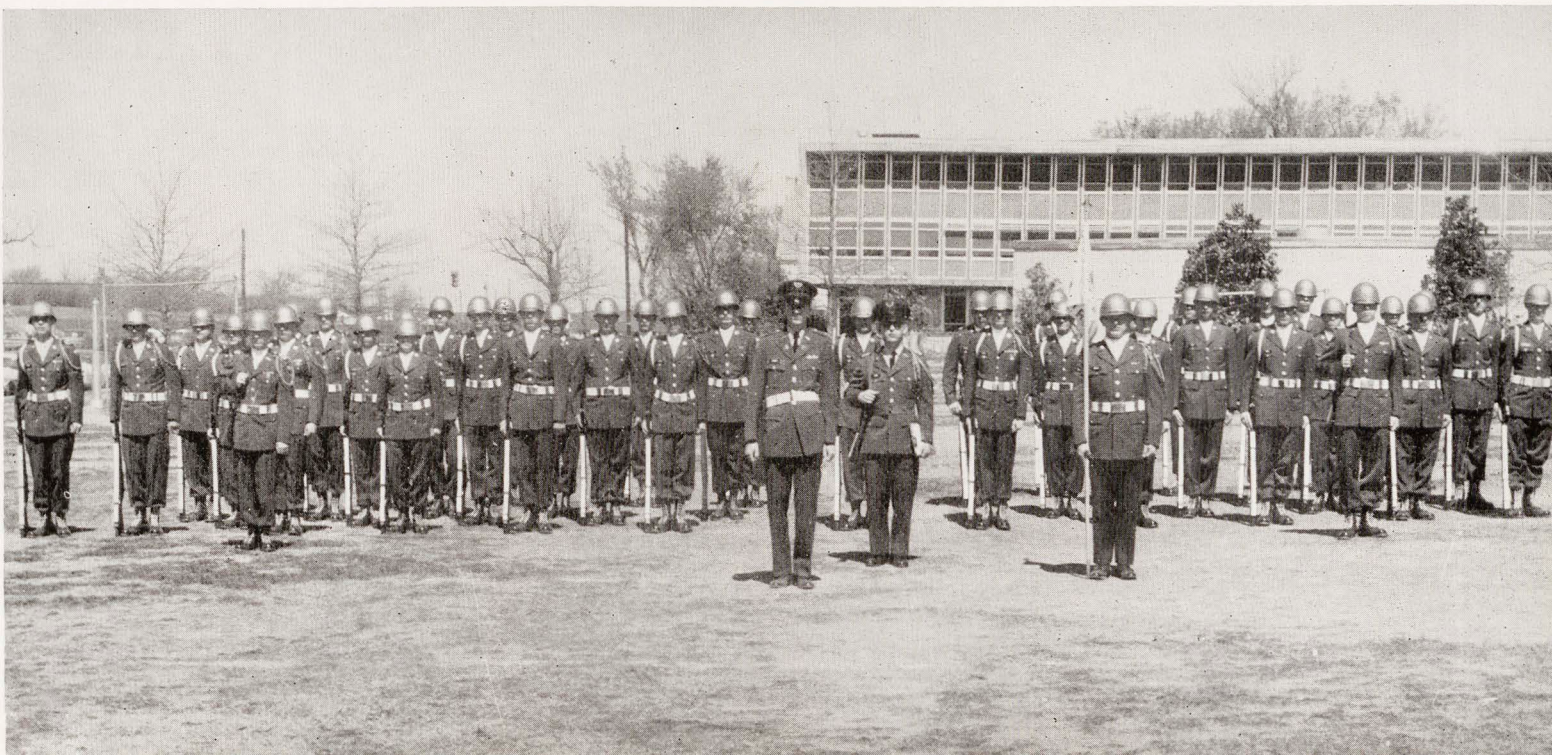

The University of Arkansas company of the Pershing Rifles is an honorary military society for cadets in the basic Army ROTC program. It was founded by General John J. "Blackjack" Pershing, who achieved much of his fame by chasing Pancho Villa back into Mexico in the 1910's and by leading United States Expeditionary Forces into France in 1917. The first Pershing Rifles chapter was founded in 1894. The organization's main purpose is to further military excellence and drill proficiency. Members of this elite group are selected from the freshman and sophomore classes for their qualities of leadership, participation in ROTC activities — such as decoration for the military ball — and performance in the twice-a-week drill periods. Company D of the Seventh Regiment conducts a pledge week for all new candidates in both the fall and spring semesters. During this period the pledges are required to wear their uniforms and carry wooden rifles for each member to sign. In addition, the pledges are required to know all general data pertaining to the organization, both on the national and the University level.

During the year the Pershing Rifles are called upon to serve in many different capacities. They serve as an honor guard for visiting dignitaries and for inspecting officers of the Fourth Army, who make an annual tour of the University ROTC Department.

Air Force ROTC

To attain the AFROTC mission, over eight hundred cadets were given instruction this year at the University of Arkansas "for informed citizenship in the Aerospace Age." The end result of this program is to provide the United States Air Force with well-trained officers, pilots, and navigators.

First year cadets are exposed to a course of study that covers principles of flight, military aviation history, and opportunities on the Aerospace Team. As a sophomore, the cadet is introduced to aerial tactics and man's exploration of space. During this year the cadet is given minor assignments on the drill field to prepare him for possible future responsibilities as a cadet officer.

Cadets are selected for the advanced program on the basis of their successful completion of both the physical and mental examinations, and review by the Air Science Officers Board. As advanced cadets these students are instructed in the techniques of navigation, weather, and the principles of military law. Between their junior and senior years the cadets attend a four-week program of intensive training at a Summer Training unit.

Arnold Air Society

Since its founding in 1947, the Arnold Air Society has grown in national stature as an honorary military society. Its guiding principles are "to further the purpose, mission, tradition, and concepts of the United States Air Force as a means of National Defense; promote American citizenship; and create a close and more efficient relationship among Air Force Officer Training Corps Cadets."

Membership is by invitation to members of the advanced AFROTC cadet corps. There is also a scholarship requirement of a 2.00 overall grade average and a 3.00 average in Air Science courses.

The local squadron sponsors the Drill Team and arranges for its participation in numerous drill competitions and public events in a three state area. New members are pledged to the group in the spring and are rapidly integrated into the many group activities sponsored by the society. These activities include the Band, the Air Police, and the Drill Team.

Learning aloft. AFROTC cadets participated in "Classroom in the Sky".

Military Ball, sponsored by Scabbard and Blade, was well attended by ROTC cadets, dates who responded in unmilitary fashion to rock and roll.

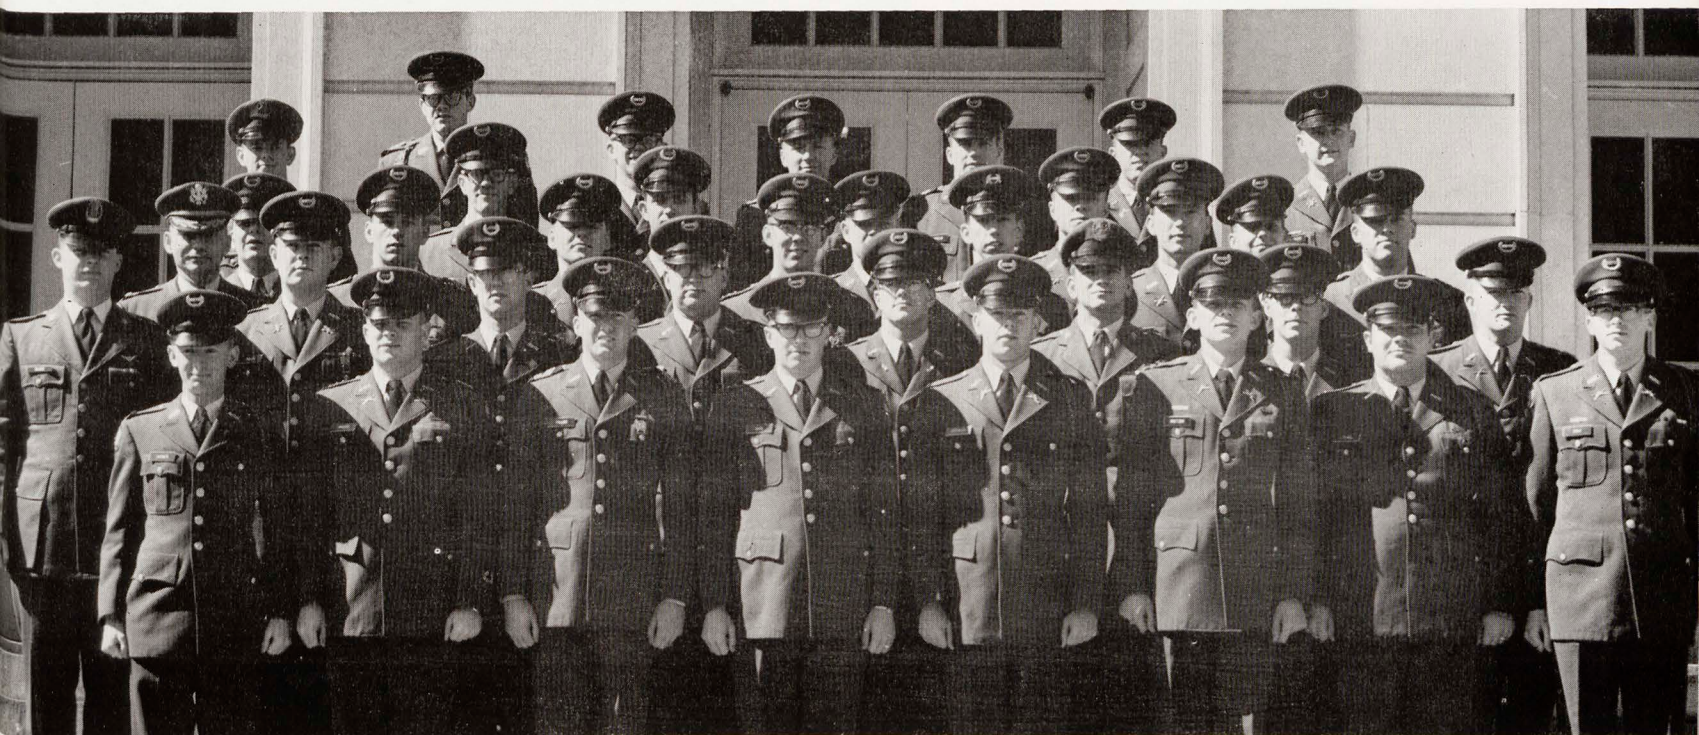

Scabbard and Blade

Scabbard and Blade has its beginning on the campus in 1916 with the establishment of "B" Company of the Second Regiment. This national society is an honorary organization for students enrolled in the advanced course of Army and Air Force ROTC. The members of this group are selected on the basis of leadership, scholarship, and interest in the military program. Their mission is "to raise the military standards in American colleges and universities, to unite a closer relationship between their military departments, to encourage and foster the essential qualities of efficient officers, and to promote friendship among cadet officers."

As in the many years since its establishment on the campus, this group sponsors the Army ROTC Military Ball. They make the arrangements for the band, decorations, and invitations. Scabbard and Blade also forms the traditional saber arch through which the honorary cadet sponsors are presented.

Chapter Twelve

ATIONS

Extra-curricular activities have a place in student life, though exactly where it is has never been determined. There are advantages and disadvantages involved in being active in campus organizations. One disadvantage is that you may never find time to go to class. An advantage is that if you belong to a lot of groups you have a good chance to make Who's Who. Sometimes.

Accounting Association

The accounting association helps its members obtain additional information about the various fields of accounting by inviting a guest speaker to the monthly luncheon meeting. Here, the students can have their questions answered, and are given an opportunity to exchange views on current problems in accounting.

A B C

The Arkansas Booster Club, composed of two members from each organized house on campus, was organized to support the athletic teams and provide the students with well supervised pep activities. The A B C sponsors the pep rallies, Homecoming, and Dad's Day each year. New members serve as pledges for the first semester, and are then extended full membership after this.

Alpha Epsilon Delta

Alpha Epsilon Delta, international pre-medical society, was founded on this campus in 1938. Membership in AED is based primarily on scholarship. The years activities included a tour of the medical center, presenting outstanding guest speakers from the medical field, and presenting the University with a collection of medical texts.

OFFICERS: Jane Kitchens, President; Lackey Moody, Vice President; Lynnah Fisher, Secretary; Kenneth Skillen, Treasurer; Normandie Frigillana, Reporter; Jacob Sacks, Faculty Sponser.

Agri Student Association

A I A

The local chapter of the American Institute of Architecture acts on behalf of the architecture students in helping them learn more about their role in the national group. The national organization is the professional group for the nation's architects, and has a chapter in every state, with headquarters in Washington, D.C. It is the voice and governing body of the architects, and it seeks ways to improve the profession.

First Row: George Teiber, Clark Buchner, Joe Clingan, Charles Contine, Jay Myers, Bill Booth, Derrel Mullins, Earnest Jacks, Faculty Adviser. Second Row: Willard Burks, Douglas Rye, Bill Wilson, Jim Linbarger, Ken Shireman, John Fletcher, John Bankston, Forrest Cox. Third Row: Neal Gray, Marvin Maune, Allan Lilley, Carl Smith, Joe Norcross, Gordon Guest, Edwin Hoggard, David Riggs, Kenneth Herman, John Wright.

Agronomy Club

The Agronomy Club meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. A program of interest in crops and soils is planned for each meeting. A fall and spring outing are planned each year to allow club and faculty members and their families to get to know each other. A cotton picking contest and the sale of seed identification kits are sponsored by the club to raise funds for their activities.

AIEE-IRE

The American Institute of Electrical Engineers, founded in 1884, and the Institute of Radio Engineers, founded in 1912, are joined in their program of maintaining high professional standards in the field of engineering and fostering the necessary qualities of engineers.

AIChE

Chartered on the University Campus in 1935, the local chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, in keeping with its purpose of encouraging interest in the chemical engineering field, holds luncheon meetings bimonthly. Here, the national achievements and problems of chemical engineers are heard and discussed with guest speakers. Also, during the year, smokers are held and the group sets up exhibits.

First Row: Bobby Jones, Randy Bayliss, Margaret Pinkerton, George Reed, Jeff Delezen, Tommy Reames, Ronny Jones. Second Row: Ed Woods, Mike Burns, Alvin Webb, Milo Myers, John Jackson, Joseph Gray, Jerry Johnson.

The American Institute of Industrial Engineers attempts to correlate classroom knowledge with practical industrial processes and problems. The group takes field trips to plants around the state and gives its members advanced statistical information about industrial engineering.

OFFICERS: Bob Crisp, President; Earnest Fant, Vice-President; Conrad Lawson, Secretary; Buck Johns, Treasurer; John Endicott, Social Chairman; Bill Miller, Senior Representative; John Miller, Senior Representative.

OFFICERS: Milo Myers, Master Alchemist; George Reed, Vice-Master Alchemist; Ed Woods Recorder; Phil Spray, Reporter; Gerald Koch, Master of Ceremonies.

Alpha Chi Sigma

Alpha Chi Sigma, a national professional chemistry fraternity, found the local chapter in 1928. Outstanding students in the field of chemistry are honored by membership, and must have completed three semesters of chemistry, while maintaining a good scholastic average. Members of the college section of the fraternity can become affiliated with the professional branch when they graduate. Among its various activities, Alpha Chi Sigma supplies tutors in chemistry.

First Row: Donald Goodner, Milo Myers, George Reed, Philippe Nave. Second Row: Don Roach, Ed Woods, Gerald Koch, Dale Cabiness, Phillip Spray.

OFFICERS: Jan Owen, President; Azalea Baird, Vice-President; Jephrey Phipps, Secretary; Carolyn Lierly, Treasurer; Carol Carter, Historian.

Alpha Lambda Delta

Alpha Lambda Delta was founded at the University of Illinois in 1924 to promote intelligent living and a rich standard of learning and to encourage superior scholastic attainment among freshmen women. It began on the U. of A. campus in 1942. A 3.5 average for the first semester, or a 3.15 accumulative average for the freshman year is required for membership. Activities include a tea for prospective members, tutoring sessions for freshman women, and an information booth at registration.

Alpha Kappa Psi

An honorary commerce fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi honors men who are candidates for a degree in this field. Guest speakers are invited to meetings held during the year, and members are given a chance to learn more about their future profession.

Animal Industry

The Animal Industry Club, an animal husbandry group, is primarily involved in sponsoring judging teams in intercollegiate contests. The club is open to students in the fields of animal and poultry husbandry.

OFFICERS: Curtis J. Bequette, President; Dale G. Brown, Vice-President; Bruce Coleman, Secretary; Dale Pharr, Treasurer; C. A. Ivy, Reporter.

Alpha Zeta

Alpha Zeta is an honorary Agriculture fraternity. The original chapter was founded at Ohio State in 1897, and started at the University in 1917. Its goal is the development of leadership and interest in the agriculture field. The local chapter draws its membership from the upper three classes of the agriculture school. To be chosen for membership, a student needs to display sound character and leadership qualities.

OFFICERS: John Feilke, Chancellor; Fredric Bailey, Censor; Gerald Shook, Scribe; Richard Bell, Treasurer; Edmond Brewer, Chronicler.

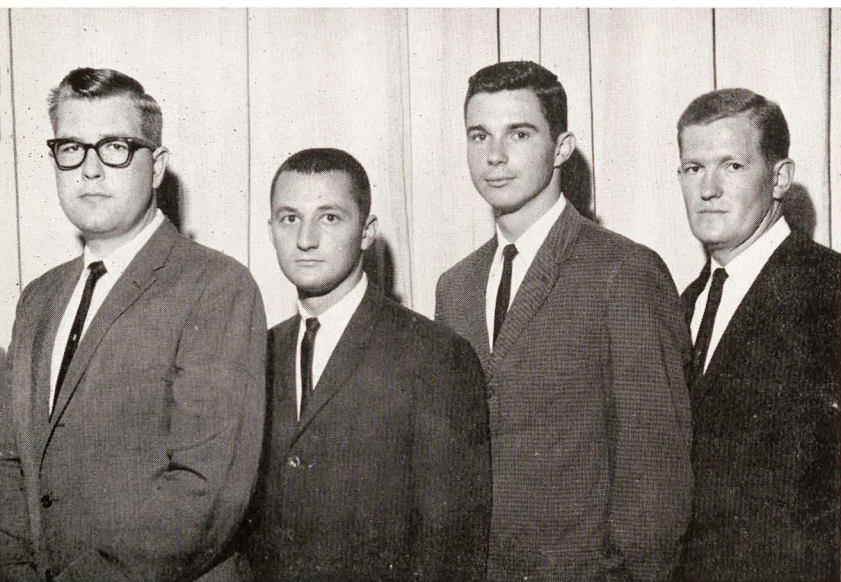

ASAE

The local chapter of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers is active in providing Agri engineers with ideas about the profession, and in giving them a chance to meet and talk with prominent members of the profession. Industrial interviewers visiting the campus, and men within the Department of Agriculture provide the outstanding speakers that are heard at bimonthly meetings of the group.

The American Society of Civil Engineers has a membership of freshmen through seniors, of students majoring in civil engineering. They include guest speakers from varied phases of civil engineering and a chapter trip to Beaver Reservoir Project. Members attended the Mid-South Section Meeting of the ASCE in Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 25, 26, and 27. One member presented a paper in competition with the other student chapters represented.

OFFICERS: Judy Phillips, President; Donna Welhausen, Secretary; Monika Hartstein, Treasurer.

AWS Executive Board

The AWS Executive Board represents and governs the Association of Women Students, which includes all undergraduate women students enrolled in the University. The board is headed by four officers and is composed of the president of the various women's organizations, the dormitory presidents and the chairmen of the various committees on campus. AWS rules the women with what most of the members consider an iron hand.

ASME

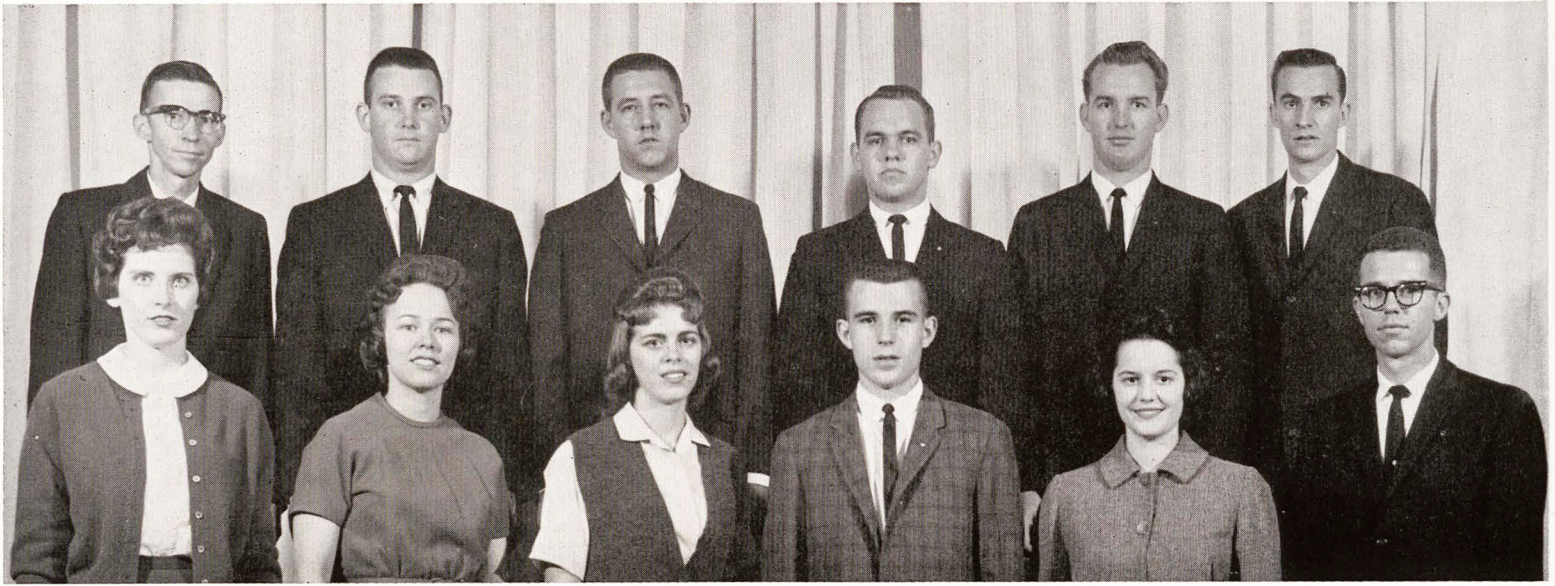

The American Society for Mechanical Engineers, a national organization for professional engineers, was founded in 1880. The ASME, through its program, seeks to broaden the students acquaintanceship with the practical side of mechanical engineering, to make the library facilities of the society available to those interested, and to keep the students informed about engineering progress.

OFFICERS: Larry Jones, President; Sonny W. Pearson, Secretary; Foye W. Penn, Treasurer.

Blue Key

OFFICERS: Mike Thompson, President; George Jernigan, Vice-President; Neil Sloan, Secretary; David Foust, Treasurer; Matthew Rothert, Alumni Secretary.

Beta Alpha Psi

Beta Alpha Psi, the national accounting fraternity, is an honorary scholastic and professional organization whose goal is that of strengthening the accounting profession. In line with this aim, Beta Alpha Psi's local chapter, Alpha Iota, holds a business banquet meeting each month. Guest speakers, outstanding in the accounting profession, highlight these meetings. Scholarship and leadership are the basis for choice in the membership of this fraternity.

First Row: Betty Geurin, Clara Cornelius, Laura Stout, Joe Merrick, Ann Awtry, Kenneth Hankins. Second Row: Herbert Quillen, John Regan, Larry Crain, Owen Pugh, Donald Kyle, Louis Dawkins.

OFFICERS: Owen Pugh, President; Herbert Quillen, Vice-President; Clara Cornelius, Secretary; John Regan, Treasurer.

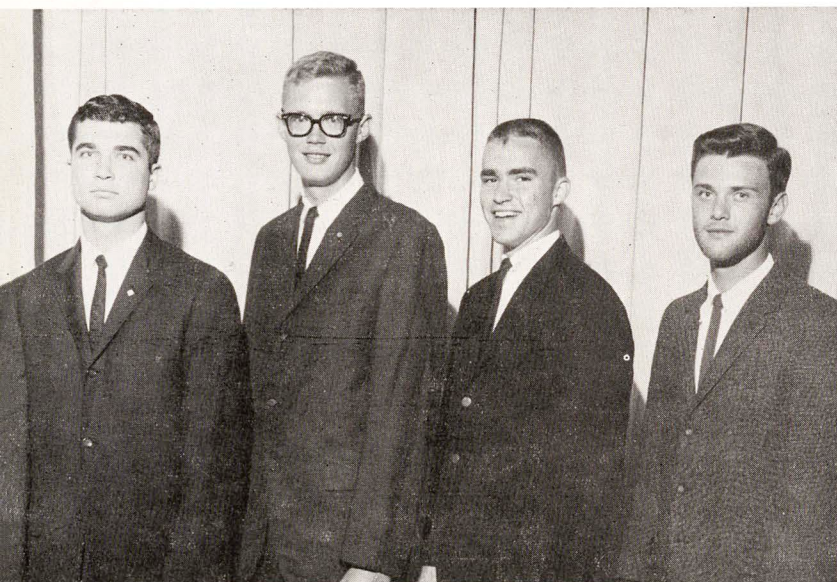

Baptist Student Union

The BSU is the Baptist student's "Church Home Away From Home" while on the University campus. Its purposes are to promote active local church membership, personal devotions, prayer and fellowship.

Cardinal Twenty

Cardinal Twenty, founded in 1960 by Omicron Delta Kappa, is an organization of twenty outstanding men from the previous freshman class. They are selected on the basis of grade point, offices held, athletics, and responsibilities carried out. They assist in freshman orientation and help with registration in the fall and spring.

OFFICERS: Larry Crane, Secretary; Kenneth Holly, William Linam, Treasurer; Douglas Meadows, President; Jerry Rogers, Vice-President.

Chi Epsilon

Alpha Chi Epsilon, a civil engineering honorary fraternity, became associated with the national organization, Chi Epsilon, on January 13, 1962. The Arkansas chapter of Chi Epsilon has established a tutoring service for freshmen and sophomores enrolled in civil engineering. A big brother program was used in the fall, with each charter member assigned five or six underclassmen to whom he gave counsel concerning their academic program.

Chancery Club

Pre-Law students are given an opportunity to hear guest lawyers and judges speak on current topics in the law field, through Chancery Club. It creates for its members a better understanding of the law profession and gives them the chance to discuss aspects of this special field.

Chi Theta

Dedicated to helping women graduates find their place in the world of business, Chi Theta helps the University's undergraduate women become more familiar with the opportunities open to them. Business women speak to the club, discussing their specialty with interested individuals. Chi Theta works in conjunction with the Business Administration college to bring the business world to the campus in an enlightening way.

OFFICERS: Mollie Haley, President; Brenda Heck, Treasurer; Sue Sheet, Corresponding Secretary; Linda Johns, First Vice-President; Sheere Lammers, Second Vice-President; Sheila Dedman, Secretary.

Chimes

Chimes is the newest service group on campus; it is composed of twenty freshman women who are chosen on the basis of their high school records, applications, and personal interviews. The group is sponsored by Mortar Board, and supplies hostesses to visiting dignitaries on campus. The sophomores who formed the club, and who served in an advisory capacity to this year's group are: Sue Ellen Dill, Sharon Harper, Kay Goodwin, Marinell Coe, Mary Ellen Rothe, Dinah Whitley, Barbara Hunter, Sharlette Calhoun, Rita Foster, Beverly Bynum, and Jephrey Phipps.

First Row: Sue Ellen Dill, Marilyn Francis, Connie Clothier, Janie Bennett, Carol Tummy, Claudia Heath, Judy Baldrige, Martha Gadberry, Mary Mack, Sharon Harper. Second Row: Marji Vickers, Cheryl Turner, Dixie McConnell, Colleen McPherson, Alice Barnett, Missy Alford, Carolyn Rawlings, Joanna McGehee, Susan Whitson, Melanie Gurisco, Carolyn Baney.

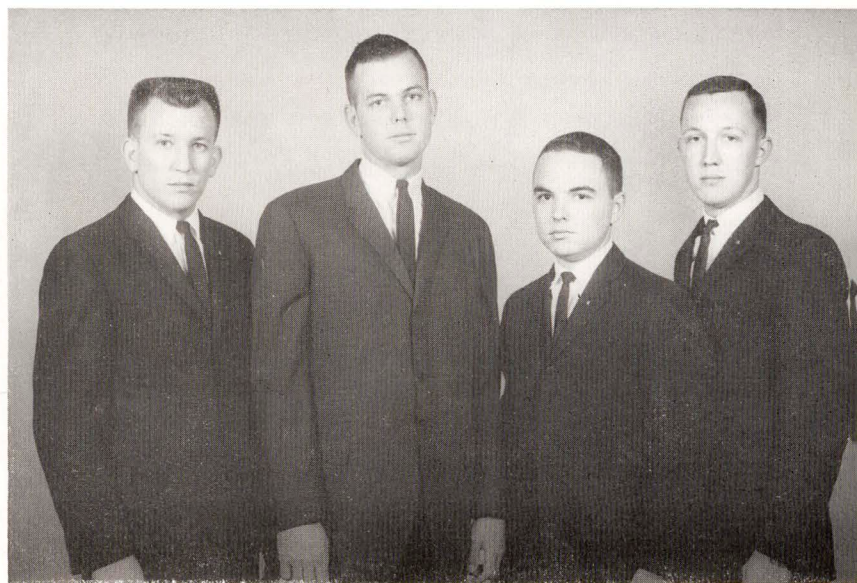

OFFICERS: Sue Ellen Dill, President; Sharon Harper, Secretary.

Circle K

Circle K is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, and the majority of its membership is drawn from men who were in Key Club International in high school. The members work closely with the Kiwanis on community projects.

OFFICERS: John Rains, President; Mickey Mayfield, Vice-President; Jim Hart, Secretary; Don Goodner, Treasurer.

Civic Club

Each housing group on campus elects members of the Civic Club. These people are selected for their contributions to campus activities. Civic Club donates funds to worthwhile state and local charities; these funds are raised from the admission money to Singfony, and from student contributions to the annual Campus Chest drive.

OFFICERS: Buck Johns, President; Charlotte Morris, Secretary; Jerry Cavaneau, Treasurer; Not Present: Lee Bowman, Vice-President.

Commerce Guild

The Commerce Guild is composed of all the members of the College of Business Administration. By working to unite the faculty and students of this college and by bringing in outside speakers, they promote and advertise the aims of business in the life of the campus. "The Business of America and Arkansas is the business of this Guild" could well be its motto.

OFFICERS: John Harris, Treasurer; Mollie Haley, Secretary; Taylor Hurst, Vice-President; Matthew Rothert, President.

Colhecon

Colhecon is made up of students whose future careers lie in home economics and homemaking. It promotes student interest in the homemaking acts and provides advice and professional help in their future plans.

OFFICERS: Pat Stephens, President; Leota Lane, Secretary-Treasurer; Marinell Coe, Reporter. Not Present: Doris Coger, Vice-President; DeAnna Brown, Historian.

Elementary Club

The Elementary Club was founded to foster understanding between teacher and pupils and to instigate the belief that each child is an individual. Membership goes to those individuals who are in the field of elementary education.

Coterie

Coterie is an organization for the independent women, whose purpose is to be of some service to the University and to the students. The immediate goal for Coterie is to raise enough money to present a scholarship to some outstanding sophomore woman at the AWS festival in the spring.

First Row: Patsy White, Patricia Dodgen, Linda Park, Marsha Hudlow, Janna Tull, Judith Nutt. Second Row: Linda Fricker, Patricia Richter, Ann Cooper, Carolyn Qualle, Jolene Pendergrass, Berta Seitz, Regina Rushing.

Engineering Council

Each engineering and technical organization on campus elects representatives to the Engineering Council. They, along with the editor and business manager of the Arkansas Engineer, serve as the governing body for the engineers and try to handle the year's problems. Among other things, they are responsible for Engineers' Week and the rally.

OFFICERS: Buck Jones, President; Wayne Norton, Vice President; Conrad Lawson, Secretary; John Harton, Treasurer.

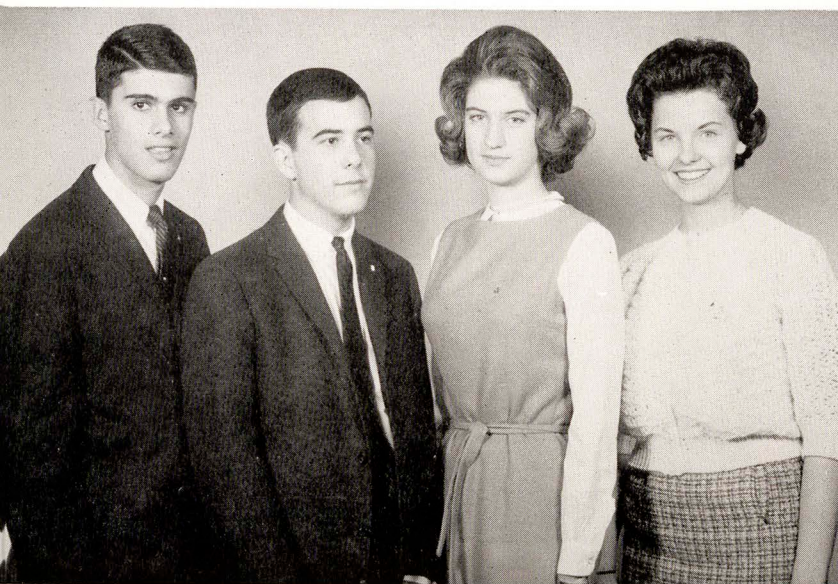

OFFICERS: John Harton, President; Herman Ivester, Vice-President; Toshio Oishi, Secretary; Ed Gass, Treasurer.

Eta Kappa Nu

As the honorary Electrical Engineering Fraternity, Eta Kappa Nu helps to explain and advance the cause of Electrical Engineering. Part of its yearly program includes helping with the state science fair, and offering its members opportunities to learn more about the electrical engineering field at monthly meetings. Membership is composed of juniors and seniors in Electrical engineering with high grade averages.

OFFICERS: Chris Polycron, President; Jim Wellons, Vice-President; Frances Deane, Secretary; Susan Branigan, Treasurer.

Interfraternity Pledge Council

The Interfraternity Pledge Council is composed of two representatives from the pledge class of each sorority and fraternity on the campus. It serves as a directive and administrative body to encourage cooperation between all the pledge classes.

Lion Oil Company—a member of the huge Monsanto Chemical family—derives strength from a complex of research laboratories, oil fields here and abroad, 'round-the-clock refineries and chemical plants, 3500 people.

These people and these physical resources are dedicated to bettering our products and markets—and to the discovery of new ones.

Look to Lion—major producer of gasolines, lubricants, asphalts, and more than 150 other petroleum products for industry and agriculture.

Your Alumni Association is on the Move
And We Want YOU In On It, Too.

There is a new excitement among graduates and former students of the university — an excitement over the realization that their years in college have formed the basis for current and future successes and growing opportunities.

Gratefully more and more Alumni are joining as active members in support of the programs of the Association. Scholarships, Outstanding Faculty Awards, Library Purchases, and Departmental Grants are among the projects now existing.

But much more is needed. The vital functions of a University, those functions not supported by taxes, must be provided for you and those to come. And more and more Alumni — not only here, but in all universities and colleges across the nation — are being called upon to help make a great university greater.

Following graduation all seniors are given a year's free active membership in the Association. When you have graduated will you please seek, or better still, demand to know what you might do for your University through . . .

In tune with the times!

Science has launched us into the Age of Space. For the student, the door has been opened to broader knowledge and deeper preparation for life's fulfillment. For the Potlatch people, the Space Age means new ideas, progressive application of know-how, expanded research and the development of newer, more serviceable products from the forest. When you have graduated into the workaday world and are ready to build your home you can be sure there will be a great variety of beautiful new wood products that will give your home the warmth, grace and charm a home should have. You can be sure, too, that many of those wonderful new products will bear the Potlatch name!

In tune with the times!

Science has launched us into the Age of Space. For the student, the door has been opened to broader knowledge and deeper preparation for life's fulfillment. For the Potlatch people, the Space Age means new ideas, progressive application of know-how, expanded research and the development of newer, more serviceable products from the forest. When you have graduated into the workaday world and are ready to build your home you can be sure there will be a great variety of beautiful new wood products that will give your home the warmth, grace and charm a home should have. You can be sure, too, that many of those wonderful new products will bear the Potlatch name!

The Stool at the End of the Bar

by Doug Smith

And here I am, just as I promised back in the publications section. If you haven't read the publications section, go back and do it or you'll miss my train of thought. Some people can't do anything right.

Ah, that's better. Now we can chat. After I order another one, that is. (Watch the head this time, Bob.)

I am feeling nicely, thank you, now that the work is over and I am once more ensconced on my old seat down at the end of the bar, so I may as well start off by talking about people I like. It is a brief list and I will try to refrain from being overly sentimental.

R. C. Walker and Gene McRae over at Southwestern Engraving Company are the two nicest Republicans I know. I give them full permission to use my name to future editors as a perfect example of how not to put out a yearbook.

The people down at The Hurley Company in Camden are nice, too: Wallace Hurley, Tom Walker, Irving Lyons and all the rest who assisted in the Herculean task of getting this book printed.

Arnil Snow has been my best friend for sometime. Although he was not directly involved in the production of this book, I feel I should express my gratitude to him and his lovely wife, Judy, for the many times they allowed me to impose on them when the strain of working on the Razorback became too great. Besides that, Snow gave me my start on campus publications back when he was editor of the Traveler. And besides that, I said some things about Snow in last year's book that he considered a little unkind. There, does that do it, Arnil?

While we're talking about married friends and impositions, I have to mention Douglas and Mollie Wilson. Everything I said about the Snows applies to them, except that they were directly involved in the production of the book, Douglas serving as associate editor and Mollie as editorial assistant (a euphemism for typist).

Dolly McAdams is a wonderful girl. None of the things last year's editor said about her are true.

That's about all the good will I can stand at one time. Let's talk about something else for awhile. Like this book.

I'm not sure what people will think about this book. I'm not even sure what I think about it; I've lived with it too long to be objective. I do know there are a few things in it that will cause comment. I may as well say right now — not apologizing, just explaining — that I have never felt the Razorback was intended to be a public relations brochure, or that it should be edited to please future or former students. A yearbook, in my humble opinion, is put out for the enjoyment of the current student body. They're paying for it.

The cover of this book was designed by Garry Carroll, another one of my associate editors. A small sampling of those who have seen it revealed some sharp differences of opinion. All I will say is that you're not supposed to look for any particular symbolism in it ("What's that red thing supposed to be?"). It is a free-form design and Garry likes it real well. Garry, incidentally, does not want anything said about him being mostly a Sigma Nu. So I won't say anything about it.

Whatever merit this book has is due primarily to the efforts of Johnny Woodruff, a very good little photographer. Like myself, Johnny had some unsettling experiences during the year but we both managed to pull through without coming completely unglued.

The feature section, which is the one most people read, was written partly by Sam Park and partly by me. I wish Sam had written more of it; he has a certain flair for things like that. But Sam has a lot of irons in the fire — this spring he finally won an election. He is a sweet guy, though.

Professor William J. Good provided most of the old pictures in the opening section, for which he has my thanks. I should have included him back there when I was talking about people I like.

Kay Hafenbrak and Bill Kidder, next year's editors, accompanied me to Camden for the final work on the book. They are a strange pair to be harnessed together as co-editors, Kay's energy contrasting sharply with Kidder's indolence, but they will probably do all right. They should at least be able to profit from my mistakes.

Well, enough about the book. You've got it; form your own opinion. Now let's talk about this school.

I said earlier that I didn't think the Razorback was meant to be a propaganda booklet. Neither is it meant to be a catalogue of the University's shortcomings. I am speaking now not as the editor of the Razorback, but as one who has spent five years (five good years, for the most part) on this campus and has kept his eyes open at least part of the time. Any criticism is of a constructive nature. Having gotten all that out of the way, I can now mention a few of the things that have been bothering me:

(1) Football — Nice, but a situation where the football coach's salary is more than twice as large as a full professor's seems a little inequitable. I know all the arguments about football bringing money into the University, and it still seems inequitable.

(2) Social regulations — Improving a little, maybe. The AWS ruling on apartment parties was a step in the right direction, but there is still a long way to go. A University's function is not the regulation of social activities. This is not a plea to turn the UofA into a party school; quite the contrary, I am for higher academic standards. But it is difficult to convince a student he should take a mature attitude toward his studies when he is treated like a kid in every other respect. "Give 'em hell in the classroom and let 'em alone outside it," I say.

(3) Controversy, or the lack of it — I predict that the most unpopular thing in this book as far as the administration is concerned will be the Halls division page. The administration seems to feel that controversy has no place on a college campus. My feeling is that there is no better place for controversy, and that an educational institution not promoting a certain amount of discontent is not doing its job. An example of the kind of thing I am talking about happened last year when it was decided that political speakers would not be allowed to appear on campus. Jimmy Jones, Traveler editor-elect at the time, fought the ruling editorially.

As expected, Jones lost, and a lot of people thought he had to pay a high price for the right to disagree. Jimmy and I suffered through the publications elections together last spring, and when he didn't get the chance to serve his term I think I felt it more deeply than anyone except Jimmy himself. He would have been a very good editor.

I really should be going now, but I just thought of some mode people I like: the Traveler staff. Norvell (who may yet bring back vaudeville), the Trimble, Benny, Chi Chi (of "Arreverderci, Chi Chi" fame), Ann, Marian and the rest who not only allowed me to loaf in their office in recognition of my status as Traveler associate editor (ret.), but also invited me to their staff party — a decision they later regretted.

I would also like to express my thanks to the many, many girls who turned down my proposals of marriage during the year without laughing in my face. This group includes most of the female staff members of the Razorback and the Traveler plus a few others that I just happened to run into on-campus. They were all very gracious about the whole thing. (With the exception of Hafenbrak, who told me she wasn't going to come in the office any more if I didn't quit falling on one knee while she was trying to work on the index. There is no romance in Hafenbrak's soul. I'm sure she will have no trouble meeting the deadlines next year.)

Now I think I have exposed myself enough for one day. I hope you like the book. If you have anything to say to me, you know where I'll be.

The 1963 Razorback was printed and bound by the Hurley Company of Camden, Arkansas. The cuts are 133-line copper engravings by Southwestern Engraving Company of Tulsa, Oklahoma. The cover was manufactured by the Durand Company, of Chicago, Illinois. Printing is by letterpress on 80 lb. Warren's Lustro Gloss paper. Heads are set in 36 point and 24 point Bodoni Bold. Body copy is set in 10 point Bodoni Book. Identification group cutlines are in 8 point Bodoni Book and individual cutlines are in 9 point Spartan and Spartan Bold. Feature cutlines are set in 8 point Spartan.
